CODE OF PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

As Adopted January 12, 1988, amended January 14, 1992
and October 28, 1997

INTRODUCTION

Composition, Applicability, and Compliance

The Code of Professional Conduct of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants consists of two sections—(1) the Principles and (2) the Rules. The Principles provide the framework for the Rules, which govern the performance of professional services by members. The Council of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants is authorized to designate bodies to promulgate technical standards under the Rules, and the bylaws require adherence to those Rules and standards.

The Code of Professional Conduct was adopted by the membership to provide guidance and rules to all members—those in public practice, in industry, in government, and in education—in the performance of their professional responsibilities.

Compliance with the Code of Professional Conduct, as with all standards in an open society, depends primarily on members' understanding and voluntary actions, secondarily on reinforcement by peers and public opinion, and ultimately on disciplinary proceedings, when necessary, against members who fail to comply with the Rules.

Other Guidance

Interpretations of Rules of Conduct consist of interpretations which have been adopted, after exposure to state societies, state boards, practice units and other interested parties, by the professional ethics division's executive committee to provide guidelines as to the scope and application of the Rules but are not intended to limit such scope or application. A member who departs from such guidelines shall have the burden of justifying such departure in any disciplinary hearing. Interpretations which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

Ethics Rulings consist of formal rulings made by the professional ethics division's executive committee after exposure to state societies, state boards, practice units and other interested parties. These rulings summarize the application of Rules of Conduct and Interpretations to a particular set of factual circumstances. Members who depart from such rulings in similar circumstances will be requested to justify such departures. Ethics Rulings which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

Publication of an Interpretation or Ethics Ruling in The Journal of Accountancy constitutes notice to members. Hence, the effective date of the pronouncement is the last day of the month in which the pronouncement is published in The Journal of Accountancy. The professional ethics division will take into consideration the time that would have been reasonable for the member to comply with the pronouncement.

A member should also consult, if applicable, the ethical standards of his state CPA society, state board of accountancy, the Securities and Exchange Commission, and any other governmental agency which may regulate his client's business or use his report to evaluate the client's compliance with applicable laws and related regulations.

ET Section 51

Preamble

.01 Membership in the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants is voluntary. By accepting membership, a certified public accountant assumes an obligation of self-discipline above and beyond the requirements of laws and regulations.

.02 These Principles of the Code of Professional Conduct of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants express the profession's recognition of its responsibilities to the public, to clients, and to colleagues. They guide members in the performance of their professional responsibilities and express the basic tenets of ethical and professional conduct. The Principles call for an unswerving commitment to honorable behavior, even at the sacrifice of personal advantage.

[The next page is 4291.]

ET Section 52

Article I—Responsibilities

In carrying out their responsibilities as professionals, members should exercise sensitive professional and moral judgments in all their activities.

.01 As professionals, certified public accountants perform an essential role in society. Consistent with that role, members of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants have responsibilities to all those who use their professional services. Members also have a continuing responsibility to cooperate with each other to improve the art of accounting, maintain the public's confidence, and carry out the profession's special responsibilities for self-governance. The collective efforts of all members are required to maintain and enhance the traditions of the profession.

[The next page is 4301.]

ET Section 53

Article II—The Public Interest

Members should accept the obligation to act in a way that will serve the public interest, honor the public trust, and demonstrate commitment to professionalism.

.01 A distinguishing mark of a profession is acceptance of its responsibility to the public. The accounting profession's public consists of clients, credit grantors, governments, employers, investors, the business and financial community, and others who rely on the objectivity and integrity of certified public accountants to maintain the orderly functioning of commerce. This reliance imposes a public interest responsibility on certified public accountants. The public interest is defined as the collective well-being of the community of people and institutions the profession serves.

.02 In discharging their professional responsibilities, members may encounter conflicting pressures from among each of those groups. In resolving those conflicts, members should act with integrity, guided by the precept that when members fulfill their responsibility to the public, clients' and employers' interests are best served.

.03 Those who rely on certified public accountants expect them to discharge their responsibilities with integrity, objectivity, due professional care, and a genuine interest in serving the public. They are expected to provide quality services, enter into fee arrangements, and offer a range of services—all in a manner that demonstrates a level of professionalism consistent with these Principles of the Code of Professional Conduct.

.04 All who accept membership in the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants commit themselves to honor the public trust. In return for the faith that the public reposes in them, members should seek continually to demonstrate their dedication to professional excellence.

[The next page is 4311.]

ET Section 54

Article III—Integrity

To maintain and broaden public confidence, members should perform all professional responsibilities with the highest sense of integrity.

.01 Integrity is an element of character fundamental to professional recognition. It is the quality from which the public trust derives and the benchmark against which a member must ultimately test all decisions.

.02 Integrity requires a member to be, among other things, honest and candid within the constraints of client confidentiality. Service and the public trust should not be subordinated to personal gain and advantage. Integrity can accommodate the inadvertent error and the honest difference of opinion; it cannot accommodate deceit or subordination of principle.

.03 Integrity is measured in terms of what is right and just. In the absence of specific rules, standards, or guidance, or in the face of conflicting opinions, a member should test decisions and deeds by asking: "Am I doing what a person of integrity would do? Have I retained my integrity?" Integrity requires a member to observe both the form and the spirit of technical and ethical standards; circumvention of those standards constitutes subordination of judgment.

.04 Integrity also requires a member to observe the principles of objectivity and independence and of due care.

[The next page is 4321.]

ET Section 55

Article IV—Objectivity and Independence

A member should maintain objectivity and be free of conflicts of interest in discharging professional responsibilities. A member in public practice should be independent in fact and appearance when providing auditing and other attestation services.

.01 Objectivity is a state of mind, a quality that lends value to a member's services. It is a distinguishing feature of the profession. The principle of objectivity imposes the obligation to be impartial, intellectually honest, and free of conflicts of interest. Independence precludes relationships that may appear to impair a member's objectivity in rendering attestation services.

.02 Members often serve multiple interests in many different capacities and must demonstrate their objectivity in varying circumstances. Members in public practice render attest, tax, and management advisory services. Other members prepare financial statements in the employment of others, perform internal auditing services, and serve in financial and management capacities in industry, education, and government. They also educate and train those who aspire to admission into the profession. Regardless of service or capacity, members should protect the integrity of their work, maintain objectivity, and avoid any subordination of their judgment.

.03 For a member in public practice, the maintenance of objectivity and independence requires a continuing assessment of client relationships and public responsibility. Such a member who provides auditing and other attestation services should be independent in fact and appearance. In providing all other services, a member should maintain objectivity and avoid conflicts of interest.

.04 Although members not in public practice cannot maintain the appearance of independence, they nevertheless have the responsibility to maintain objectivity in rendering professional services. Members employed by others to prepare financial statements or to perform auditing, tax, or consulting services are charged with the same responsibility for objectivity as members in public practice and must be scrupulous in their application of generally accepted accounting principles and candid in all their dealings with members in public practice.

ET Section 56

Article V—Due Care

A member should observe the profession's technical and ethical standards, strive continually to improve competence and the quality of services, and discharge professional responsibility to the best of the member's ability.

.01 The quest for excellence is the essence of due care. Due care requires a member to discharge professional responsibilities with competence and diligence. It imposes the obligation to perform professional services to the best of a member's ability with concern for the best interest of those for whom the services are performed and consistent with the profession's responsibility to the public.

.02 Competence is derived from a synthesis of education and experience. It begins with a mastery of the common body of knowledge required for designation as a certified public accountant. The maintenance of competence requires a commitment to learning and professional improvement that must continue throughout a member's professional life. It is a member's individual responsibility. In all engagements and in all responsibilities, each member should undertake to achieve a level of competence that will assure that the quality of the member's services meets the high level of professionalism required by these Principles.

.03 Competence represents the attainment and maintenance of a level of understanding and knowledge that enables a member to render services with facility and acumen. It also establishes the limitations of a member's capabilities by dictating that consultation or referral may be required when a professional engagement exceeds the personal competence of a member or a member's firm. Each member is responsible for assessing his or her own competence—of evaluating whether education, experience, and judgment are adequate for the responsibility to be assumed.

.04 Members should be diligent in discharging responsibilities to clients, employers, and the public. Diligence imposes the responsibility to render services promptly and carefully, to be thorough, and to observe applicable technical and ethical standards.

.05 Due care requires a member to plan and supervise adequately any professional activity for which he or she is responsible.

[The next page is 4341.]

ET Section 57

Article VI—Scope and Nature of Services

A member in public practice should observe the Principles of the Code of Professional Conduct in determining the scope and nature of services to be provided.

.01 The public interest aspect of certified public accountants' services requires that such services be consistent with acceptable professional behavior for certified public accountants. Integrity requires that service and the public trust not be subordinated to personal gain and advantage. Objectivity and independence require that members be free from conflicts of interest in discharging professional responsibilities. Due care requires that services be provided with competence and diligence.

.02 Each of these Principles should be considered by members in determining whether or not to provide specific services in individual circumstances. In some instances, they may represent an overall constraint on the nonaudit services that might be offered to a specific client. No hard-and-fast rules can be developed to help members reach these judgments, but they must be satisfied that they are meeting the spirit of the Principles in this regard.

.03 In order to accomplish this, members should

- Practice in firms that have in place internal quality-control procedures to ensure that services are competently delivered and adequately supervised.
- Determine, in their individual judgments, whether the scope and nature of other services provided to an audit client would create a conflict of interest in the performance of the audit function for that client.
- Assess, in their individual judgments, whether an activity is consistent with their role as professionals (for example, Is such activity a reasonable extension or variation of existing services offered by the member or others in the profession?).

Applicability

As adopted
January 12, 1988

.01 The bylaws of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants require that members adhere to the Rules of the Code of Professional Conduct. Members must be prepared to justify departures from these Rules.

.02 Interpretation Addressing the Applicability of the AICPA Code of Professional Conduct. For purposes of the applicability section of the Code, a "member" is a member or international associate of the American Institute of CPAs.

