

University of Mississippi

eGrove

Publications

Civil Rights Archive

1-1-1900

Okolona Cheerleaders

Author Unknown

Follow this and additional works at: https://egrove.olemiss.edu/civ_pubs

Part of the United States History Commons

Recommended Citation

Unknown, Author, "Okolona Cheerleaders" (1900). Publications. 55.

https://egrove.olemiss.edu/civ_pubs/55

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Civil Rights Archive at eGrove. It has been accepted for inclusion in Publications by an authorized administrator of eGrove. For more information, please contact egrove@olemiss.edu.

OKOLONA CHEERLEADERS—Leading the cheering at Okolona High School are from left (front) Vera Moore, Brenda Smith, Barbara Blanchard and Donna Homan; (back) Barbara Herron, Pat Criddle, Etta Jordon and Dena Word.

—Staff Photo by Nathan

ment Of Tuna By State Dept.

representatives of Ecuador, Peru and Chile next July 31, probably in Buenos Aires, to press for a solution.

The United States has proposed several times that territorial sea limits be submitted to international arbitration, McCloskey said, but "such offers have been rejected by Ecuador and Peru."

Agreement on a formula for determining territorial limits was narrowly missed at conferences sponsored by the United Nations in 1958 and 1960, he said, but there was general support at both for a 12-mile limit.

The U.S. Navy said it had made no move in the latest situation to provide protection for fishing boats. Other officials said none of the six U.S.-built warships or patrol craft in the Ecuadorian navy has been used against U.S.-owned vessels.

Pelly said U.S. fishermen had been fined more than $275,000 since Congress voted in early 1969 to require deduction of the fines from U.S. economic aid, not including the fines levied in the past week.

"Despite the explicitness of this law, the State Department has not made one move to deduct the amount of these illegal fines," he said.

Goldwater---

Continued from Page 1

secret ballot. Williams himself, through seniority, will become chairman of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee when Congress reconvenes.

"One possible indication of the worth of seniority system can be deduced from the fact that (it) has not been adopted by any other parliament or legislature in the world," Williams said.

Clarence Mitchell, chief lobbyist for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), testified that the country has "experienced tragedy, great frustration, divisive turmoil and international embarrassment because of parliamentary pollution.

"We have permitted our law making process ... to be contaminated by filibustering, stagnated by the tyranny of committee chairmen who ignore the public interest and strangled by false economies

Alcorn A&M Among New Colleges On ROTC Rolls