MOTHER MISSISSIPPI

Girdled 'round with grandeur,
Crowned with singing stars,
Rainbowed with a future,
Not a shadow mars.

Mother Mississippi,
Proud and peerless state,
Here's a tribute to you,
Good and true and great.

May your sons and daughters,
Till the end of time,
Wreathe your brow with laurels,
Frame your name in rhyme.

Love and serve and shield you,
Keep you good and great,
Mother Mississippi,
Proud and peerless state.

MONUMENT ERECTED AT THE BIRTH PLACE OF THE STATE OF MISSISSIPPI ON MAY 14, 1935

The above is a half-tone illustration of the beautiful marble memorial erected, by order of the Legislature of Mississippi, (see Section 1, Chapter 1, Laws of Mississippi, 1934) by the Monument Commission, composed of Sennett Conner, Governor, Chairman; Dr. Dunbar Rowland, Director of the Department of Archives and History, Secretary; and Walker Wood, Secretary of State of Mississippi.

An appropriation of $2,000.00 was provided by the Legislature for this purpose, and after due investigation and consideration of various bids from marble manufacturers throughout the State, the work of manufacturing and erecting this beautiful monument was awarded jointly to the Columbus Marble Company, Columbus, Mississippi, and the A. J. Martin Marble Company of Vicksburg, Mississippi, at and for the sum of $1800.00.

Being erected according to contract, this monument was dedicated on May 14, 1935, with appropriate ceremonies.

Later the Monument Commission made contract with the A. J. Martin Marble and Granite Works, Jackson, Mississippi, for the proper enclosure of the monument site, and this work is at this time, February, 1936, in course of completion.

This monument is erected on the site of the "Old Brick Church," an illustration of which appears in this edition of the Mississippi Blue Book. This old church, long since destroyed, was occupied by the First Constitutional Convention of Mississippi, and was used for a meeting place of the First Legislature of Mississippi.

"THE OLD BRICK CHURCH"—WASHINGTON, MISS.

This Church was erected in 1816, was used as first Statehouse of Mississippi. Mississippi's first Constitution of 1817 was written and adopted here, and the first legislature of the new State was convened here. Aaron Burr's preliminary trial for treason was held under two huge oaks that stood nearby.

FIRST CAPITOL BUILDING

Today but a historic memory, Mississippi's State House, or Capitol, was a small brick building which stood where the Harding Building now stands at the corner of Capitol and President Streets. It was here that Robert J. Walker, a Mississippian who achieved national fame, was elected to the United States Senate. Andrew Jackson spoke in it when a candidate for President of the United States.

OLD CAPITOL BUILDING

Aside from its value as a historic landmark, the Old Capitol possesses intrinsic value as a piece of architecture of harmonious outline and admirable proportions. Built in 1840, it was the scene of stormy debate and fateful decisions during the Civil War and reconstruction periods. The Legislature of 1916 at the instance of the Women's patriotic organizations of the state appropriated money for the restoration of the exterior and the remodeling of the interior as offices to accommodate departments of the state government.

NEW CAPITOL BUILDING

This domicile of Mississippi's government is admittedly one of the handsomest capitol buildings in the entire Union. Built of Bedford limestone and containing every type of marble used for interior decoration, this structure, at a period when graft in public buildings was epidemic throughout the country, was built within the appropriation of one million dollars, without graft and without the sale of bonds or the increase of the tax levy.

"SPRINGFIELD"

Where General Andrew Jackson was married to his beloved Rachael Robard. "Springfield" is on the Old Natchez Trace.

"THE BRIARS"

It was here that Jefferson Davis, Confederate Chieftain, was married to Varina Banks Howell, the first lady of the Confederacy.

STATE FLOWER OF MISSISSIPPI

Biennial Report Secretary of State

Office of the Secretary of State

Hon. Hugh White, Governor of the State of Mississippi, and Members of the Mississippi Legislature.

Gentlemen :

I have the honor to submit for your consideration, and in compliance with law, a report of the business transacted by this Department during the fiscal biennium from July 1, 1935, to June 30, 1937, inclusive. Elsewhere you will find a table showing the foreign and domestic capital that has been organized within or admitted to the State within said biennium; also a table showing the total cash receipts of the Secretary of State's office during the same period, together with other tables showing individual sources of these receipts, to-wit: charter fees, notary public commission fees, Blue Sky permit fees, and miscellaneous fees and receipts from the sale of laws, Supreme Court Reports, etc.

A table is also shown, making a comparison of the total capitalization of both domestic and foreign corporations for the past four quadriennial periods, to-wit:

From July 1, 1921 to June 30, 1925.....	$ 59,399,810
From July 1, 1925 to June 30, 1929.....	$1,583,813,755
From July 1, 1929 to June 30, 1933.....	$ 954,175,166
From July 1, 1933 to June 30, 1937.....	$1,900,501,583

It will be observed from the foregoing four quadriennial periods that the total domestic and foreign authorized capitalization for the past four years is the largest of any four-year period quoted, and approximately double the total amount of the preceding quadriennial period. It might be added here, also, that total authorized capital of both foreign and domestic charters for the biennium covered by this report is far in excess of the total for the preceding biennium of 1933-1935.

OFFICE WORK

The foregoing increase in the corporation division, together with the 25 per cent increase in the total cash receipts, reflects the steady annual increase in the work of handling the corporations, blue sky department, laws, commissions, election returns, public printing, and the constantly increasing volume of routine business, as the years pass. In fact, during the last three or four bienniums the work of the Secretary of State's department has increased at least 50 per cent, and the clerical work has increased beyond that percentage—to such an extent that an efficient filing clerk, at a salary of $150.00 per month, is an imperative need.

The Department also needs an appropriation of at least $1,000.00 with which to provide adequate additional filing cases for the card index system of domestic corporations, and other needed improvements in the Department. Also another imperative need of this Department is the replacement of a number of old typewriters with new ones and the reconditioning of the others. The typewriters in this department are, as to term of service, from nine to twenty-two years old, and are inefficient for the requirements made of them. An appropriation of at least $750.00 is sorely needed for this purpose.

ADDITIONAL OFFICE SPACE

During the past few years the increased business of the State Departments has made the question of adequate office space in the Capitol buildings a problem for the Capitol Commission to deal with. At the present time every available office is occupied and committee rooms and hall ways have been pressed into service, in order to provide office and storage space. More store room is also badly needed by a number of departments.

Every available nook and corner has been partitioned off in the two capitol buildings, to provide storage space for records, books, papers, etc.

At this time there are a number of departments of government renting office space in the business district of Jackson.

There is a building on the northern end of the Old Hospital site that is fireproof and practically new, and can be arranged at reasonable cost as an office building and to store away systematically records of all departments. This would relieve congested conditions in the capitol buildings, house the departments that are now paying rent for quarters, house other departments or boards, and store valuable records that are shoved in any space that can be found, without care or system.

