

Management Services: A Magazine of Planning, Systems, and Controls

Volume 1 | Number 1

Article 3

3-1964

About the Authors

American Institute of Certified Public Accountants

Follow this and additional works at: <https://egrove.olemiss.edu/mgmtservices>

Part of the Accounting Commons

Recommended Citation

American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (1964) "About the Authors," Management Services: A Magazine of Planning, Systems, and Controls: Vol. 1: No. 1, Article 3.

Available at: <https://egrove.olemiss.edu/mgmtservices/vol1/iss1/3>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by eGrove. It has been accepted for inclusion in Management Services: A Magazine of Planning, Systems, and Controls by an authorized editor of eGrove. For more information, please contact egrove@olemiss.edu.

about the authors

CLARK SLOAT, CPA, is a partner of Price Waterhouse & Co. in New York City, where he has worked in management advisory services since 1951. He has been a member of the firm since 1935 except for a period of war service when he was assistant director, Fiscal Division,

Office of the Surgeon General, U. S. Army. Mr. Sloat is a member of the American Institute of CPAs and has contributed to numerous professional and business publications. ARTHUR B. TOAN, JR., CPA, is partner in charge of management advisory services at Price Waterhouse & Co., New York City. Mr. Toan is a member of the AICPA management services committee and was formerly chairman of the committee on electronic accounting. He is also a member of the Society for the Advancement of Management and is on the planning council of the American Management Association.

He is also a member of the Society for the Advancement of Management and is on the planning council of the American Management Association.

ROBERT N. ANTHONY is a professor of business administration at the Harvard Business School and is president of the Management Analysis Center, Inc. He is a member of the Institute of Management Sciences and a former member of the Harvard Business Review Board. Professor Anthony is the author of several books dealing with management problems and was editor of Automatic Data Processing in 1956.

Professor Anthony is the author of several books dealing with management problems and was editor of Automatic Data Processing in 1956.

ROBERT M. SMITH, editor of MANAGEMENT SERVICES, has for the past two years been managing editor of The Journal of Accountancy. Before that, he was editorial director of Geyer-McAllister Publications and editor of that organization's Administrative Management. He has collaborated on several books on automation and systems improvement, and recently wrote the sections on automation and computers for the forthcoming American edition of the Oxford Encyclopedia.

SIDNEY I. NEUWIRTH is manager of operations research at Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery, New York City. He is currently preparing a book, Operations Research for Management, for the Reinhold Book Division and is the author of many magazine articles as well as a frequent speaker before professional organizations. Mr. Neuwirth is a member of the Institute of Management Science, the Operations Research Society of America, the American Society for Quality Control, the American Statistical Association, and the Institute of Mathematical Statistics. MICHAEL SHEGDA is director of research and development, management consulting services, of Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery, in New York, and is a principal of the firm. He was a lecturer in the American Institute professional development course, "An Introduction to ADP."

EDWARD B. COCHRAN is director of management services for the Sierra Capital Company in San Francisco. He has conducted a number of American Management Association seminars and was a lecturer in statistics at the University of Southern California Graduate School of Business Administration. Mr. Cochran's articles have appeared in several professional magazines.

ROBERT E. SCHLOSSER, CPA, is associate professor of accountancy at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill. From 1959 to 1962 he was a member of the accounting and office equipment committee of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and was a former member of the management services committee of the Illinois State Society of CPAs. His articles have included "Accounting System Review Techniques" and "System Mechanization and the Small Practitioner" in The Journal of Accountancy.

DONALD C. BRUEGMAN is assistant controller of the University of Cincinnati. He is the co-author with Gerald D. Brighton of "Institutional Accounting—How It Differs From Commercial Accounting" in the October 1963 issue of Accounting Review. He is a member of the American Accounting Association and of the Association of College and University Auditors.

THEODORE ANDREYCHUK, Ph.D., is head of the department of psychology at Texas Technological College, Lubbock. Dr. Andreychuk is a member of the American Psychological Association and several other professional associations. He was formerly a management consultant at Roher, Hibler & Repogle, a firm of psychologists serving as consultants to management. This article is based on a speech delivered in a staff training program at Haskins & Sells.

WILLIAM E. ARNSTEIN, CPA, is partner in charge of management services of S.D. Leidesdorf & Co., New York City. He is currently a member of the management services committee of the American Institute of CPAs. Mr. Arnstein is chairman of the management advisory services committee of the New York State Society of CPAs and is a member of the Society for the Advancement of Management.

EDGAR A. MACK is a management consultant in the New York office of S.D. Leidesdorf & Co. He is presently associate director of the New York Chapter of the National Association of Accountants. Before joining Leidesdorf, he worked in industry as a consultant. Mr. Mack has been a frequent speaker before civic and business groups.