1. The Rules of Conduct that follow apply to all professional services performed except (a) where the wording of the rule indicates otherwise and (b) that a member who is practicing outside the United States will not be subject to discipline for departing from any of the rules stated herein as long as the member's conduct is in accord with the rules of the organized accounting profession in the country in which he or she is practicing. However, where a member's name is associated with financial statements under circumstances that would entitle the reader to assume that United States practices were followed, the member must comply with the requirements of rules 202 [ET section 202.01] and 203 [ET section 203.01].
2. A member may be held responsible for compliance with the rules by all persons associated with him or her in the practice of public accounting who are either under the member's supervision or are the member's partners or shareholders in the practice.
3. A member shall not permit others to carry out on his or her behalf, either with or without compensation, acts which, if carried out by the member, would place the member in violation of the rules.

ET Section 92

Definitions

As adopted,
January 12, 1988,
unless otherwise

[Pursuant to its authority under the bylaws (BL § 3.6.2.2) to interpret the Code of Professional Conduct, the Professional Ethics Executive Committee has issued the following definitions of terms appearing in the code effective November 30, 1989.]

.01 Client. (This replaces the previous definition of "Client" at paragraph .01.) A client is any person or entity, other than the member's employer, that engages a member or a member's firm to perform professional services or a person or entity with respect to which professional services are performed. The term "employer" for these purposes does not include those entities engaged in the practice of public accounting.

.02 Council. The Council of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

.03 Enterprise. (This replaces the previous definition of "Enterprise" at paragraph .03.) For purposes of the Code, the term "enterprise" is synonymous with the term "client."

.04 Financial statements. A presentation of financial data, including accompanying notes, if any, intended to communicate an entity's economic resources and/or obligations at a point in time or the changes therein for a period of time, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles or a comprehensive basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

Incidental financial data to support recommendations to a client or in documents for which the reporting is governed by Statements on Standards for Attestation Engagements and tax returns and supporting schedules do not, for this purpose, constitute financial statements. The statement, affidavit, or signature of preparers required on tax returns neither constitutes an opinion on financial statements nor requires a disclaimer of such opinion.

[Revised May, 1996.]

.05 Firm. A form of organization permitted by state law or regulation whose characteristics conform to resolutions of Council that is engaged in the practice of public accounting, including the individual owners thereof.

[Revised January, 1992.]

.06 Institute. The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

.07 Interpretations of rules of conduct. Pronouncements issued by the division of professional ethics to provide guidelines concerning the scope and application of the rules of conduct.

.08 Member. A member, associate member, or international associate of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

.09 Practice of public accounting. (This replaces the previous definition of "Practice of public accounting" at paragraph .09.) The practice of public accounting consists of the performance for a client, by a member or a member's firm, while holding out as CPA(s), of the professional services of accounting, tax, personal financial planning, litigation support services, and those professional services for which standards are promulgated by bodies designated by Council, such as Statements of Financial Accounting Standards, Statements on Auditing Standards, Statements on Standards for Accounting and Review Services, Statement on Standards for Consulting Services, Statements of Governmental Accounting Standards, and Statements on Standards for Attestation Engagements.

However, a member or a member's firm, while holding out as CPA(s), is not considered to be in the practice of public accounting if the member or the member's firm does not perform, for any client, any of the professional services described in the preceding paragraph.

[Revised April, 1992.]

.10 Professional services. (This replaces the previous definition of "Professional services" at paragraph .10.) Professional services include all services performed by a member while holding out as a CPA.

.11 Holding out. In general, any action initiated by a member that informs others of his or her status as a CPA or AICPA-accredited specialist constitutes holding out as a CPA. This would include, for example, any oral or written representation to another regarding CPA status, use of the CPA designation on business cards or letterhead, the display of a certificate evidencing a member's CPA designation, or listing as a CPA in local telephone directories.

ET Section 101

Independence

.01 Rule 101—Independence. A member in public practice shall be independent in the performance of professional services as required by standards promulgated by bodies designated by Council.

[As adopted January 12, 1988.]

Interpretations under Rule 101—Independence

Interpretations and Ethics Rulings which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

.02 101-1—Interpretation of Rule 101. Independence shall be considered to be impaired if, for example, a member had any of the following transactions, interests, or relationships:

- A. During the period of a professional engagement or at the time of expressing an opinion, a member or a member's firm
 1. Had or was committed to acquire any direct or material indirect financial interest in the enterprise.
 2. Was a trustee of any trust or executor or administrator of any estate if such trust or estate had or was committed to acquire any direct or material indirect financial interest in the enterprise.
 3. Had any joint, closely held business investment with the enterprise or with any officer, director, or principal stockholders thereof that was material in relation to the member's net worth or to the net worth of the member's firm.
 4. Had any loan to or from the enterprise or any officer, director, or principal stockholder of the enterprise except as specifically permitted in interpretation 101-5 [ET section 101.07].
- B. During the period covered by the financial statements, during the period of the professional engagement, or at the time of expressing an opinion, a member or a member's firm
 1. Was connected with the enterprise as a promoter, underwriter or voting trustee, as a director or officer, or in any capacity equivalent to that of a member of management or of an employee.
 2. Was a trustee for any pension or profit-sharing trust of the enterprise.

The above examples are not intended to be all-inclusive.

The period of a professional engagement starts when the member begins to perform any professional services requiring independence for an enterprise, lasts for the entire duration of the professional relationship, which could cover many periods, and ends with the formal or informal notification of the termination of the professional relationship either by the member, by the enterprise, or by the issuance of a report, whichever is later. Accordingly, the professional engagement does not end with the issuance of a report and recommence with the signing of the following year's engagement.

Revised, November 1991, effective January 1, 1992 with earlier application encouraged, by the Professional Ethics Executive Committee. Revised, effective February 28, 1998, by the Professional Ethics Executive Committee.]

[.03] [101-1] [Formerly paragraph .02 renumbered by adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988. Formerly interpretation 101-1, renumbered as 101-4 and moved to paragraph .06, April 1992.]

.04 101-2—Former practitioners and firm independence. For purposes of this interpretation, a former practitioner is defined as a proprietor, partner, shareholder, or equivalent who leaves by resignation, termination, retirement, or sale of all or part of the practice.

For purposes of determining a firm's compliance with rule 101 [ET section 101.01] and its interpretations, a former practitioner is not included in the term "a member or a member's firm" (see ethics interpretation 101-9, ET section 101.11) provided that

1. Payment of the amounts due to the former practitioner for his or her interest in the firm and for unfunded, vested retirement benefits according to the payment schedule in effect should be such that they do not cause a substantial doubt about the firm's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time. In addition, such amounts including all retirement benefits should be fixed, both as to the amount and payment dates. Such amounts due a former practitioner may be paid over a reasonable period of time, and a reasonable rate of interest may be paid on any unpaid balances. Retirement benefits may be adjusted only for inflation.

2. The former practitioner does not participate in the firm's business or professional activities whether or not compensated for such participation. This proscription does not apply to consultations on an advisory basis for a reasonable period of time during the transition period upon leaving the firm.

3. The former practitioner does not appear to participate in the activities of or be associated with his or her former firm. An appearance of participation or association results from such actions as inclusion of the former practitioner's name under the firm's name in an office building directory, inclusion of the former practitioner's name as a member of the firm in membership lists of business, professional or civic organizations, or inclusion of the former practitioner's name in the firm's internal directory without being designated as retired. The former practitioner will not be considered as participating or associating with his or her former firm solely because the former practitioner is provided an office, either in the firm's suite or in a separate location, and related office amenities such as secretarial and telephone services. (However, see 4. below for restrictions regarding office space and amenities for a former practitioner who accepts a position of significant influence with a client.)

4. A former practitioner in a position of significant influence with the client must no longer be provided with office space and related amenities by his or her former firm.

[Replaces previous interpretation 101-2, Retired Partners and Firm Independence, August, 1989, effective August 31, 1989.]

.05 101-3—Accounting services. Members in public practice may be asked to provide manual or automated bookkeeping or data processing services to clients. Computer systems design and programming assistance may also be rendered by members either in conjunction with data processing services or as a separate engagement. In addition, members may rent “block time” on their computers to their clients but are not involved in the processing of transactions or maintaining the client’s accounting records.

A member providing such services to a client must meet the following requirements to be considered independent:

1. The client must accept the responsibility for the financial statements as his own. The client must be sufficiently informed of the enterprise’s activities and financial condition and the applicable accounting principles so that the client can reasonably accept such responsibility, including, specifically, fairness of “valuation and presentation” and adequacy of disclosure. When necessary, the member must discuss accounting matters with the client to assist the client in understanding such matters.

2. The member must not assume the role of employee or of management. For example, the member shall not consummate transactions, have custody of assets, or exercise authority on behalf of the client. The client must prepare the source documents on transactions in sufficient detail to identify clearly the nature and amount of such transactions. The member should not make changes in such basic data without the concurrence of the client.

3. When financial statements are prepared from books and records which the member has maintained, the member must comply with applicable standards for audits, reviews, or compilations.

[Formerly paragraph .04, renumbered by adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988. Revised, effective June 30, 1990, by the Professional Ethics Executive Committee.]

.06 101-4—Honorary directorships and trusteeships of not-for-profit organization. Members may be asked to lend the prestige of their names to not-for-profit organizations that limit their activities to those of a charitable, religious, civic, or similar nature by being named as a director or a trustee. A member who permits his or her name to be used in this manner and who is associated with the financial statements of the organization would not be considered lacking in independence under rule 101 [ET section 101.01] so long as his or her position is clearly honorary, and he or she cannot vote or otherwise participate in board or management functions. If the member is named in letterheads and externally circulated materials, the member must be identified as an honorary director or honorary trustee. [Formerly paragraph .05, renumbered by adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988. Formerly Interpretation 101-1. Revised, effective June 30, 1990, by the Professional Ethics Executive Committee. Renumbered as Interpretation 101-4 and moved from paragraph .03, April, 1992.]

.07 101-5—Loans from financial institution clients and related terminology. Interpretation 101-1.A.4 [ET section 101.02] provides that, except as permitted in this interpretation, a member’s independence shall be considered to be impaired if the member has any loan to or from the enterprise or any officer, director, or principal stockholder of the enterprise. This interpretation does not consider independence to be impaired for certain grandfathered loans and other permitted loans from financial institution clients for whom services are performed requiring independence as set forth below under "Grandfathered Loans" and "Other Permitted Loans," respectively.