CAPITOL BUILDINGS

The New Capitol has been in use for the past thirty-four years and the Old Capitol was remodeled and put in good condition in 1916. The appropriations for the up-keep of the buildings and grounds in the past have been small.

At the 1934 session of the Legislature there was appropriated $200,000.00 to be used in repairing, re-decorating and improving the buildings in which the state institutions are located, and the Capitol buildings and Mansion. This appropriation was made contingent on the Federal Government matching the amount dollar for dollar for this work. The conditions were met and the State Repair Commission, composed of the Governor, Attorney General and Secretary of State, allocated for repair work on the Capitol Buildings $21,076.55, and under Senate Bill 450, Chapter 58, Laws of 1934 provided a fund of $5,500.00 on the Capitol Building contingent upon the ERA matching this fund, which was complied with. A total fund of $26,576.55 was turned over to the FERA which they matched and disbursed through their organization. An audit of the disbursement of these funds shows that the Federal Government spent on these projects $29,692.85 and the State $26,576.55. The Capitol Buildings, and Mansion were placed in good condition and with a reasonable upkeep fund the buildings should give 15 or 20 years of service before another general repair and re-decorating will be necessary. A full and complete report of the expenditures on the Capitol Buildings and Mansion, was filed with the State Repair Commission and Auditor.

During the month of May, 1937, a fire originated on the third floor of the Old Capitol, due to defective and overloaded wiring, which fire caused a damage in loss of files, damage to building and repair work, of more than $1,000.00, besides the inconvenience caused. The Capitol Commission requested an inspection and checking of wiring at the Old Capitol, and this was made by the State Rating Bureau, which agency pronounced the electric wiring at this building both defective and overloaded. The wiring at the New Capitol has also become badly overloaded, because of the annually increasing demands made upon it.

For this purpose, we need at least $2,000.00 to care for the electrical work at both capitols.

The Old Capitol is in imperative need of a new roof, and for this purpose, and capping of outside walls of same, we need an appropriation of not less than $2,000.00.

The Capitol grounds are in as good condition as could be expected without the services of a gardener to direct their upkeep and superintend and police the grounds. The State has a great deal of valuable shrubbery and trees, especially at the New Capitol, and a horticulturist is needed and recommended for this purpose, who could also look after the superintendency and policing to protect the trees and shrubbery from trespassers. An additional $500.00 is needed for tree surgery and fertilizers.

At the Old Capitol, there are only three porters. The janitor work there now requires the full time of these three men. Handling the mail and shipping for the departments at the Old Capitol requires practically the full time of one man, and a messenger to look after the mailing and shipping and other needs of the departments there is needed and recommended.

STATE PRINTING

At the 1932 session, the Legislature cut the appropriation for Public Printing for the biennium of 1932-1933 to just fifty per cent of prior biennial appropriations for this purpose, that particular appropriation amounting to only $40,000.00 for the two years, against the sum of $80,000.00 for former bienniums, to supply the printing and binding needs of various state departments. Due to NRA requirements, and general advance of everything, the price of labor, inks, paper, and all items required to make up the finished printed product, the appropriation of $40,000.00 proved entirely inadequate, and was exhausted early in the year 1933. The Governor, complying with the urgent requests of the State Board of Public Contracts, found it necessary to issue emergency authority for additional orders by the Board of Contracts for printing amounting to $25,000.00.

At the 1934 session, the Legislature made an appropriation of $50,000.00 to cover the needs of public printing for the various departments, and this appropriation proved inadequate, and notwithstanding that a policy of strict business economy was pursued by both the State Board of Public Contracts and the departments served, there resulted a deficit of more than $18,000.00 in the printing fund for that biennium.

At the 1936 session, the Legislature did not increase the public printing appropriations, notwithstanding the foregoing unavoidable deficits, but placed it at $50,000.00, and as a consequence, the Governor has already issued an emergency authority for additional orders for necessary printing, in the amount of approximately $20,000.00 for the present biennium.

As in the past, the future policy will be one of economy, but due to the continued growth of business and activities of the various departments served through the public printing funds, and further due to the advanced prices of skilled labor, and the cost of stock and other material that enter into the production of printing, I recommend, instead of an appropriation of $50,000.00 that same be increased to $75,000.00, which is consistent with what has been spent for general printing during the past two bienniums, and that for printing supreme court reports and personal and land rolls the appropriations remain unchanged.

Mississippi Capitals and Statehouses

A brief history of Mississippi's capitals and statehouses, or capitols, might prove interesting to many citizens of this state, and more especially to the younger citizens and youth of the commonwealth.

The territory later occupied by the State of Mississippi was created as a territorial form of government under the name of the Mississippi Territory by an Act of Congress, April 7, 1798, with Winthrop Sargent as the first territorial governor.

The seat of government of a state or territory is usually defined as the place at which the legislature or general assembly convenes, and unless fixed by the constitution, might be moved by legislative authority. The first legislature of the new Territory of Mississippi met at Natchez on September 22, 1800. On February 1, 1802, the seat of territorial government was moved from Natchez and established permanently at Washington, a few miles east of Natchez.

On March 1, 1817, Congress passed an Act to enable the people of the Mississippi Territory to form a Constitution and a State government, and for the admission of such State into the Union. This first constitutional Convention met in the Methodist church at Washington on July 7, 1817, with forty-seven delegates present, representing fourteen counties. This Methodist church was the first brick church erected in what was then known as the southwest territory, and has long since come to be remembered as "The Old Brick Church," a half-tone reproduction of which appears in this copy and former issues of the Mississippi Blue Book.

On August 15, 1817, after thirty-eight days of deliberation, the Convention adopted the first Constitution of the proposed new State of Mississippi. David Holmes and Duncan Stewart were elected the first Governor and Lieutenant Governor, respectively. They were elected on August 16th of the same year.

The first legislature met in the city of Natchez, but on account of the prevalence of yellow fever in that city at the time, Governor Holmes issued his proclamation for the legislature to meet in the town of Washington on the first Monday of October, 1817. Thos. Barnes was the first Speaker and Peter A. Van Dorn, the first Clerk.

Another session of the legislature was held in the town of Washington, also because of the prevalence of yellow fever at Natchez but the sessions, in the main between 1817 and 1822 were held at Natchez. In the meantime, sentiment had crystallized in favor of establishing a permanent seat of government at or near the center of the then new State, and on November 28, 1821, an Act was passed designating Col. Thos. Hinds, William Latimore and Peter Van Dorn as a Commission to view out and locate a permanent seat of Government, the Federal Government having ceded to Mississippi two Sections of land on which to build a town to be the State Capital. Later the Commission was authorized to purchase two additional half-Sections, adjoining the grant of the two Sections by the Federal Government.

The town was laid off and named Jackson, in honor of Major-General Andrew Jackson. The first state-house was erected on the northeast corner at the crossing of Capitol and President streets, where the Baptist Book Store is today, and was a small brick structure. The legislature, which had convened at the temporary capital at Columbia in January, 1822, was moved to Jackson a few weeks later. This first capitol here was the first public building erected in the new capital city, and served the state's needs for some fourteen or fifteen years.

