Dimensions.ai: A New Way to Search

Dimensions.ai is a scientific research database that provides access to grants, publications, clinical trials, patents, and policy documents. It's the most comprehensive collection of linked data related to the global research and innovation ecosystem. It can not only help you efficiently search for publications, but also search based on abstracts, and look at funding trends. It can also help you review your potential collaborator's current research networks. The UM has purchased a campus-wide license that can be accessed using your UM login.
