lism, education, missions and other areas" and called on members to "move on to do the work of the church, loving mercy, doing justly and walking humbly with our Lord."

Galloway's official board statement said:

"With full and complete confidence in the integrity of opinion of the pastors of Galloway Memorial Methodist Church and with high appreciation of their Christian leadership throughout the years of their ministry, the Official Board of the church, in a spirit of love and good will, feels impelled to make the following statement:

"The recently published statements by the pastors of this church are their personal opinions and are not necessarily the views and opinions of the individual members of Galloway Memorial Methodist Church.

MAINTAIN TRADITION

"It is not un-Christian that we prefer to remain an all-white congregation. The practice of the separation of the races in Galloway Memorial Methodist Church is a time-honored tradition. We earnestly hope that the perpetuation of that tradition will never be impaired."

Vote on the resolution was reported to be 146 to 13.

The board told the church secretary to send copies of the statement to all members of the church.

The official board also approved an expression of concern for the illness of Dr. Selah.

He became ill during services Sunday morning and was admitted to Baptist Hospital for treatment of an ulcer.

The resolution expressed "heartfelt hopes and prayers that he will have a speedy and complete recovery" and wished him "an early and complete recovery and return to his pulpit."

end, chopping away with a vigorousness that made the fat lead built early in the second half deeply appreciated.

If the Maroons hadn't had the padding, things might have been sadly different for Tech—though certainly provided the chance to quit when it was wallowing some 16 points back—never let up. The 'Jackets are a real good team and the fact that Mississippi State thumped 'em as big as they did simply shows just how good the Maroons can be—and were this night.

everyone was standing around waiting for someone else to do the job," Montgomery said, obviously deeply disturbed about the loss of a game he thought the Majors should have won.

Millsaps did out-play William Carey the first half and led 44-36 at intermission. The Methodists outrebounded and outfought their visitors from Hattiesburg, only to pull apart at the seams in the second half when the Crusaders put on a determined attack.

"We have lost at least three games in the second half we should have won," said Montgomery. "This has been our big trouble all year."

Millsaps' magnificent Charlie Smith again led the Majors with 34 points while John Stephenson headed Carey with 27 and Paul Suddeth and Larry Speights got 17 each.

Fred Rendfrey hit for the only other Major double figures while Forrest Goodwin and Phil Converse each had nine.

Suddeth's free shot with 11:40 to go gave Carey its second and final lead of the night, 55-54. It was as though Millsaps was playing a different team, like Carey had swapped jerseys downstairs with the Celtics.