However, in 1833, a new capitol was planned, and the legislature passed an Act on February 26th that year, providing for the erection of a Capitol and an Executive Mansion. The sum of $95,000.00 was appropriated for the capitol and $10,000.00 for the mansion, and work was soon begun. Further appropriations were made for these buildings in 1838, and the work pushed to completion. In 1839, the legislature met in the new building, although it was not completed until later. This building is now known as the "Old Capitol" and stands at the head of Capitol street, on State street.

This building served the State exclusively, for the housing of state departments until 1903, and much of the Commonwealth's most interesting history was created within its portals, and during the period of its active and exclusive occupancy. Chief among the most important and earlier events of history, was the incorporation of the University of Mississippi in 1844; the call of the War Department and the organization of the 1st Regiment of Mississippi Volunteers for service in the Mexican War under Jefferson Davis; in 1853 Davis was appointed Secretary of War by President Pierce; the schools for the blind and the deaf were established in 1848 and 1854, respectively, and also provision made for the establishment of the hospital for insane in the latter named year; a State convention passed the ordinance of secession by a vote of eighty-four to fourteen; and then came the Confederate War.

During the War between the States, there were brief intervals when it became necessary to move the seat of government, and from May, 1863, to May 6, 1865, the seat of government was moved several times. When General Sherman first occupied Jackson with his army of Union troops, the seat of government was moved to Enterprise, Clarke County; thence later to Meridian; back to Jackson and back to Meridian; thence to Columbus, Lowndes County, thence to Macon, and back to Jackson.

Toward the close of the nineteenth century, the capitol on State street was found to be inadequate to house all departments of state and accommodate their growing needs, and it was decided to erect another new capitol—a still larger state-house, and the site of the Mississippi penitentiary was selected for a location. This new building, erected within the period from 1900 to 1903, is what has since been known as "Mississippi's new million dollar capitol."

Governor A. H. Longino, at that time the chief executive, prepared the bill authorizing the erection of this building, and was later made Chairman of the Building Commission. With him on this Commission were: Monroe McClurg, attorney general; R. H. Thompson; W. G. Stovall; R. A. Dean; L. T. Fitzhugh, Jr., secretary. Bernard R. Green, Washington, D. C., was added to act in an advisory capacity to the State Commissioners. The cost of the building, including steam heating power plant, furniture, electric and gas light fixtures, architect's fees and other expenses, amounted to $1,093,641.00, and was built without any bond issue or extra levy, notwithstanding the legislature authorized a bond issue, if necessary.

The contractors were Wells Brothers Company of Chicago, and the architect was Theodore C. Link of St. Louis, who was assisted by his son, Karl E. Link. The contractors agreed to complete the building in thirty-one months, and work was actually commenced in March, 1901, and completed in July, 1903—well within contract time. It would require too much space here to fully describe the magnificence of this building, its marvelous architecture, the perfection of design and appointment, and the general imposing appearance of this handsome building, which all during the years it has served the State, has been the object of admiration of visitors from every state, and in some instances from other nations.

Soon after its completion in 1903, the several departments of State moved their offices from the old capitol on State street to the new building, and the old building was entirely vacated and for the most part the doors were thrown open and the building allowed to deteriorate. From time to time during its vacancy movements were inaugurated by various patriotic organizations, led by Mrs. Dunbar Rowland, to preserve the building and to use it for historical purposes.

By the year 1916, however, the need for additional office room, and room for the preservation of records, in the new capitol had so developed that the legislature of 1916 appropriated $125,000.00, to be raised by the sale of state bonds, for the purpose of repairing the old capitol and placing it in a condition for re-occupancy. The Capitol Commission was charged with supervising this work, and the use of convict labor, and brick furnished by the penitentiary was provided for.

Accordingly, the old building, seventy-seven years old at that time, was again brought into use and a number of state departments have since been housed there, to-wit: the Department of Education, Insurance Department, Agriculture and Commerce, Board of Health, Banking Department, etc.

The first work of repair since 1916, and the first work of repair of any consequence on the new capitol since its erection thirty-odd years ago, was accomplished during the years of 1934-35, when the interior of both the old and new capitols were generally repaired and redecorated under the supervision and direction of Walker Wood, Secretary of State, for the Capitol Commission, and in co-operation with the ERA administration, with a small appropriation by the legislature of 1934. Another outstanding and much needed improvement connected with this work, was the construction of hard-surfaced driveways at both capitols.

And now, concluding this brief sketch of Mississippi's capitols and state houses, it might be well to state that only since the adoption of the Constitution of 1890 has the seat of government or capital been definitely and permanently located or fixed at a particular place. Section 101 of the Constitution of 1890 reads:

“The seat of government of the state shall be at the city of Jackson, and shall not be removed or re-located without assent of a majority of the electors of the state.”

Description

Mississippi's new capitol is, architecturally speaking, the most important and the most prominent public building in the South. It far surpasses in beauty, if not in size, all the capitol buildings in the Southern States. It is erected on the site formerly occupied by the State Penitentiary, a rectangle about 750 feet square, on an eminence overlooking the country for a considerable distance, and is in full view of the trains over the Illinois Central and Queen & Crescent tracks. The main facade is to the south, the main entrance centering with Congress Street.

The length of the building is 402 feet from east to west; the width through the center pavilion is 225 feet, and the central dome rises 180 feet above the grade established at the main entrance.

The style adopted is a pure renaissance classic of a dignity and elegance of proportion which fittingly express the power, honor and stability of the State. It is designed on the order of pavilions connected by wings with a view to giving architectural prominence and expression to its fundamental purpose of accommodating the Legislative, Executive and Judicial branches of the Government in a very simple, straightforward and direct manner. The pavilions are provided with porticos and arcades to give grateful shades and deep shadows. The entire building is fireproof in its construction and thoroughly modern in its equipment and sanitary condition. The exterior walls of the building are of Bedford Lime Stone, and the base course of Georgia Granite.

To many visitors entering the portals of this magnificent structure, the interior will be a veritable revelation. The main vestibule is built entirely of Blue Vermont Marble on a base of Black Belgian. The main rotunda is of Italian Marble with trimmings of jet black marble from New York State, and friezes and columns of Scagliola, leading the eye to the dome in pure white in stucco work. This dome is supported at four points on massive piers with rich marble niches designed as receptacles for statuary, developing into massive free columns in the second story to the frieze line of the dome. The two legislative halls will alone well repay a visit to this building. They are located in the two extreme points of the second story, and are built up of marble and scagliola, both with rich domed ceilings of oxidized copper, stucco and stained glass.

GOVERNOR'S OFFICES

The Governor's offices and rooms are located in the center pavilion, on the second floor, just south of Rotunda, and midway between the Legislative Halls.