Grandfathered Loans

This interpretation grandfathers the following loans obtained from a financial institution under that institution's normal lending procedures, terms, and requirements, and that meet the other specified conditions stated herein, and (a) that exist as of January 1, 1992; (b) that were obtained from a financial institution prior to its becoming a client requiring independence; (c) that were obtained from a financial institution for which independence was not required and that were later sold to a client for which independence is required; or (d) that were obtained from a financial institution client requiring independence, by a borrower prior to his or her becoming a member with respect to such client. However, independence will be considered to be impaired if, after January 1, 1992, a member obtains a loan as described in this paragraph from an entity that, at the time of obtaining the loan, is a client requiring independence. For purposes of applying the grandfathered loans provision, the date a loan commitment or line of credit is granted must be used, rather than the date a transaction closes or funds are obtained. Grandfathered loans must, at all times, be current as to all terms.

1. Home mortgages.
2. Other secured loans. The value of the collateral securing such loans should equal or exceed the remaining balance of the grandfathered loans during the term of the loans. However, if the value of the collateral is less than the remaining balance of the grandfathered loans, the portion of the loans that exceeds the value of the collateral must not be material to the member's net worth.
3. Unsecured loans not material to the member's net worth.

A loan would no longer be considered grandfathered if, after the latest of the dates in (a) through (d) above, the terms of the loan change in any manner not provided for in the original loan agreement. Changes in the terms of the loan include, but are not limited to, a new or extended maturity date, a new interest rate or formula, revised collateral, or revised or waived covenants.

With respect to (1) limited partnerships (or similar type entities) in which member(s) have a combined interest exceeding 50 percent of the total limited partnership interest, and (2) general partnerships in which member(s) can control the partnership, the loan is ascribed to each partner on the basis of legal liability as a limited or general partner. Even if the amount ascribed to the member is zero, independence is considered to be impaired if the partnership renegotiates the loan or enters into a new loan after the latest of the dates in (a) through (d) above.

Other Permitted Loans

This interpretation permits only the following loans obtained from a financial institution client for which independence is required. These loans must be obtained under the institution's normal lending procedures, terms, and requirements and must, at all times, be kept current as to all terms.

For the definition of "member" see interpretation 101-9 [ET section 101.11], "The meaning of certain independence terminology and the effect of family relationships on independence."

1. Automobile loans and leases collateralized by the automobile.
2. Loans fully collateralized by the cash surrender value of an insurance policy.
3. Loans fully collateralized by cash deposits at the same financial institution (e.g., "passbook loans").
4. Credit cards and cash advances where the aggregate outstanding balance on the current statement is reduced to $5,000 or less by the payment due date.

Terminology

For purposes of interpretations 101-1.A.4 [ET section 101.02] and 101-5 [ET section 101.07], the following terms are defined:

Loan

A loan is considered to be a financial transaction, the characteristics of which generally include, but are not limited to, an agreement that provides for repayment terms and a rate of interest. A loan includes, but is not limited to, a guarantee of a loan, a letter of credit, a line of credit, or a loan commitment.

Financial Institution

A financial institution is considered to be an entity that, as part of its normal business operations, makes loans to the general public.

Normal Lending Procedures, Terms, and Requirements

"Normal lending procedures, terms, and requirements" relating to a member's loan from a financial institution are defined as lending procedures, terms, and requirements that are reasonably comparable with those relating to loans of a similar character committed to other borrowers during the period in which the loan to the member is committed. Accordingly, in making such comparison and in evaluating whether a loan was made under "normal lending procedures, terms, and requirements," the member should consider all the circumstances under which the loan was granted, including

1. The amount of the loan in relation to the value of the collateral pledged as security and the credit standing of the member or the member's firm.
2. Repayment terms.
3. Interest rate, including "points."
4. Closing costs.
5. General availability of such loans to the public.

Related prohibitions that may be more restrictive are prescribed by certain state and federal agencies having regulatory authority over such financial institutions. Broker-dealers, for example, are subject to regulation by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

.08 101-6—The effect of actual or threatened litigation on independence. Rule 101 [ET section 101.01] provides that a member shall be independent in the performance of professional services as required by standards promulgated by bodies designated by Council. In some circumstances, independence may be considered to be impaired as a result of litigation or the expressed intention to commence litigation.

Litigation between client and member

In order for the member to fulfill his obligation to render an informed, objective opinion on the client company's financial statements, the relationship between the management of the client and the member must be characterized by complete candor and full disclosure regarding all aspects of the client's business operations. In addition, there must be an absence of bias on the part of the member so that he or she can exercise professional judgment on the financial reporting decisions made by the management. When the present management of a client company commences, or expresses an intention to commence, legal action against the member, the member and the client management may be placed in adversarial positions in which the management's willingness to make complete disclosures and the member's objectivity may be affected by self-interest.

For the reasons outlined above, independence may be impaired whenever the member and the member's client company or its management are in threatened or actual positions of material adverse interests by reason of threatened or actual litigation. Because of the complexity and diversity of the situations of adverse interests which may arise, however, it is difficult to prescribe precise points at which independence may be impaired. The following criteria are offered as guidelines:

1. The commencement of litigation by the present management alleging deficiencies in audit work for the client would be considered to impair independence.
2. The commencement of litigation by the member against the present management alleging management fraud or deceit would be considered to impair independence.
3. An expressed intention by the present management to commence litigation against the member alleging deficiencies in audit work for the client would be considered to impair independence if the auditor concludes that it is probable that such a claim will be filed.
4. Litigation not related to an engagement requiring independence for the client (whether threatened or actual) for an amount not material to the member's firm¹ or to the client company¹ would not usually be considered to affect the relationship in such a way as to impair independence. Such claims may arise, for example, out of disputes as to billings for services, results of tax or management services advice or similar matters.

Litigation by security holders

The member may also become involved in litigation ("primary litigation") in which the member and the client company or its management are defendants.

Such litigation may arise, for example, when one or more stockholders bring a stockholders' derivative action or a so-called "class action" against the client company or its management, its officers, directors, underwriters and members under the securities laws. Such primary litigation in itself would not alter fundamental relationships between the client company or its management and the member and therefore should not be deemed to have an adverse impact on the member's independence. These situations should be examined carefully, however, since the potential for adverse interests may exist if cross-claims are filed against the member alleging that the member is responsible for any deficiencies or if the member alleges fraud or deceit by the present management as a defense. In assessing the extent to which the member's independence may be impaired under these conditions, the member should consider the following additional guidelines:

1. The existence of cross-claims filed by the client, its management, or any of its directors to protect a right to legal redress in the event of a future adverse decision in the primary litigation (or, in lieu of cross-claims, agreements to extend the statute of limitations) would not normally affect the relationship between client management and the member in such a way as to impair independence, unless there exists a significant risk that the cross-claim will result in a settlement or judgment in an amount material to the member's firm² or to the client.
2. The assertion of cross-claims against the member by underwriters would not usually impair independence if no such claims are asserted by the company or the present management.
3. If any of the persons who file cross-claims against the member are also officers or directors of other clients of the member, the member's independence with respect to such other clients would not usually be impaired.

Other third-party litigation

Another type of third-party litigation against the member may be commenced by a lending institution, other creditor, security holder, or insurance company who alleges reliance on financial statements of the client with which the member is associated as a basis for extending credit or insurance coverage to the client. In some instances, an insurance company may commence litigation (under subrogation rights) against the member in the name of the client to recover losses reimbursed to the client. These types of litigation would not normally affect the member's independence with respect to a client who is either not the plaintiff or is only the nominal plaintiff, since the relationship between the member and client management would not be affected. They should be examined carefully, however, since the potential for adverse interests may exist if the member alleges, in his defense, fraud, or deceit by the present management.

If the real party in interest in the litigation (e.g., the insurance company) is also a client of the member ("the plaintiff client"), the member's independence with respect to the plaintiff client may be impaired if the litigation involves a significant risk of a settlement or judgment in an amount which would be material to the member's firm² or to the plaintiff client.

Effects of impairment of independence

If the member believes that the circumstances would lead a reasonable person having knowledge of the facts to conclude that the actual or intended litigation poses an unacceptable threat to the member's independence, the member should either (a) disengage himself or herself, or (b) disclaim an opinion because of lack of independence. Such disengagement may take the form of resignation or cessation of any audit work then in progress pending resolution of the issue between the parties.

Termination of impairment

The conditions giving rise to a lack of independence are usually eliminated when a final resolution is reached and the matters at issue no longer affect the relationship between the member and client. The member should carefully review the conditions of such resolution to determine that all impairments to the member's objectivity have been removed.

.10 101-8—Effect on independence of financial interests in nonclients having investor or investee relationships with a member's client.

Introduction

Financial interests in nonclients that are related in various ways to a client may impair independence. Situations in which the nonclient investor is a partnership are covered in other rulings [ET section 191.138-.139, .158-.159, and .162-.163].

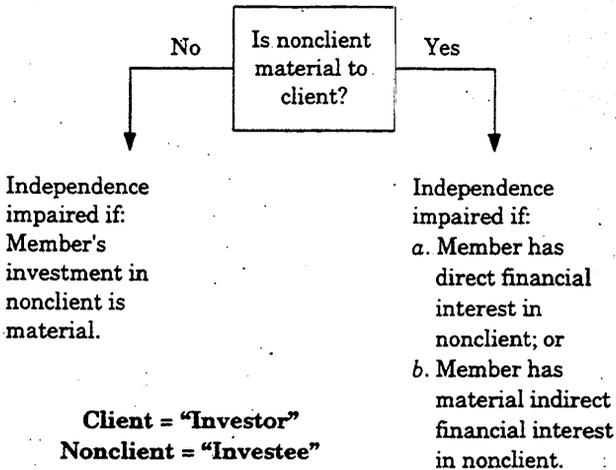

Terminology

The following specifically identified terms are used in this interpretation as indicated:

1. Client. The term client means the person or entity with whose financial statements the member or the member's firm is associated.
2. Significant Influence. The term significant influence is as defined in Accounting Principles Board (APB) Opinion 18 [AC I82].
3. Investor. The term investor means (a) a parent, (b) a general partner, or (c) a natural person or corporation that has the ability to exercise significant influence.
4. Investee. The term investee means (a) a subsidiary or (b) an entity over which an investor has the ability to exercise significant influence.

