Way back when the venerable Olmsted family of architects conceived a master plan for the Ole Miss campus, they probably never knew their designs would one day align perfectly with the values of one of the fast-growing social networks today: Instagram.

Ole Miss is easily the most 'Instagrammable' campus in the country. Don't believe me? Check out these eight photos.

1. Fall is one of the prettiest times to be on campus and there's no feeling quite like experiencing the colors of the season during the week that the colors turn.

2. Do you see a Grove full of plastic trash cans? Not me. I see the beginning of football season and the Grove being prepped for the revelry that is Ole Miss Football.

3. Even on gloomy days, campus is gorgeous. Of course, it doesn't hurt that the university claims three champion trees (this Northern Catalpa sits next to the Student Union).

Students Learn 'Real Politics' in Washington, D.C., Winter Session

OXFORD, Miss. – Eleven University of Mississippi students spent their winter break learning about the people who work behind the scenes of the American government in Washington, D.C. Lead by Jonathan Klingler, assistant professor of political science, the students of Pol 391: Applied Politics met not with candidates, but with the people who make candidates'

Young Alumna Gives Back to School of Accountancy

OXFORD, Miss. – Stephanie Jennings Teague, of Chicago, sees her commitment of $100,000 to the Patterson School of Accountancy's new building at the University of Mississippi as a means of saying "thank you." "It is a way to show a small token of my appreciation to Ole Miss, the faculty and staff, and the accounting

Reuters: Keep an Eye on the Money Supply

U.S. inflation roller coaster prompts fresh look at long-ignored money supply By Michael S. Derby NEW YORK – The amount of money sloshing around the U.S. economy shrank last year for the first time on record, a development that some economists believe bolsters the case for U.S. inflation pressures continuing to abate. The Federal Reserve's

7. Not my view every day, but it's a great one to have over in the Lyceum.

8. A view we all remember (or look forward to) all too well. The thousands of chairs prepared for Commencement create some of the most interesting angles on campus and trigger memories of past leaders to have occupied these same chairs in previous years.

All of these photos were taken by University Communications representatives (believe it or not!). For more awesome shots of campus and the Ole Miss community, check us out on Instagram!