In connection with the Legislative Halls there are offices on the north and south sides of the room for the Speaker, Visitor's Room, Cloak and Toilet Rooms.

STATE OF MISSISSIPPI

A Progressive State Government

There are few, if any, states of the union, that can boast of a more progressive or enlightened system of government than that which prevails today in Mississippi.

As was true of many other states, Mississippi was found to be very much "in the red" in the early years of the depression. The state's indebtedness had gone into the millions, the treasury almost void of funds, and state warrants being heavily discounted when cashed at all, and there was no demand for Mississippi state bonds.

In 1932 a new state administration and a new legislature found the foregoing conditions existing, and determined on a policy of balancing the state budget and "paying as you go." New sources of revenue were provided by the passage of a state-wide sales tax of two per cent, a tobacco sales tax and an amusement tax, and a revision of the privilege tax code. With a careful and painstaking trimming of operating expenses here and there, and the anticipation of adequate revenues from all sources provided the budget was balanced, the state's outstanding indebtedness was provided for, confidence and credit was restored, state's bonds found a ready sale, at attractive premiums and a low rate of interest.

For five years past, or since the beginning of 1932, Mississippi has not only been financially able to "pay as she goes," but she has paid off state bonds as they have matured, with regular interest payments, and has also been able to call and pay off bonds before maturity, and to sell refunding bonds at attractively lower interest rates and thus save hundreds of thousands of dollars of interest. Today, Mississippi's credit is A-1, and her bonds, when offered, are sought at the lowest possible interest rates.

During all these years of the depression, the legislature kept busy along other lines, besides those of balancing the budget. In fact, for some years prior to the depression, many state laws—heritages of an age of distrust—were revamped from time to time.

For example, as early as 1926, it was realized very forcibly that Mississippi's corporation laws lacked much of being adequate to meet the demands of capital within the borders of the state that desired to organize, or capital without the state that wanted to qualify for business in Mississippi by filing copies of their charters of incorporation with the Secretary of State. But later, in this article, we will have more to say about this particular question of corporation laws. Suffice to say here, the corporation laws of Mississippi have been revamped, rewritten and amended during the past ten years to such an extent, that it is very easy and practicable to effect an incorporation today and secure the protection that corporation laws in Mississippi affords.

Back to the early days of the depression: The legislature of 1932—the body that balanced the budget and enacted and installed the sales tax laws that saved the State—kept busy along other lines of progression. An agricultural credit corporation law was enacted, and other cooperative agricultural associational laws were provided. A state budget commission was created, to help enforce the budget law; exemption laws for new enterprises and farm products were passed, together with a general revamping of the privilege tax laws; a state game and fish department was created and provided for to conserve the wild life of the state; an oil and gas board, providing for a state oil and gas supervisor, was created by legislative act, natural gas having been recently found in what is known as the Jackson area.

In this connection, it will be well to state that the first natural gas well, a monstrous producer, was brought in February, 1930, and other wells have been added each passing month since that time, until today, Jackson has more than 100 gas wells of high production.

In the legislature of 1934 this program of progress was continued, and the result was that more cooperative agricultural laws were enacted, the bank supervision law was overhauled, educational laws were amended, the state penal system was reorganized, and a homestead and live stock exemption law was passed. In the extraordinary session of 1935, a social security law providing for emergency relief and old age assistance was passed.

In 1936, the regular session of the legislature amended the game and fish laws, reorganized the control of the eleemosynary institutions, created a motor vehicle commission with authority to handle the collection of gasoline taxes, passed a forty-two million dollar highway paving program, revamped the land commission laws, established an unemployment commission, created an advertising commission, an industrial commission, and a state planning commission, all of which are functioning in a highly satisfactory manner.

And thus, Mississippi is marching on. New industries are coming into the state at a very satisfactory rate, and the rate will continue and increase as a result of favorable laws enacted.

Agricultural interests are rapidly improving, and owing to increased fertility and more thorough cultural methods, the farm production of the state has increased to three times the value in 1936 of the total value of the 1932 crops.

We referred to the improved corporation laws earlier in this article, and stated that the legislature of 1926 amended the corporation laws very advantageously. Still, it required practically thirty days to make application for and have a charter of incorporation approved and get ready to start business, and this necessary delay, was an incentive to many prospective organizations to hie themselves away to other states of quicker service, secure their charters and then file them here, at twice the cost.

Since the enactment of Chapter 90, Laws of 1928, it is entirely possible that a group of individuals may apply for a Mississippi charter of incorporation, have it approved and recorded, and organize and open for business all within a space of a very few hours.

The corporation laws were made more liberal to commerce and industry in many ways, and ample evidence of this is found in the phenomenal increase in the organization of domestic capital and the admission of foreign corporations to the state, following the 1926, 1928 and later revision of these laws.

For the five-year period of 1921-1926, the combined domestic capital organized and foreign capital admitted, amounted to $83,656,050, or an average of $16,731,210; during the next five-year period, when the improved corporation laws had been in effect for some years, the total authorized domestic and foreign capital amounted to $2,002,643,123, or an average of $400,528,628, while for the last five-year period the total domestic and foreign capital has amounted to $2,058,075,248, which averaged for the five years produces $411,615,050 per year.

The foregoing figures also contain ample evidence of the full appreciation shown for Mississippi, her rare opportunities and advantages, her climate, her soil, her industrial offerings, and her aggressive and progressive state government.

Mississippi has ample shipping facilities. The mighty Mississippi river furnishes splendid river facilities, while the deep water harbor at Gulfport and other smaller harbors along the coast of Mississippi gives the state fine connections with both domestic and foreign points. A net work of railroad and freight bus lines over the state complete a thorough and adequate system of shipping able to care for not only the present, but future needs of the State as she grows and develops.

The American's Creed

Written by William Tyler Page, Clerk of the U. S. House of Representatives, in 1917, and adopted by the House of Representatives on behalf of the American People, April 3, 1918.

"I believe in the United States of America as a Government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

"I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies."

Pledge to the State Flag

To the State Flag of Mississippi we pledge allegiance, as a sign of loyalty to our State and to our Country, the United States of America—one power indissoluble, with liberty and justice for all.

Citizen's Creed

I believe in the State of Mississippi as one of the Sovereign States of a Sovereign Nation, the United States of America, founded and perpetuated upon the principles of Democracy, which insure for all, freedom, equal rights, justice and humanity.

I believe it to be my duty to labor for it, to defend it against all foes and to direct and devote my physical, mental and spiritual powers in serving it, in upholding its Constitution and in obeying its laws.

MISSISSIPPI'S CHAIN OF TITLE

NATIVE DOMINION

When the territory which now composes the State of Mississippi was first explored by white men, they found it owned and occupied by the following tribes of Indians: Choctaws, Chickasaws, Natchez, Biloxis, Pascagoulas, Yazoo, Tunicas and Chocchumas, with the Choctaws in the central and southern portions and the Chickasaws in the northern part the most numerous and powerful. The Natchez tribe lived along the Mississippi river, in the counties of Adams, Claiborne, Jefferson and Wilkinson.