Interpretation

Where a nonclient investee is material to a client investor, any direct or material indirect financial interest of a member in the nonclient investee would be considered to impair the member's independence with respect to the client investor. If the nonclient investee is immaterial to the client investor, a member's material investment in the nonclient investee would cause an impairment of independence.

Where a client investee is material to nonclient investor, any direct or material indirect financial interest of a member in the nonclient investor would be considered to impair the member's independence with respect to the client investee. If the client investee is immaterial to the nonclient investor, and if a member's financial interest in the nonclient investor allows the member to exercise significant influence over the actions of the nonclient investor, the member's independence would be considered impaired.

Other relationships, such as those involving brother-sister common control or client-nonclient joint ventures, may affect the appearance of independence. The member should make a reasonable inquiry to determine whether such relationships exist, and if they do, careful consideration should be given to whether the financial interests in question would lead a reasonable observer to conclude that the specified relationships pose an unacceptable threat to the member's independence.

In general, in brother-sister common control situations, an immaterial financial interest of a member in the nonclient investee would not impair the independence of a member with respect to the client investee, provided the member could not exercise significant influence over the nonclient investor.

However, if a member's financial interest in a nonclient investee is material, the member could be influenced by the nonclient investor, thereby impairing the member's independence with respect to the client investee. In like manner, in a joint venture situation, an immaterial financial interest of a member in the nonclient investor would not impair the independence of the member with respect to the client investor, provided that the member could not exercise significant influence over the nonclient investor.

If a member does not and could not reasonably be expected to have knowledge of the financial interests or relationship described in this interpretation, the member's independence would not be considered to be impaired under this interpretation.

.11 101-9—The meaning of certain independence terminology and the effect of family relationships on independence.

This interpretation defines certain terms used in interpretation 101-1 [ET section 101.02] and, in doing so, also explains how independence may be impaired through certain family relationships.

Member or Member's Firm

A member (as used in rule 101 [ET section 101.01]) and a member or a member's firm (as used in interpretation 101-1 [ET section 101.02]) include—

1. The member's firm and its proprietors, partners, or shareholders. A member's firm is defined as a form of organization permitted by state law or regulation whose characteristics conform to resolutions of Council that is engaged in the practice of public accounting, including the individual owners thereof.
2. All individuals³ participating in the engagement, except those who perform only routine clerical functions, such as typing and photocopying.
3. All individuals³ with a managerial position located in an office participating in a significant portion of the engagement.
4. Any entity (for example, a partnership, corporation, trust, joint venture, or pool) whose operating, financial, or accounting policies can be controlled (see definition of control for consolidation purposes in Financial Accounting Standards Board [FASB] Statement No. 94 [AC section C51]) by one or more of the persons described in (1) through (3) or by two or more such persons if they choose to act together.

A member or a member's firm does not include an individual³ solely because he or she was formerly associated with the client in any capacity described in interpretation 101-1-B [ET section 101.02], if such an individual³ has disassociated himself or herself from the client and does not participate in the engagement for the client covering any period of his or her association with the client.

A member or a member's firm includes individuals³ who provide services to clients and are associated with the client in any capacity described in interpretation 101-1-B [ET section 101.02], if the individuals³ are located in an office participating in a significant portion of the engagement.

Managerial Position

The organization of firms varies; therefore, whether an individual has a managerial position depends on his or her responsibilities and how he or she or the position itself is held out to clients and third parties. The following are some, but not necessarily all, of the responsibilities that suggest that an individual has a managerial position:

1. Continuing responsibility for the overall planning and supervision of engagements for specified clients
2. Authority to determine that an engagement is complete subject to final partner approval if required
3. Responsibility for client relationships (for example, negotiating and collecting fees for engagements and marketing the firm's services)
4. Existence of profit sharing as a significant feature of total compensation
5. Responsibility for overall management of the firm, development, or establishment of firm policies on technical matters, and implementation of or compliance with the following five elements of quality control:
 - a. Independence, integrity and objectivity
 - b. Personnel management
 - c. Acceptance and continuation of clients and engagements
 - d. Engagement performance
 - e. Monitoring

Significant Influence

A person or entity can exercise significant influence over the operating, financial, or accounting policies of another entity if for example, the person or entity—

1. Is connected with the entity as a promoter, underwriter, voting trustee, general partner or director (other than an honorary director as defined in the AICPA Code of Professional Conduct).

³ Refers to all employees of the member and all contractors retained by the member, except specialists as discussed in SAS No. 73 [AU section 336], irrespective of their functional classification (for example, audit, tax, or management consulting services).

2. Is connected with the entity in a policy-making position related to the entity's primary operating, financial, or accounting policies, such as chief executive officer, chief operating officer, chief financial officer, or chief accounting officer.
3. Meets the criteria established in Accounting Principles Board Opinion No. 18, The Equity Method of Accounting for Investments in Common Stock, [AC section I82], and its interpretations to determine the ability of an investor to exercise such influence with respect to an entity.

The foregoing examples are not necessarily all-inclusive.

Office Participating in a Significant Portion of the Engagement

An office would be considered to be participating in a significant portion of an engagement if the office had primary client responsibility for a multioffice engagement. In addition, professional judgment must be exercised in deciding whether any other office participates in a significant portion of a multioffice engagement. For example, an office would be considered to be participating in a significant portion of the engagement if the office's engagement hours or fees are material to total engagement hours or fees or if the office's responsibility for reporting, whether internally or externally, on a portion of the engagement relates to a material amount of assets or income (loss) before income taxes of the client.

The foregoing examples are not necessarily inclusive of all the situations in which an office may be considered to be participating in a significant portion of the engagement.

Spouses and Dependent Persons

Except as stated in the following paragraph, the term member includes spouses (whether or not dependent) and dependent persons (whether or not related) for all purposes of complying with rule 101 [ET section 101.01].

The exception is that the independence of the member and the member's firm will not normally be impaired solely as a result of the employment of a spouse or dependent person by a client subject to the following conditions:

1. Independence would be considered to be impaired if a spouse or dependent person of one of the following has a position with the client that allows significant influence over the client's operating, financial, or accounting policies:
 - a. An individual participating in the engagement
 - b. A proprietor, partner, or shareholder who—
 - i. is located in an office participating in a significant portion of the engagement; or
 - ii. has the ability to exercise influence over the engagement; or
 - iii. has any involvement with the engagement (for example, consultation on accounting or auditing issues)
2. Independence will be considered to be impaired if a spouse or dependent person of an individual participating in the engagement has a position with the client involving activities that are audit-sensitive (even though the position is not one that allows significant influence).

In general, a person's activities would be considered audit-sensitive if such activities are normally an element of or subject to significant internal accounting controls. For example, the following positions, which are not intended to be all-inclusive, would normally be considered audit-sensitive: cashier; internal auditor; accounting supervisor; purchasing agent; or inventory warehouse supervisor.

Nondependent Close Relative

The term member or member's firm excludes nondependent close relatives of the persons described in (1) through (3) of that definition. Nevertheless, in the circumstances discussed below the independence of a member or a firm can be impaired because of a nondependent close relative.

Close relatives are nondependent children, grandchildren stepchildren, brothers, sisters, grandparents, parents, parents-in-law and their respective spouses. Close relatives do not include the brothers and sisters of the member's spouse.

The independence of a member's firm would be considered to be impaired with respect to an enterprise if—

1. During the period of the professional engagement or at the time of expressing an opinion, an individual participating in the engagement has a close relative with a financial interest in the enterprise that was material to the close relative and of which the individual participating in the engagement has knowledge.
2. During the period covered by the financial statements, during the period of the professional engagement, or at the time of expressing an opinion—
 - a. An individual participating in the engagement has a close relative who could exercise significant influence over the operating, financial, or accounting policies of the enterprise or who is otherwise employed in a position in which the person's activities are audit-sensitive, or
 - b. A proprietor, partner, or shareholder any one of whom is located in an office participating in a significant portion of the engagement, has a close relative who could exercise significant influence over the operating, financial, or accounting policies of the enterprise.

Other Considerations

Members must be aware that it is impossible to enumerate all circumstances wherein the appearance of a member's independence might be questioned by third parties. For example, a member's relationship with a cohabitant may be equivalent to that of a spouse. In addition, in situations involving assessment of the association of any relative or dependent person with a client, members must consider whether the strength of personal and business relationships between the member and the relative or dependent person, in conjunction with the specified association with the client, would lead a reasonable person aware of all the facts, who took into consideration normal strength of character and normal behavior under such circumstances, to conclude that the situation poses an unacceptable threat to the member's objectivity and appearance of independence.

.12 101-10—The effect on independence of relationships with entities included in the governmental financial statements.⁴ For purposes of this interpretation, a financial reporting entity's general purpose financial statements issued in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles include the primary government, its fund types, funds, account groups, and blended component units, financial statements or disclosures of discretely presented component units that should be included in the general purpose financial statements, and notes to the general purpose financial statements. Entities that should be disclosed in the notes to the general purpose financial statements include, but are not limited to, related organizations, joint ventures, jointly governed organizations, and component units of another government with characteristics of a joint venture or jointly governed organization.

Auditor of Financial Reporting Entity

A member issuing a report on the general purpose financial statements of the financial reporting entity must be independent of the financial reporting entity, as defined in paragraph 1 of this interpretation. However, independence is not required with respect to a related organization if the financial reporting entity is not financially accountable for the organization and the required disclosure does not include financial information (for example, the ability to appoint or the appointment of governing board members).

Auditor of a Material Fund Type, Fund, Account Group, or Component Unit of the Financial Reporting Entity or Entity that Should Be Disclosed in the Notes to the General Purpose Financial Statements of the Financial Reporting Entity

A member who is auditing the financial statements of a material fund type, fund, account group, or component unit of the financial reporting entity or entity that should be disclosed in the notes to the general purpose financial statements of the financial reporting entity but is not auditing the primary government, should be independent with respect to those financial statements and those of the primary government. The member is not required to be independent of other fund types, funds, account groups, or component units of the financial reporting entity or entities that should be disclosed in the notes to the general purpose financial statements of the financial reporting entity provided they are not financially accountable for or to the auditee organization⁵ or cannot significantly influence the auditee organization through financial transactions or through common policy-making individuals⁶ or governing board membership.

Auditor of Immaterial Fund Type, Fund, Account Group, or Component Unit of the Financial Reporting Entity or Entity that Should Be

⁴ Except for a financial reporting entity's general purpose financial statements, which is defined within the text of this interpretation, certain terminology used throughout the interpretation is specifically defined by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board.

⁵ Auditee organization refers to the entity with respect to which professional services are performed.

Disclosed in the Notes to the General Purpose Financial Statements of the Financial Reporting Entity

A member who is not auditing the primary government but is auditing the financial statements of one or more fund type(s), fund(s), account group(s), or component unit(s) of the financial reporting entity or entity(ies) that should be disclosed in the notes to the general purpose financial statements of the financial reporting entity that alone or in the aggregate are immaterial to the general purpose financial statements, should be independent with respect to those financial statements and should not be associated with the primary government in any capacity described in interpretation 101-1-B [ET section 101.02]. If the member is auditing immaterial fund types, funds, account groups or component units of the financial reporting entity or entities that should be disclosed in the notes to the general purpose financial statements of the financial reporting entity that, when aggregated, are material to the financial reporting entity, the member should be independent of those financial statements and the primary government.

.13 101-11—Independence and the performance of professional services under the Statements on Standards for Attestation Engagements and Statement on Auditing Standards No. 75, Engagements to Apply Agreed-Upon Procedures to Specified Elements, Accounts, or Items of a Financial StatementIntroduction

Rule 101, Independence [ET section 101.01], provides that “a member in public practice shall be independent in the performance of professional services as required by standards promulgated by bodies designated by Council.” The Statement on Standards for Attestation Engagements, Attestation Standards [AT section 100], and Statement on Auditing Standards No. 1, section 220, Independence [AU section 220], require independence in the performance of engagements covered by those standards. Rule 101 [ET section 101.01] and its interpretations and rulings provide guidance in determining whether or not a member is independent.

[Definitions]

Assertion. Any declaration, or a set of related declarations taken as a whole, by a party responsible for it.

Subject Matter of an Engagement. Any attribute or subset of attributes referred to or contained in an assertion that may in and of itself constitute an assertion.

Responsible Party. The person(s) or entity responsible for an assertion or the subject matter of an assertion; or a specified element, account, or item of a financial statement that is the specific subject matter of the engagement.

Engagement. An engagement in which a member or member's firm is engaged to or does issue a written communication that expresses a conclusion about the reliability of a written assertion; or an engagement in which a member is engaged to or does issue a report of findings based on specific procedures performed on the specific subject matter of specified elements, accounts, or items of a financial statement.

Engagement Team. Includes owners, partners, and shareholders of a firm who participate in the acceptance or performance of the engagement and full- or part-time professional employees who participate in the acceptance or the performance of the engagement, including individuals who provide consultation or supervisory services for the engagement.

Firm. Any organization permitted by state law or regulation to engage in the practice of public accounting whose characteristics conform to resolutions of [the AICPA] Council [ET appendix B] of which an individual on the engagement team is an owner, partner, shareholder, or employee; but does not include owners, partners, shareholders, or employees as individuals.

[Applicability]

This interpretation applies only to engagements performed under the Statements on Standards for Attestation Engagements and Statement on Auditing Standards No. 75, Engagements to Apply Agreed-Upon Procedures to Specified Elements, Accounts, or Items of a Financial Statement [AU section 622], when the report issued states that its use is to be restricted to identified parties and the member reasonably expects that the report will be restricted to those parties.⁷

This interpretation does not apply to engagements covered by the Statements on Standards for Attestation Engagements or Statement on Auditing Standards No. 75, Engagements to Apply Agreed-Upon Procedures to Specified Elements, Accounts, or Items of a Financial Statement [AU section 622], when the report issued does not state that its use is to be restricted to identified parties, nor does it apply to engagements requiring independence under other standards promulgated by bodies designated by Council. In all other circumstances, independence in accordance with rule 101 [ET section 101.01] and its interpretations and rulings would apply.

Interpretation

Independence will be considered to be impaired if, during the period of the engagement or at the time the written communication is issued—

1. An individual on the engagement team or his or her spouse, dependent, or firm has a relationship with the responsible party that is proscribed by interpretation 101-1 [ET section 101.02] of rule 101 [ET section 101.01].
2. An individual on the engagement team has a nondependent close relative⁸ who has either a position of significant influence with, or a financial interest material to the close relative in the responsible party.
3. An owner, partner, or shareholder of the firm who is located in an office participating in a significant portion of the engagement, or the spouse or dependent of such an owner, partner, or shareholder, has either a position of significant influence⁸ with, or a financial interest material to such person in the responsible party.

⁸ For purposes of this interpretation, this term shall mean the same as in interpretation 101-9, "The Meaning of Certain Independence Terminology and the Effect of Family Relationships on Independence" [ET section 101.11].

4. The firm, an individual on the engagement team (or his or her spouse or dependent), or an owner, partner, or shareholder in an office performing a significant portion of the engagement, contributed to the development of the subject matter of the engagement or stands to gain financially directly from the outcome of the engagement.
5. An individual on the engagement team knows or could reasonably be expected to know that any owner, partner, or shareholder located in other offices of the firm (a) contributed to the development of the subject matter of the engagement or stands to gain financially directly from the outcome of the engagement or (b) has a position of significant influence⁹ with the responsible party.

In determining whether a relationship with a responsible party is one that is proscribed under interpretation 101-1 [ET section 101.02], the following guidance is provided:

- Interpretation 101-6, "The Effect of Actual or Threatened Litigation on Independence" [ET section 101.08], is not applicable unless the litigation relates to the engagement or is material to the firm or to the financial statements of the responsible party.
- Interpretation 101-9, "The Meaning of Certain Independence Terminology and the Effect of Family Relationships on Independence" [ET section 101.11], is not applicable because the applicability of this interpretation is stated herein.

[Replaces previous interpretation 101-11, Independence and Attest Engagements, January 1996, effective January 31, 1996.]

14 101-12—Independence and cooperative arrangements with clients. Independence will be considered to be impaired if, during the period of a professional engagement or at the time of expressing an opinion, a member's firm had any cooperative arrangement with the client that was material to the member's firm or to the client.

Definition of Terms

Firm—For purposes of this interpretation only, a firm is a form of organization permitted by state law or regulation whose characteristics conform to resolutions of Council that is engaged in the practice of public accounting.

Cooperative Arrangement—A cooperative arrangement exists when a member's firm and a client jointly participate in a business activity. The following are examples, which are not all inclusive, of cooperative arrangements:

1. Prime/subcontractor arrangements to provide services or products to a third party
2. Joint ventures to develop or market products or services
3. Arrangements to combine one or more services or products of the firm with one or more services or products of the client and market the package with references to both parties

⁹ For purposes of this interpretation, this term shall mean the same as in interpretation 101-9, "The Meaning of Certain Independence Terminology and the Effect of Family Relationships on Independence" [ET section 101.11].

4. Distribution or marketing arrangements under which the firm acts as a distributor or marketer of the client's products or services, or the client acts as the distributor or marketer of the products or services of the firm

Nevertheless, joint participation with a client in a business activity does not ordinarily constitute a cooperative arrangement when all the following conditions are present:

- a. The participation of the firm and the participation of the client are governed by separate agreements, arrangements, or understandings.
- b. The firm assumes no responsibility for the activities or results of the client, and vice versa.
- c. Neither party has the authority to act as the representative or agent of the other party.

In addition, the member's firm should consider the requirements of rule 302 [ET section 302.01] and rule 503 [ET section 503.01].

[Effective November 30, 1993.]

.15 101-13—Extended audit services. A member or a member's firm (the member) may be asked by a client, for which the member performs a professional service requiring independence, to perform extended audit services. These services may include assistance in the performance of the client's internal audit activities and/or an extension of the member's audit service beyond the requirements of generally accepted auditing standards (hereinafter referred to as "extended audit services").

A member's performance of extended audit services would not be considered to impair independence with respect to a client for which the member also performs a service requiring independence, provided that the member or his or her firm does not act or does not appear to act in a capacity equivalent to a member of client management or as an employee.

The responsibilities of the client, including its board of directors, audit committee, and management, and the responsibilities of the member, as described below, should be understood by both the member and the client. It is preferable that this understanding be documented in an engagement letter that indicates that the member may not perform management functions, make management decisions, or act or appear to act in a capacity equivalent to that of an employee.

A member should be satisfied that the client understands its responsibility for establishing and maintaining internal control and directing the internal audit function, if any. As part of its responsibility to establish and maintain internal control, management monitors internal control to assess the quality of its performance over time. Monitoring can be accomplished through ongoing activities, separate evaluations or a combination of both.

Ongoing monitoring activities are the procedures designed to assess the quality of internal control performance over time and that are built into the normal recurring activities of an entity and include regular management and supervisory activities, comparisons, reconciliations and other routine actions. Separate evaluations focus on the continued effectiveness of a client's internal control. A member's independence would not be impaired by the performance of separate evaluations of the effectiveness of a client's internal control, including separate evaluations of the client's ongoing monitoring activities.

The member should understand that, with respect to the internal audit function, the client is responsible for—

- Designating a competent individual or individuals, preferably within senior management, to be responsible for the internal audit function
- Determining the scope, risk and frequency of internal audit activities, including those to be performed by the member providing extended audit services
- Evaluating the findings and results arising from the internal audit activities, including those performed by the member providing extended audit services
- Evaluating the adequacy of the audit procedures performed and the findings resulting from the performance of those procedures by, among other things, obtaining reports from the member

The member should be satisfied that the board of directors and/or audit committee is informed of roles and responsibilities of both client management and the member with respect to the engagement to provide extended audit services as a basis for the board of directors and/or audit committee to establish guidelines for both management and the member to follow in carrying out these responsibilities and monitoring how well the respective responsibilities have been met.