The Biloxis and Pascagoulas occupied the Gulf Coast section, and the Tunicas and Yazoo occupied the country along the Yazoo river. The Chocchumas lived in the eastern part of the State.

SPANISH DOMINION

1512-1699.

By right of discovery and exploration what is now Mississippi remained under the dominion of Spain from 1512 to 1699. Thus for that period Mississippi was governed by the following Kings of Spain:

Ferdinand V., Charles I., Philip II., Philip III., Philip IV., and Charles II.

FRENCH DOMINION

1699-1763

In 1699 Mississippi became a possession of France by actual settlement and was called Louisiana. Biloxi, settled that year by d'Iberville, became the seat of government. For twelve years the Louisiana settlements were under the control of the Governors of New France (Canada), to-wit: Louis Hector de Callieres and Philip de Rigault, Marquis de Vaudreuil.

In 1711 Louisiana became an independent government, with the seat of government at Mobile. The following Governors, responsible directly to the Crown, ruled the country.

Pierre LeMoyne d'Iberville, governor general. Antoine LeMoyne Sauvolle, Jean Baptiste LeMoyne Bienville, Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac, M. De l'Epiany, Jean Baptiste LeMoyne Bienville, M. Perier, Jean Baptiste LeMoyne Bienville, Marquis de Raudreuil and Louis Billouart de Kerlerec.

ENGLISH DOMINION

1763-1781

By the treaty of Paris, February 10, 1763. (England, Spain and France), England gained much territory within the present limits of Mississippi, then styled the Province of West Florida, and for eighteen years the following Royal Governors ruled: George Johnstone, 1763, four years; Montfort Browne, John Eliot, and Elias Durnford at intervals, 1767-1770; Peter Chester, 1770, eleven years.

SPANISH DOMINION

1781-1795

On May 9, 1781, the English Province of West Florida again became Spanish property by conquest. The following military and civil governors ruled the Natchez District for fourteen years; Francis Callell, Esterban Miro, Frances Bauligny, Manuel Gayosa de Lemos, Stephen Minor, Philippe Trevino, Pedro Piernas, Carlos de Grand Pre and Joseph Vidal. The seat of government under Spanish rule was at Natchez.

AMERICAN DOMINION

By the treaty of San Lorenzo, October 27, 1795, the Natchez District became a part of the United States, and the Mississippi Territory was formed by Act of Congress April 7, 1798. Mississippi was admitted as a State December 10, 1817.

THE STATE MOTTO

The State motto of Mississippi, Virtute et Armis, meaning by valor and arms, was suggested by the Honorable James Rhea Preston of Virginia, who was at the time Superintendent of Education in the State of Mississippi.

THE GREAT SEAL OF MISSISSIPPI

The present State seal has been in use since Mississippi became a state in 1817, and is described as follows: "The seal and arms of Mississippi are simply an American eagle with outspread wings, occupying the entire surface of a silver circular field. In the right talon of the eagle is a bundle of four arrows, and the left talon holds an olive branch fruited. Around the outer circle of the seal is the legend, 'THE GREAT SEAL OF THE STATE OF MISSISSIPPI,' in Roman capitals; a silver six-pointed star in the base. The diameter of the seal is two inches."

ADOPTION OF MISSISSIPPI STATE FLAG

The committee to design a flag and State Seal was appointed by legislative action February 7, 1894, and the same provided that the report of the committee should become the official flag. The committee recommended for the flag "one with width two-thirds of its length; with a union square, in width two-thirds of the width of the flag; the ground of the union to be red and a broad blue saltier thereon, bordered with white and emblazoned with thirteen (13) mullets or five-pointed stars, corresponding with the number of original states of the Union; the field to be divided into three bars of equal width, the upper one blue, the center one white, and the lower one extending the whole length of the flag, red—the national colors; the staff surmounted with a spear-head and a battle-ax below; the flag to be fringed with gold, and the staff gilded with gold."

THE STATE FLOWER

Sudnor and Bennett say that "the school children of the State selected the state flower, and no one else was permitted to vote. The election was held in November, 1900, and the children sent in 23,278 votes. The magnolia received 12,745 votes, the cotton blossom 4,171 and the cape jasmine 2,484. There were a few votes for other flowers. The magnolia won and has been since our state flower."

STATE TREE

In 1935 the Director of Forestry started a movement by which to select a State Tree for Mississippi, same to be selected by nomination and election by the school children of the State. Four nominations were made, to wit: the magnolia, oak, pine and dogwood, and when the vote was taken, the magnolia received by far the largest majority over all. Hence, the Magnolia was adopted as the "Mississippi State Tree."

THE BIRD SELECTED TO BECOME THE STATE AVIAN EMBLEM

In 1929 the Mississippi Federation of Women's Clubs conducted a State bird campaign which resulted in the selection of the mocking bird as the State avian emblem. The next State Legislature will likely be asked to adopt this bird as the official state bird.

STATE SONG

The State Song, adopted as such by the Department of Archives and History several years ago and first published in the Mississippi Official and Statistical Register of 1917, is entitled "Mississippi," and the words, by Mrs. Dunbar Rowland, Jackson, are reproduced below. This beautiful poem was set to music by Walter H. Aiken, of Cincinnati.

MISSISSIPPI

(Words by Mrs. Dunbar Rowland)

There is a beautiful country,
Where southern waters flow,
'Tis where the white magnolia
And yellow jasmine blow.
And there a loyal people,
Work with glad heart and will;
To the faiths of their fathers,
They cling through good or ill.

CHORUS:

Mississippi! Land of a true and valiant race,
Where hope's heavenly light is seen on every face;
Fair land, whose story glows with deeds of heroes brave,
Dear land that hateful tyrant shall ne'er enslave.
A goodly land, whose prospects,
Shine not for men in vain,
And freedom's star is glowing,
To never, never wain.
For her pure hearths and temples,
My heart shall ever yearn,
To her green hills and valleys,
My feet shall ever turn.

Note: The number of exempt homes and the amount of the exemption are taken from the Clerk's Certificate to the Land Roll, as of January 1, 1936. An examination of the Rolls discloses that the classification there shown as "rural" or "urban" is, in several counties, not in agreement with the Certificate. However, the total amount of the combined exemptions is correct.

The total exemption of $102,065,565 is that shown on the rolls of the eighty-two counties, and in the Clerk's Certificates, thereto. The amount will change from month to month, as the boards grant exemptions, on application of the owners, as provided by Chapters 187 and 191, Laws of 1934.

DIGEST OF MISSISSIPPI GAME AND FISH LAWS 1937-1938

GAME AND FISH COMMISSION

W. E. McIntyre, Chairman; Ben M. Stevens, Secretary; Reuben R. Banks, Edgar W. Wright, George C. Weathers; Si Corley, Director of Conservation; W. F. Dearman, Assistant Director and Accountant.

Conservation laws are not designed by the state to deprive people of their right to hunt and fish. These regulations are merely rules necessary to the management of our game and fish supply for the benefit of the sportsman.

Every violation of the game law and regulations is an infringement upon the personal rights of the violator and others.

Cooperate with your state and federal conservation departments and help spread the message of sportsmanship to all who engage in the sports.

S P O R T S M E N !

Remember:—The Farmer is Your Friend

Ask permission to hunt on his land—he will usually meet you half way.
Put up his bars and close his gates.

Don't destroy his chickens or cattle, or allow your dog to worry them.

Put out your camp fire before leaving and protect his property and your hunting ground.

Consult your local warden often.

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

The Capitol at Washington

The capitol is situated in latitude 38° 53' 20.4" north and longitude 77° 00' 35.7" west from Greenwich. It fronts east and stands on a plateau 88 feet above the level of the Potomac, and one and one-fourth miles from the White House. The entire length of the building from north to south is 751 feet 4 inches, and its greatest width from east to west is 350 feet. The entire area covered by the building is 153,112 square feet. The senate wing of the old capitol was built first, then the house, and the two were connected by a wooden passage way. The dome of the original central building was constructed of wood, covered with copper. This was replaced in 1856 by the present remarkable structure of cast iron. It took nine years to build it. The weight of the iron used is 8,909,200 pounds. Crawford's magnificent bronze statue of Freedom, which surmounts the dome, is 19 feet 6 inches in height and weighs 14,985 pounds. The height of the dome above the baseline of the east front is 287 feet 5 inches. The height from the top of the balustrade of the building is 217 feet 11 inches. The greatest diameter at the base is 135 feet 5 inches. The rotunda is 97 feet 6 inches in diameter, and its height from the floor to the top of the canopy is 180 feet 3 inches. The southeast cornerstone of the original building was laid September 18, 1793, by President Washington, with Masonic ceremonies. The north wing was finished in 1800 and the government came from Philadelphia and took possession in October of that year. The interior of both wings was destroyed by fire August 24, 1914. The foundation of the center was laid March 24, 1918. The cornerstone of the extension was laid July 4, 1851, by President Filmore. The two wings now occupied by the senate and house were added to the capitol to accommodate the senate and the house of representatives. The senate chamber is 113 feet 3 inches in length, by 80 feet 3 inches in width, and 36 feet in height. The galleries will accommodate 1,000 persons. The hall of representatives is 139 feet in length by 93 in width, and 36 feet in height. When the house is in session the Stars and Stripes is flung to the breeze over the south wing, and when the senate is sitting the flag flies over the north wing. At night, if congress is sitting, there is a light in the dome. The value of the capitol and grounds is about $53,000,000.

Title and Term of the President

The address of the president is simply "the President of the United States." In the first congress there was a debate over a title and it was proposed by some members that he be addressed as "His Excellency" and by others as "His Highness," but a committee reported that "it is not proper to annex any style or title other than that expressed in the constitution." In the constitutional convention the first report fixed the term of office at seven years without eligibility to reelection. In debate various periods from "during good behavior" to twenty years were favored. The limit to four years was finally adopted in grand committee and ratified by the convention.

The Presidential Succession

The presidential succession is fixed by chapter 4 of the acts of the forty-ninth congress, first session. In case of removal, death, resignation, or inability of both the president and the vice-president, then the secretary of state shall act as president until the inability of the president or vice-president is removed or a president is elected. If there is no secretary of state, then the secretary of the treasury will act; and the remainder of the order of succession is as follows: The secretary of war, attorney general, postmaster general, secretary of the navy, and secretary of the interior. The acting president must, upon taking office, convene congress, if not at the time in session, in extraordinary session, giving 20 days' notice. This act applies only to such cabinet officers as shall have been confirmed by the senate and are eligible under the constitution to the presidency.

Salary of the President

The salary of the president of the United States was the cause of discussion in the first congress, in view of the fact that the constitution declared that the president should receive compensation for his services. Washington had notified his fellow citizens that he desired no salary. The limits suggested in congress ranged from $15,000 to $70,000. The salary was finally placed at $25,000, and this remained the compensation until President Grant's second term (March 3, 1873) when it was increased to $50,000. Chapter 2918 of the laws of the second session of the fifty-ninth congress approved March 4, 1907, appropriated "for traveling expenses of the president of the United States, to be expended at his discretion and accounted for by his certificate solely, $25,000." In the second session of the sixtieth congress the matter of increasing the president's salary was again considered, and it was decided that the president's salary be fixed at $75,000 a year.

Constitution and Government

The Declaration of Independence of the thirteen states of which the American Union then consisted was adopted by congress July 4, 1776. On November 30, 1782, Great Britain acknowledged the independence of the United States, and on September 3, 1783, the treaty of peace was concluded.

The form of government of the United States is based on the Constitution of September 17, 1787, to which ten amendments were added December 15, 1791; an eleventh amendment, January 8, 1798; a twelfth amendment, September 25, 1804; a thirteenth amendment, December 18, 1865 (slavery abolished); a fourteenth amendment, July 28, 1868; a fifteenth amendment, March 30, 1870 (equal rights for white and colored citizens); a sixteenth amendment, February 25, 1913 (income tax authorized); a seventeenth amendment, May 31, 1913; an eighteenth amendment, January 29, 1919 (liquor prohibition amendment); a nineteenth amendment, August 26, 1920 (woman suffrage); a twentieth amendment, February 6, 1933 (advancing the date of the President's and Vice-President's inauguration and abolishing the "lame-duck" sessions of Congress); and a twenty-first amendment, December 5, 1933 (repealing the eighteenth, or liquor prohibition amendment).

By the Constitution, the government of the nation is composed of three co-ordinate branches, the Executive, the Legislative, and the Judicial. The executive power is vested in a President, who holds his office during the term of four years, and is elected, together with a Vice-President chosen for the same term, in the mode prescribed as follows:—"Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress: but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector." In every State the electors, chosen by the various political parties and pledged to the party's candidates for President and Vice-President, are in turn chosen by direct vote of the citizens on a general ticket, on the system known in France as scrutin de liste. The Constitution provides that "the Congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes, which day shall be the same throughout the United States"; and further, that "no person except a natural-born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States."

The presidential election is held every fourth (leap) year on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November; the electors thus chosen meet and give their votes at their respective State capitals on the first Monday after the second Wednesday in December next following their election; and the votes of the electors of all the States are opened and counted in the presence of both Houses of Congress on the sixth day of January. The total electoral vote is 531 (1 each for 96 Senators and 435 Representatives) and a majority—266—is necessary to elect. If the successful candidate for President dies before taking office, the Vice-President-elect becomes President; if no candidate has a majority or if the successful candidate fails to qualify then, by the twentieth amendment, the Vice-President acts as President until a President qualifies. Congress now has large powers covering all contingencies such as those arising from the death or the failure to qualify of either President or Vice-President. The presidential term formerly began at noon on March 4, in the year following leap years, but the twentieth amendment to the Constitution ratified February 6, 1933, advances the date for the inauguration of the President from March 4 to January 20 of the inaugural year. This amendment also installs the newly elected Congress in office on January 3, instead of—as formerly—in the following December. The President's salary is 75,000 dollars per year, plus 25,000 dollars for traveling expenses and official entertainment. The Vice-President's salary is 15,000 dollars, plus a traveling allowance.