The member should be responsible for performing the audit procedures in accordance with the terms of the engagement and reporting thereon. The day-to-day performance of the audit procedures should be directed, reviewed, and supervised by the member. The report should include information that allows the individual responsible for the internal audit function to evaluate the adequacy of the audit procedures performed and the findings resulting from the performance of those procedures. This report may include recommendations for improvements in systems, processes, and procedures. The member may assist the individual responsible for the internal audit function in performing preliminary audit risk assessments, preparing audit plans, and recommending audit priorities. However, the member should not undertake any responsibilities that are required, as described above, to be performed by the individual responsible for the internal audit function.

Performing procedures that are generally of the type considered to be extensions of the member's audit scope applied in the audit of the client's financial statements, such as confirming of accounts receivable and analyzing fluctuations in account balances, would not impair the independence of the member or the member's firm even if the extent of such testing exceeds that required by generally accepted auditing standards.

The following are examples of activities that, if performed as part of an extended audit service, would be considered to impair a member's independence:

- Performing ongoing monitoring activities or control activities (for example, reviewing loan originations as part of the client's approval process or reviewing customer credit information as part of the customer's sales authorization process) that affect the execution of transactions or ensure that transactions are properly executed, accounted for, or both, and performing routine activities in connection with the client's operating or production processes that are equivalent to those of an ongoing compliance or quality control function

- Determining which, if any, recommendations for improving the internal control system should be implemented
- Reporting to the board of directors or audit committee on behalf of management or the individual responsible for the internal audit function
- Authorizing, executing, or consummating transactions or otherwise exercising authority on behalf of the client
- Preparing source documents on transactions
- Having custody of assets
- Approving or being responsible for the overall internal audit work plan including the determination of the internal audit risk and scope, project priorities and frequency of performance of audit procedures
- Being connected with the client in any capacity equivalent to a member of client management or as an employee (for example, being listed as an employee in client directories or other client publications, permitting himself or herself to be referred to by title or description as supervising or being in charge of the client's internal audit function, or using the client's letterhead or internal correspondence forms in communications)

The foregoing list is not intended to be all inclusive.

ET Section 102

Integrity and Objectivity

.01 Rule 102—Integrity and objectivity. In the performance of any professional service, a member shall maintain objectivity and integrity, shall be free of conflicts of interest, and shall not knowingly misrepresent facts or subordinate his or her judgment to others.

[As adopted January 12, 1988.]

Interpretations under Rule 102—Integrity and Objectivity

Interpretations and Ethics Rulings which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

.02 102-1—Knowing misrepresentations in the preparation of financial statements or records. A member who knowingly makes, or permits or directs another to make, false and misleading entries in an entity's financial statements or records shall be considered to have knowingly misrepresented facts in violation of rule 102 [ET section 102.01].

.03 102-2—Conflicts of interest. A conflict of interest may occur if a member performs a professional service for a client or employer and the member or his or her firm has a relationship with another person, entity, product, or service that could, in the member's professional judgment, be viewed by the client, employer, or other appropriate parties as impairing the member's objectivity. If the member believes that the professional service can be performed with objectivity, and the relationship is disclosed to and consent is obtained from such client, employer, or other appropriate parties, the rule shall not operate to prohibit the performance of the professional service. When making the disclosure, the member should consider Rule 301, Confidential Client Information [ET section 301.01].

Certain professional engagements, such as audits, reviews, and other attest services, require independence. Independence impairments under rule 101 [ET section 101.01], its interpretations, and rulings cannot be eliminated by such disclosure and consent.

The following are examples, not all-inclusive, of situations that should cause a member to consider whether or not the client, employer, or other appropriate parties could view the relationship as impairing the member's objectivity:

- A member has been asked to perform litigation services for the plaintiff in connection with a lawsuit filed against a client of the member's firm.
- A member has provided tax or personal financial planning (PFP) services for a married couple who are undergoing a divorce, and the member has been asked to provide the services for both parties during the divorce proceedings.

- In connection with a PFP engagement, a member plans to suggest that the client invest in a business in which he or she has a financial interest.
- A member provides tax or PFP services for several members of a family who may have opposing interests.
- A member has a significant financial interest, is a member of management, or is in a position of influence in a company that is a major competitor of a client for which the member performs management consulting services.
- A member serves on a city's board of tax appeals, which considers matters involving several of the member's tax clients.
- A member has been approached to provide services in connection with the purchase of real estate from a client of the member's firm.
- A member refers a PFP or tax client to an insurance broker or other service provider, which refers clients to the member under an exclusive arrangement to do so.
- A member recommends or refers a client to a service bureau in which the member or partner(s) in the member's firm hold material financial interest(s).

The above examples are not intended to be all-inclusive.

[Replaces previous interpretation 102-2, Conflicts of Interest, August 1995, effective August 31, 1995.]

.04 102-3—Obligations of a member to his or her employer's external accountant. Under rule 102 [ET section 102.01], a member must maintain objectivity and integrity in the performance of a professional service. In dealing with his or her employer's external accountant, a member must be candid and not knowingly misrepresent facts or knowingly fail to disclose material facts. This would include, for example, responding to specific inquiries for which his or her employer's external accountant requests written representation.

[Effective November 30, 1993.]

.05 102-4—Subordination of judgment by a member. Rule 102 [ET section 102.01] prohibits a member from knowingly misrepresenting facts or subordinating his or her judgment when performing professional services. Under this rule, if a member and his or her supervisor have a disagreement or dispute relating to the preparation of financial statements or the recording of transactions, the member should take the following steps to ensure that the situation does not constitute a subordination of judgment:¹

1. The member should consider whether (a) the entry or the failure to record a transaction in the records, or (b) the financial statement presentation or the nature or omission of disclosure in the financial statements, as proposed by the supervisor, represents the use of an acceptable alternative and does not materially misrepresent the facts. If, after appropriate research or consultation, the member concludes that the matter has authoritative support and/or does not result in a material misrepresentation, the member need do nothing further.

2. If the member concludes that the financial statements or records could be materially misstated, the member should make his or her concerns known to the appropriate higher level(s) of management within the organization (for example, the supervisor's immediate superior, senior management, the audit committee or equivalent, the board of directors, the company's owners). The member should consider documenting his or her understanding of the facts, the accounting principles involved, the application of those principles to the facts, and the parties with whom these matters were discussed.
3. If, after discussing his or her concerns with the appropriate person(s) in the organization, the member concludes that appropriate action was not taken, he or she should consider his or her continuing relationship with the employer. The member also should consider any responsibility that may exist to communicate to third parties, such as regulatory authorities or the employer's (former employer's) external accountant. In this connection, the member may wish to consult with his or her legal counsel.
4. The member should at all times be cognizant of his or her obligations under interpretation 102-3 [ET section 102.04].

[Effective November 30, 1993.]

.06 102-5—Applicability of rule 102 to members performing educational services. Educational services (for example, teaching full- or part-time at a university, teaching a continuing professional education course, or engaging in research and scholarship) are professional services as defined in ET section 92.10, and are therefore subject to rule 102 [ET section 102.01]. Rule 102 [ET section 102.01] provides that the member shall maintain objectivity and integrity, shall be free of conflicts of interest, and shall not knowingly misrepresent facts or subordinate his or her judgment to others.

[Effective March 31, 1995.]

.07 102-6—Professional services involving client advocacy. A member or a member's firm may be requested by a client—

1. To perform tax or consulting services engagements that involve acting as an advocate for the client.
2. To act as an advocate in support of the client's position on accounting or financial reporting issues, either within the firm or outside the firm with standard setters, regulators, or others.

Services provided or actions taken pursuant to such types of client requests are professional services [ET section 92.10] governed by the Code of Professional Conduct and shall be performed in compliance with Rule 201, General Standards [ET section 201.01], Rule 202, Compliance With Standards [ET section 202.01], and Rule 203, Accounting Principles [ET section 203.01], and interpretations thereof, as applicable. Furthermore, in the performance of any professional service, a member shall comply with rule 102 [ET section 102.01], which requires maintaining objectivity and integrity and prohibits subordination of judgment to others. When performing professional services requiring independence, a member shall also comply with rule 101 [ET section 101.01] of the Code of Professional Conduct.

Moreover, there is a possibility that some requested professional services involving client advocacy may appear to stretch the bounds of performance standards, may go beyond sound and reasonable professional practice, or may compromise credibility, and thereby pose an unacceptable risk of impairing the reputation of the member and his or her firm with respect to independence, integrity, and objectivity. In such circumstances, the member and the member's firm should consider whether it is appropriate to perform the service.

[Effective August 31, 1995.]

ET Section 191

Ethics Rulings on Independence, Integrity, and Objectivity

Ethics Rulings and Interpretations which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

1. Acceptance of a Gift

.001 Question—Would the independence of a member's firm be considered to be impaired if an employee or partner accepts a gift or other unusual consideration from a client?

.002 Answer—If an employee or partner accepts more than a token gift from a client, even with the knowledge of the member's firm, the appearance of independence may be lacking.

2. Association Membership

.003 Question—If a member joined a trade association which is a client, would the independence of the member be considered to be impaired with respect to the association?

.004 Answer—Independence of the member would not be considered to be impaired provided the member did not serve as an officer, director, or in any capacity equivalent to that of a member of management.

[Revised, effective June 30, 1990, by the Professional Ethics Executive Committee.]

3. Member as Signer or Cosigner of Checks

.005 Question—A member has been requested to accept the responsibility in emergency situations of signing or cosigning checks with a designated employee of a client. Would the independence of the member be considered to be impaired under these circumstances?

.006 Answer—Independence of the member would be considered to be impaired since such activities are management functions.

[Revised, effective June 30, 1990, by the Professional Ethics Executive Committee.]

4. Payroll Preparation Services

.007 Question—A member performs payroll preparation services for clients. A single bank account in the member's name is used to clear all checks. Individual employee checks are cosigned by the member as well as by an officer of each of the respective clients. The clients reimburse the member for the net amount of the payrolls. 6. Member's Spouse as Accountant of Client

.011 Question—The spouse of a member is employed as an accountant by a client. Would the independence of the member or member's firm be considered to be impaired under these circumstances?

.012 Answer—Independence of the member or member's firm would not necessarily be considered to be impaired. The performance of accounting services by the member would not impair independence if performed in accordance with the requirements of interpretation 101-3 [ET section 101.05]. Therefore, the spouse of a member could perform the same functions as the member without impairing the independence of the member or member's firm. If, however, the spouse's functions were not in compliance with interpretation 101-3 [ET section 101.05], independence may be impaired and should be considered under interpretation 101-9, "Spouses and Dependent Persons" [ET section 101.11].

- c. Exercise general supervision to insure compliance with budgetary controls and pricing formulas established by management, with the consent of the creditors, as part of an overall program aimed at the liquidation of deferred indebtedness.

Would the independence of the member be considered to be impaired with respect to the debtor corporation?

10. Member as Legislator

.019 Question—A member is an elected legislator in a local government. The city manager, who is responsible for all administrative functions, is also an elected official. Would the independence of the member be considered to be impaired with respect to the governmental entity?

.020 Answer—Independence of the member would be considered to be impaired if the member served as an elected legislator in a municipal body at the same time the member is engaged to perform a service requiring independence for the body even though the city manager is an elected official rather than an appointee of the legislature.

12. Member as Trustee

.023 Question—A charitable foundation is the sole beneficiary of the estate of the foundation's deceased organizer. If a member becomes a trustee of the foundation, would the independence of the member be considered to be impaired with respect to (1) the foundation or (2) the estate?

17. Member of Social Club

.033 Question—A member belongs to a social club (for example, country club, tennis club) in which membership requirements involve the acquisition of a pro rata share of equity or debt securities. Would the independence of the member's firm be considered to be impaired with respect to the social club?

.034 Answer—As long as membership in a club is essentially a social matter, independence of the member's firm would not be considered to be impaired because such equity or debt ownership is not considered to be a direct financial interest within the meaning of rule 101 [ET section 101.01]. However, the member should not serve on the club's governing board or take part in its management.

.062 Answer—Yes, except independence would not be considered to be impaired with respect to the CIRA if all of the following conditions are met:

- a. The CIRA performs functions similar to local governments, such as public safety, road maintenance, and utilities.
- b. The member or member's firm's annual assessment is not material to either the member or member's firm or the CIRA's operating budgeted assessments.
- c. The liquidation of the CIRA or the sale of common assets would not result in a distribution to the member or member's firm.
- d. Creditors of the CIRA would not have recourse to the member or member's firm if the CIRA became insolvent.
- e. The member or member's firm does not act or appear to act in any capacity equivalent to a member of management or employee for the CIRA, including membership on the board of directors or committees (excluding advisory committees as defined in ethics ruling No. 72 [ET section 191.144-.145]).

.069 Question—A member owns shares in a regulated mutual investment fund which holds shares of stock in the member's clients. Would the independence of the member be considered to be impaired with respect to the client enterprises whose stock is held by the fund?

.070 Answer—Securities of the member's clients held by the regulated mutual investment fund in question represent indirect financial interests of the member in securities of his or her clients. If the indirect financial interest becomes material to the member, the member's independence would be considered to be impaired. In addition, if the member has significant influence over the regulated mutual fund, the member's independence would be considered to be impaired.

.071 Question—A member owns an investment club. Would the independence of the member be considered to be impaired with respect to a client in which the investment club holds shares?

39. Member as Officially Appointed Stock Transfer Agent or Registrar

.077 Question—Would the independence of a member be considered to be impaired with respect to a client for whom the member serves as an officially appointed stock transfer agent or registrar?

.078 Answer—Independence of the member would be considered to be impaired since the functions performed by the member as an officially appointed transfer agent or registrar would be considered equivalent to that of a member of management or of an employee. Functions such as distribution of dividends and warrants and the legal transfer of the shares of outstanding capital stock would cause the independence of the member to be considered to be impaired. However, if the member is not officially appointed, this is not intended to preclude the member from assisting the client in performing functions in accordance with interpretation 101-3 [ET section 101.05].

2. Requires that a university administrator approve and sign Student Senate checks.

52. Unpaid Fees

.103 Question—A member's client has not paid fees for previously rendered professional services. Would the independence of the member's firm be considered to be impaired with respect to the client for the current year?

.104 Answer—Independence of the member's firm is considered to be impaired if, when the report on the client's current year is issued, billed or unbilled fees, or a note receivable arising from such fees, remain unpaid for any professional services provided more than one year prior to the date of the report.

This ruling does not apply to fees outstanding from a client in bankruptcy.

.108 Answer—Performance by a member of appraisal, valuation, or actuarial services, the results of which may be incorporated in the client's financial statements, would not impair a member's independence if all of the significant matters of judgment involved are determined or approved by the client and the client is in a position to have an informed judgment on the results of those services.

55. Independence During Systems Implementation

.109 Question—A member has been requested by a client to perform an engagement involving the implementation of an information and control system. As part of this implementation, the member will arrange interviews for client's hiring of new personnel, and instruct and oversee the training of current client personnel. Would the independence of the member be considered to be impaired with respect to the client if the member performs this engagement?

.110 Answer—Independence of the member would not be considered impaired under these circumstances provided the client makes all significant management decisions related to the hiring of new personnel and the implementation of the system. The member also must limit his or her supervisory activities to initial instruction and training of personnel and should avoid direct supervision of the actual operation of the system or any related activities that would constitute undue involvement in or identification with management functions.

.111 Question—A member's client is establishing a new operation in another locality. The client has asked the member to recruit and hire for the company a controller and a cost accountant for its new operation. Would the independence of the member be considered to be impaired with respect to the client if the member performed this engagement?

.112 Answer—Independence of the member would be considered to be impaired since decisions as to employment of personnel are considered a management function. However, a member may perform services consisting of recommending a position description and candidate specifications, searching for and initially screening candidates, and recommending qualified candidates to the client. Such consulting assistance would not impair independence provided client management is responsible for any ultimate hiring decision.

.119 Question—A member has been asked to audit the financial statements of an employee benefit plan that may have one or more participating employer(s). Must the member maintain independence with respect to the participating employer(s) in order to be considered independent of the plan?

.120 Answer—Independence would not be considered to be impaired with respect to the plan unless the member has a financial interest in the participating employer(s) or other relationships with the participating employer(s) that would give the member significant influence over such employer(s). When auditing plans subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA), Department of Labor (DOL) regulations must be followed.

dence of the member's employer. The member also wants to use the CPA designation along with employment title on business cards. Is it permissible for the member to use the CPA designation in these manners?

.131 Answer—Yes. However, if the member uses the CPA designation in a manner to imply that he or she is independent of the employer, the member would be knowingly misrepresenting facts in violation of rule 102 [ET section 102.01]. Therefore, it is advisable that in any transmittal within which the member uses his or her CPA designation, he or she clearly indicate the employment title. In addition, if the member states affirmatively in any transmittal that a financial statement is presented in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles, the member is subject to rule 203 [ET section 203.01].

.132 Question—A member has been engaged to perform a service requiring independence for a client company. The member has established a retirement or savings plan through which the member has a financial interest in the client company. Would the member's independence be considered impaired because of this financial interest?

.133 Answer—Any direct or material indirect financial interest owned by a member's retirement or savings plan in a client company would be considered to be a direct or material indirect financial interest of the member in that client and would, therefore, impair the member's independence with respect to that client.

68. Blind Trust

.136 Question—A member has a direct financial interest in an enterprise for which the member has been engaged to perform a service requiring independence. Would the independence of the member be considered to be impaired if the member transfers the direct financial interest into a blind trust?

.137 Answer—The independence of the member would be considered impaired whether or not the financial interest is placed in a blind trust. Further, a member should ensure that a blind trust does not hold a direct or material indirect financial interest in clients for which the member provides services requiring independence.

69. Investment With a General Partner

.138 Question—A private, closely held entity is the general partner and controls limited partnership A as defined in FASB Statement No. 94. The member has a material (to his or her net worth) limited partnership interest in limited partnership A. The member has been asked to provide a service requiring independence for a new limited partnership B with the same general partner. Would the member be independent for purposes of providing services to limited partnership B?

.139 Answer—Because the general partner has control over limited partnership A, the member is considered to have a joint closely held business investment with the general partner, who has significant influence over limited partnership B, the proposed client. Since the member has a material investment in limited partnership A, independence would be considered to be impaired with respect to limited partnership B.

70. Member's Depository Relationship With Client Financial Institution

.140 Question—A member maintains checking accounts or has savings accounts, certificates of deposit or money market accounts at a financial institution for which the member provides a service requiring independence. Would the member's checking accounts or savings accounts, certificates of deposit or money market accounts impair the member's and his firm's independence with respect to the financial institution under rule 101 [ET section 101.01] and its interpretations?

.141 Answer—The member's and his firm's independence would not be considered to be impaired with respect to the financial institution provided that the checking accounts, savings accounts, certificates of deposit or money market accounts were fully insured by the appropriate state or federal government deposit insurance agencies. Checking accounts, savings accounts, certificates of deposit and money market accounts not fully insured by state or federal government deposit insurance agencies would not impair independence provided that the uninsured amounts are not material to the member or the member's firm.

71. Use of Nonindependent CPA Firm on an Engagement

.142 Question—Firm A is not independent with respect to an entity. Partners, shareholders, or professional employees of Firm A are participating on Firm B's engagement team for that entity. Would Firm B's independence be considered to be impaired?

.143 Answer—Yes. The use by Firm B of partners, shareholders, or professional employees from Firm A as part of the engagement team will impair Firm B's independence with respect to that engagement.

However, use of the work of such individuals in a manner similar to internal auditors is permissible provided that there is compliance with the Statements on Auditing Standards. Applicable literature contained in the Statements on Auditing Standards should be consulted.

72. Member on Advisory Board of Client

.144 Question—A member has agreed to serve on the advisory board of a client. Would service on the advisory board impair the member's or the member's firm's independence with respect to the client?