The President is commander-in-chief of the army and navy, and of the militia when in the service of the Union. The Vice-President is ex-officio President of the Senate; and in the case of death or resignation of the President, he becomes the President for the remainder of the term.

OUR PRESIDENTS

First there was WASHINGTON, stately and tall,
Maker of history, Father of all,
Who, after two terms, first, '89,
and then, '93, stepped out of the line.

Then came JOHN ADAMS whose term was but one,
With the century's death, died the great Washington;
With the new century's birth, from Franklin's town
They moved the seat of the nation down.

Two things stand out until eighteen-0-9,
Eight years when JEFFERSON filled out the line,
The purchase of Louisiana from France
And the cruel death of Hamilton, man of finance.

JAMES MADISON next, and Virginia's third,
During whose two terms America heard
The war-cry of Indians at Tippecanoe
And the guns of the British in eighteen-1-2.

JAMES MONROE witnessed the Seminole War
And to five new states flung open the door;
The century's squarther then saw him step down,
But his "Doctrine" lives on with increasing renown.

Then, during JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' four years,
On July the Fourth, '26, there were tears
By the "Bay State" and "Old Dominion" shed
For Adams and Jefferson, their famous dead.

When "Old Hickory" JACKSON from Tennessee
Was shaping for two terms our destiny,
There were famous debates of Webster and Hayne;
And the Seminoles went on the war-path again.

The next President brought the number to eight,
MARTIN VAN BUREN from the "Empire" State.
From the year '37 he labored with zest
For four years to calm the financial unrest.

Then two native Virginians came,
WM. H. HARRISON of Indian fame
Who, after a month's brief service died;
With the rest of his term by TYLER supplied.

JAMES K. POLK added four years more,
While Taylor and Scott in the Mexican War
Were gaining fame and winning wide lands
In guerilla fights on the border sands.

Of four years ZACH TAYLOR had served only one,
And died when the century's half was done.
When FILLMORE was in, death saddened the day
In the loss of two orators, Webster and Clay.

It was FRANKLIN PEARCE from the "Granite" State
A friend of Hawthorne and college mate,
Who witnessed the Free State clouds arise,
And dim for a term the Kansas skies.

Momentous four years, BUCHANAN'S, each one:
The Dred Scott decision, small outbreaks begun,
The hanging of John Brown after his raid
And plans for the Southern Confederacy laid.

Came the great LINCOLN in March, '61
And on April the twelfth, Sumpter fired upon;
Then four bloody years till the downfall of Lee
And the end of the gallant Confederacy.

Following "Honest Abe's" death there came
ANDREW JOHNSON of veto fame,
Who though impeached, was acquitted by one
And served till the last term of Lincoln was done.

Like Washington, Jackson and Taylor before,
GRANT had gained prestige out of a war;
Throughout two terms he was calm and discreet
Though he much mourned the news of Custer's defeat.

His election disputed at first, R. B. HAYES,
After winning the argument, soon won the praise
Of the country at large for his wise, moderate views
And his sympathy offset by strength to refuse.

When GARFIELD, the "Martyr President," died
It fell to the hands of ARTHUR to guide
Till the year '85 the Ship of State
Through happenings neither grave nor great.

There has been in the White House only one
Who, serving two terms, when the first was done
Dropped out of the presidential line,
As CLEVELAND did in the year eighty-nine.

With HARRISON'S coming came six States more,
When Oklahoma opened its door:
The "Mountain," "Coyote," "Evergreen," "Sioux,"
Idaho and Wyoming, too.

Of clear assertion and action strong,
GROVER CLEVELAND came along
For his second term in ninety-three,
Still gaining in popularity.

Oppression in Cuba and sinking the Maine
Forced McKINLEY to our War with Spain,
Which ceded to us when the war was through,
Porto Rico, Guam, and the Philippines, too.

A soldier and family man of the best,
Who at Panama coupled the East and the West,
ROOSEVELT, taking the reins in 0-1,
Served a term beside that by McKinley begun.

Having ably held the portfolio of War,
TAFT then entered the White House door;
A quiet sea for the Ship of State,
Save Peary's dash and the Titanic's fate.

The Lusitania with its loss of life,
The great World War and his earnest strife
For the League of Nations are one with the name
Of WOODROW WILSON and his war-time fame.

HARDING, on August the fourth passed away,
Serving but twenty-nine months to a day.
And millions there were who could not refrain
From tears as they witnessed his home-coming train.

Then CALVIN COOLIDGE from Green Mountain State,
By his vetoes, alone, proved his wisdom was great;
Calm in excitement,—not swayed by the mass,
His silence will speak as the centuries pass.

Hail! HERBERT HOOVER, the keen engineer,
Who in famine abroad and floods that were near,
Had shown an ability right in the line
With the task he assumed in March, '29.

CHARLES F. BENEDICT.

And now, to FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT belongs the fame
Of ending the depression in Democracy's name;
Restoration of business and a re-employment pact,
Were among the first provisions of his Recovery Act.

HISTORY OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY

The germ of the Democratic Party originated in the Anti-Federalists who opposed the adoption of a Federal Constitution. A moderate party, led by Jefferson and Madison, recognized the need for a stronger central government than the Articles of Confederation afforded but viewed with alarm the centralization tendency manifested by Hamilton and the Federalist Party. To this moderate party was given the name of Republican about 1792.

During the French revolution, extreme sympathizers with the new French Republic formed so-called "democratic clubs." These clubs advocated equalitarianism and extreme liberty for the individual. Though not in complete accord with the Republicans, adherents of these views were forced to act in harmony with them in opposition to Federalist measures and were eventually absorbed by the Republicans which came to be known as the Democratic-Republican Party or simply as the Democratic Party.

In 1798, the fundamental Democratic principles were clearly formulated by Jefferson and Madison in the Kentucky and Virginia Resolutions. The state governments were declared to be the basis of our system and the Federal government had only those powers which were conferred upon it by the Constitution.

The Democratic Party has always advocated the widest extension of suffrage and the highest degree of popular control of the government. It has always been traditionally opposed to a protective tariff and extensive military and naval establishments. In its early days, the Party was opposed to the establishment of the National bank, to internal improvements and to indirect taxation.

Because of its tendency toward equalitarianism, the Democratic Party was forced to adopt at least a passive tolerance toward slavery inasmuch as a large part of its strength lay in the slave states. For a similar reason, it opposed extension of suffrage to the blacks in 1868.

In 1896 and again in 1900, political exigencies induced the party to embrace the advocacy of the free coinage of silver. In spite of these discrepancies in party policy, however, there has always been a tendency to return to fundamental party principles after a brief trial of newer issues.

HOW THE PRESIDENT IS ELECTED

When you have made up your mind as to the man and party of your choice . . . your ballot is not cast directly for that candidate on Election Day. Instead you vote for a list of Presidential Electors, varying in number from three in Wyoming and others of the less-populated states to 47 in New York State. Each state has as many Presidential Electors as it is entitled to have Senators and Representatives in the National Congress . . . and as each state must have two Senators and at least one Representative in Congress this automatically establishes the minimum of Electors per state at three. Mississippi has nine.

On the first Monday after the second Wednesday in December following the election, the Presidential Electors meet in their respective states at such place as the State Legislature may designate, and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, "one of whom at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves." On the sixth day of January in Washington, the President of the Senate, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, opens the certificates forwarded by the several states and votes are then counted. The person having the greatest number of votes is proclaimed President, if his votes are a majority of the whole number of Electors.

If no candidate for President receives a majority (266 votes), the House of Representatives immediately proceeds to choose a President from among the three with the greatest number of Electoral votes. In such an election, the vote is by states, each state entitled to one vote.

The election of the Vice-President is decided in the same manner, save that in case no candidate for that office receives a majority of the Electoral votes, the Senate chooses a Vice-President from the two candidates who received the highest number of Electoral votes. Each Senator is entitled to one vote in such an election.

The present President's term was automatically shortened by the adoption of the 20th Amendment to the Constitution. In accordance with this Amendment, Inauguration Day is moved forward to January 20th and the next President will take the oath of office on that day instead of March 4th.

Article II of the Constitution of the United States sets forth the qualifications of the President and certain regulations concerning his office as follows:

"No Person except a natural born Citizen, or a Citizen of the United States, at the time of the Adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the Office of President; neither shall any Person be eligible to that Office who shall not have attained to the Age of thirty-five Years, and been fourteen Years a Resident within the United States.

"In Case of the Removal of the President from Office, or of his Death, Resignation, or Inability to discharge the Powers and Duties of the said Office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President, and the Congress may by Law provide for the Case of Removal, Death, Resignation or Inability, both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what Officer shall then act as President, and such Officer shall act accordingly, until the Disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

"The President shall, at stated Times, receive for his services a Compensation, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the Period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that Period any other Emolument from the United States, or any of them.

"Before he enter on the Execution of his Office he shall take the following Oath or Affirmation:—I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the Office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my Ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

THE NATIONAL FLAG

The pledge to the Flag;

"I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States
And to the Republic for which it stands,
One Nation, indivisible,
With liberty and justice for all."

The official flag of the United States bears forty-eight white stars in a blue field, arranged in six rows of eight stars each. Two stars were added in 1912 by the admission of Arizona and New Mexico to the Union. The garrison flag of the army is made of bunting, thirty-six feet fly and twenty feet hoist, thirteen stripes, and in the upper quarter, next to the staff, is the field or "union" of stars, equal to the number of states, on blue field, over one-third length of flag, extending to the lower edge of the fourth red stripe from the top. The storm flag is twenty feet by ten feet, and the recruiting flag nine feet nine inches by four feet four inches. The "American Jack" is the "union" or blue field of the flag. The revenue marine service flag, authorized by act of congress, March 2, 1799, was originally prescribed to "consist of sixteen perpendicular stripes, alternate red and white, the union of the ensign bearing the arms of the United States in dark blue on a white field." The sixteen stripes represented the number of states which had been admitted to the Union at that time, and no change has been made since. June 14, the anniversary of the adoption of the flag, is celebrated as flag day in a large part of the Union.

When and How to Use the Flag

The following code of etiquette for the use of the National flag was adopted by the National Americanism Commission of the American Legion, June 14, 1923.

1. The flag should be displayed only from sunrise to sunset, or between such hours as may be designated by proper authority. It should be displayed on National and State holidays and on historic and special occasions. The flag should always be hoisted briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously.
2. When carried in a procession with another flag or flags, the flag of the United States should be either on the marching right, i. e., the flag's own right, or when there is a line of other flags the flag of the United States may be in front of the center of that line.
3. When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the flag of the United States should be on the right, the flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.
4. When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs, the flag of the United States should be in the center or at the highest point of the group.

5. When flags of states or cities or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the flag of the United States, the national flag should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs the flag of the United States should be hoisted first. No flag or pennant should be placed above or to the right of the flag of the United States.

6. When flags of two or more nations are displayed they should be flown from separate staffs of the same height and the flags should be approximately equal size. (International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace.)

7. When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony, or front of building, the union of the flag should go clear to the head of the staff unless the flag is at half mast.

8. When the flag of the United States is displayed in a manner other than by being flown from a staff it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against the wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, i.e., to the observer's left. When displayed in a window it should be displayed the same way, that is, with the union or blue field to the left of the observer in the street. When festoons, rosettes or drapings of blue, white and red are desired, bunting should be used, but never the flag.

9. When displayed over the middle of the street, as between buildings, the flag of the United States should be suspended vertically, with the union to the north in an east-and-west street or to the east in a north-and-south street.

10. When used on a speaker's platform, the flag should be displayed above and behind the speaker. It should never be used to cover the speaker's desk nor to drape over the front of the platform. If flown from a staff it should be on the speaker's right.

11. When used in unveiling a statue or monument, the flag should not be allowed to fall to the ground but should be carried aloft to wave out, to form a distinctive feature during the remainder of the ceremony.

12. When flown at half mast, the flag is first hoisted to the peak and then lowered to the half mast position, but before lowering the flag for the day it is raised again to the peak. On Memorial Day, May 30, the flag is displayed at half mast from sunrise until noon and at full mast from noon until sunset, for the nation lives and the flag is the symbol of the living nation.

13. When used to cover a casket the flag should be placed so that the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The flag should not be lowered into the grave nor allowed to touch the ground. The casket should be carried foot first.

14. When the flag is displayed in church it should be from a staff placed on the congregation's right as they face the clergyman. The service flag, the state flag, or other flag should be at the left of the congregation. If in the chancel, the flag of the United States should be placed on the clergyman's right as he faces the congregation and other flags on his left.

15. When the flag is in such a condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display it should not be cast aside or used in any way that might be viewed as disrespectful to the national colors, but should be destroyed as a whole privately, preferably by burning or by some other method in harmony with the reverence and respect we owe to the emblem representing our country.

The flag should be flown on the following days: Lincoln's birthday, February 12; Washington's birthday, February 22; Mother's day, second Sunday in May; Memorial day, May 30; Flag day, June 14; Independence day July 4; also many local patriotic anniversaries.

Proper Use of Bunting

Bunting of the national colors should be used for covering a speaker's desk, draping over the front of a platform and for decorating in general. Bunting should be arranged with the blue above, the white in the middle and the red below.