.145 Answer—The member's services on the advisory board would impair the member's and the member's firm's independence unless all the following criteria are met: (1) the responsibilities of the advisory board are in fact advisory in nature; (2) the advisory board has no authority to make nor does it appear to make management decisions on behalf of the client; and (3) the advisory board and those having authority to make management decisions (including the board of directors or its equivalent) are distinct groups with minimal, if any, common membership.

.148 Question—If a member in public practice is not independent with respect to a client, is it permissible under rule 101 [ET section 101.01] for the member to issue an audit, review, or compilation report for the client?

.149 Answer—A member may not issue an audit opinion or review report if the member is not independent with respect to the client. A member may issue a compilation report for a client with respect to which the member is not independent. However, the member must specifically disclose his or her lack of independence without giving reasons for the impairment.

75. Member Joining Client Credit Union

.150 Question—A member's partners and employees are members of a credit union that requests the member's firm to provide professional services requiring independence. Does membership in the credit union impair the independence of the member and the member's firm with respect to the credit union?

.151 Answer—Membership in the credit union would not impair the member's independence with respect to the credit union as long as all of the following criteria are met:

1. A member and/or his or her partners or employees must individually qualify to join the credit union other than by virtue of the professional services provided to the credit union.
2. The exercise of the member's vote or other activities must not have significant influence over the operating, financial, or accounting policies of the credit union.
3. Any loans from the credit union must meet the conditions specified in interpretation 101-1.A.4 [ET section 101.02] and be made under normal lending procedures, terms, and requirements (see interpretation 101-5 [ET section 101.07]).
4. Any deposits with the credit union must meet the conditions specified in ruling No. 70 [ET section 191.140–141] under rule 101 [ET section 101.01].

77. Individual Considering or Accepting Employment With the Client

.154 Question—During the performance of an engagement, an individual participating in the engagement may be offered employment by the client or may seek employment with the client. What are the implications of these actions with respect to the AICPA Code of Professional Conduct?

.155 Answer—An individual participating in an engagement who is offered employment by, or seeks employment with, that client during the conduct of the engagement must consider whether or not his or her ability to act with integrity and objectivity has been impaired. When the engagement is one requiring independence, the individual must remove himself or herself from the engagement until the employment offer is rejected or employment is no longer being sought, in order to prevent any appearance that integrity or objectivity has been impaired.

A member may become aware that an individual participated in the engagement while employment with the client was being considered or after it had been accepted. In these circumstances the member should consider what, if any, additional procedures may be necessary to ensure that all work had been performed with objectivity and integrity as required under rule 102 [ET section 102.01]. Any additional procedures will depend on the nature of the engagement and may require reperformance of the work or other appropriate procedures.

79. Member's Investment in a Partnership That Invests in Member's Client

.158 Question—A member has a direct financial interest in a partnership that invests in a client of the member's firm. Would the member's independence be considered to be impaired with respect to the client?

.159 Answer—If the member is a general partner, or functions in a capacity similar to that of a general partner, in a partnership that invests in a client of the member's firm, the member is deemed to have a direct financial interest in the client. Independence is considered to be impaired.

If the member is a limited partner in a partnership that invests in a client of the member's firm, the member is considered to have an indirect financial interest in the client. Independence would be considered to be impaired if the indirect financial interest is material to the member's net worth.

80. The Meaning of a Joint Closely Held Business Investment

.160 Question—Under rule 101 [ET section 101.01] and interpretation 101-1 [ET section 101.02], a member's independence is considered to be impaired if, during the period of the professional engagement or at the time of expressing an opinion, the member or the member's firm had any joint closely held business investment with the client or any officer, director, or principal stockholder thereof that was material in relation to the member's net worth or to the net worth of the member's firm. What is a joint closely held business investment?

.161 Answer—For purposes of rule 101 [ET section 101.01], its interpretations, and rulings, a joint closely held business investment is a business investment that is subject to control, as defined in FASB Statement No. 94 [AC section C51], by the member, the client, its officers, directors, or principal stockholders, individually or in any combination.

81. Member's Investment in a Limited Partnership

.162 Question—A member is a limited partner in a limited partnership (LP), including a master limited partnership. A client is a general partner in the same LP. Is the member's independence considered to be impaired with respect to (1) the LP, (2) the client, and (3) any subsidiaries of the LP?

.163 Answer—1. The member's limited partnership interest in the LP is a direct financial interest in the LP that would impair independence under interpretation 101-1.A.1 [ET section 101.02].

2. The LP is an investee of the client because the client is a general partner in the LP. Therefore, under interpretation 101-8 [ET section 101.10], if the investment in the LP is material to the client, the member's financial interest in the LP would impair the member's independence with respect to the client. However, if the client's financial interest in the LP is not material to the client, an immaterial financial interest of the member in the LP would not impair independence with respect to the client.

3. Since the member is a limited partner in the LP, the member is considered to have an indirect financial interest in all subsidiaries of the LP. If the indirect financial interest in the subsidiaries is material to the member, the member's independence would be considered to be impaired with respect to the subsidiaries under interpretation 101-1.A.1 [ET section 101.02].

If the member or client general partner, individually or together can control the LP, the LP would be considered a joint closely held business investment under interpretation 101-1.A.3 [ET section 101.02] [see ruling No. 80 [ET section 191.160–161]].

82. Campaign Treasurer

.164 Question—A member has been asked to serve as the campaign treasurer of the campaign organization of a candidate for the office of mayor. If the member serves in this capacity, would the member's independence be impaired with respect to (1) the political party with which the candidate is associated, (2) the municipality of which the candidate may become mayor, and (3) the campaign organization?

.165 Answer—Independence would not be considered to be impaired with respect to the political party or municipality. However, due to his or her role as treasurer, the member would not be considered to be independent with respect to the campaign organization itself.

85. Bank Director

.170 Question—May a member in public practice serve as a director of a bank?

.171 Answer—Yes; however, before accepting a bank directorship, the member should carefully consider the implications of such service if the member has clients that are customers of the bank.

These implications fall into two categories:

- a. Confidential Client Information—Rule 301 [ET section 301.01] provides that a member in public practice shall not disclose any confidential client information without the specific consent of the client. This ethical requirement applies even though failure to disclose information may constitute a breach of the member's fiduciary responsibility as a director.
- b. Conflicts of Interest—Interpretation 102-2 [ET section 102.03] provides that a conflict of interest may occur if a member performs a professional service (including service as a director) and the member or his or her firm has a relationship with another entity that could, in the member's professional judgment, be viewed by appropriate parties as impairing the member's objectivity. If the member believes that the professional service can be performed with objectivity and the relationship is disclosed to and consent is obtained from all appropriate parties, performance of the service shall not be prohibited.

In view of the above factors, it is generally not desirable for a member in public practice to accept a position as bank director where the member's clients are likely to engage in significant transactions with the bank. If a member is engaged in public practice, the member should avoid the high probability of a conflict of interest and the appearance that the member's fiduciary obligations and responsibilities to the bank may conflict with or interfere with the member's ability to serve the client's interest objectively and in complete confidence.

The general knowledge and experience of CPAs in public practice may be very helpful to a bank in formulating policy matters and making business decision; however, in most instances, it would be more appropriate for the member as part of the member's public practice to serve as a consultant to the bank's board. Under such an arrangement, the member could limit activities to those which did not involve conflicts of interest or confidentiality problems.

91. Member Leasing Property to or From a Client

.182 Question—A member or member's firm (member) is leasing property to or from a client. Would the independence of the member be impaired with respect to the client?

.183 Answer—Independence would not be considered to be impaired if the lease meets the criteria of an operating lease (as defined in [FASB Statement] No. 13, paragraph 6.a.ii [AC section L10.102]), the terms and conditions set forth in the lease agreement are comparable with other leases of a similar nature, and all amounts are paid in accordance with the terms of the lease.

Independence would be considered to be impaired if the lease meets the criteria of a capital lease (as defined in FASB Statement No. 13, paragraph 6.a.i [AC section L10.102]) unless the lease is in compliance with interpretations 101-1.A.4 [ET section 101.02] and 101-5 [ET section 101.07], because the lease would be considered to be a loan to or from the client.

[Revised, effective May 31, 1998, by the Professional Ethics Executive Committee.]

92. Joint Interest in Vacation Home

.184 Question—A member holds a joint interest in a vacation home along with an officer, director, or principal stockholder of an entity for which the member performs services requiring independence. Would the vacation home constitute a "joint closely held business investment" for the purposes of interpretation 101-1.A.3 [ET section 101.02]?

.185 Answer—Yes. The vacation home, even if solely intended for the personal use of the owners, would be considered a joint closely held business investment as defined in ethics ruling No. 80 [ET section 191.160–161]. Accordingly, the materiality provisions of interpretation 101-1.A.3 [ET section 101.02] must be considered in assessing independence.

93. Service on Board of Directors of Federated Fund-Raising Organization

.186 Question—A member serves as a director or officer of a local United Way or similar organization that operates as a federated fund-raising organization from which local charities that are clients of the member receive funds. Does the member have a conflict of interest under rule 102 [ET section 102.01]?

.187 Answer—Interpretation 102-2 [ET section 102.03] provides that a conflict of interest may occur if a member performs a professional service for a client and the member or his or her firm has a relationship with another entity that could, in the member's professional judgment, be viewed by the client or other appropriate parties as impairing the member's objectivity. If the member believes that the professional service can be performed with objectivity and the relationship is disclosed to and consent is obtained from the appropriate parties, performance of the service shall not be prohibited. (If the service is one requiring independence, consult ethics ruling No. 14 [ET section 191.027-.028] under rule 101 [ET section 101.01]).

94. Indemnification Clause in Engagement Letters

.188 Question—A member proposes to include in engagement letters a clause that provides that the client would release, indemnify, defend, and hold the member (and his or her partners, heirs, executors, personal representatives, successors, and assigns) harmless from any liability and costs resulting from knowing misrepresentations by management. Would the inclusion of such an indemnification clause in engagement letters impair the member's independence with respect to the client?

.189 Answer—No.

95. Agreement With Attest Client to Use ADR Techniques

.190 Question—Alternative dispute resolution (ADR) techniques are used to resolve disputes (in lieu of litigation) relating to past services, but are not used as a substitute for the exercise of professional judgment for current services. Would a predispute agreement to use ADR techniques between a member and a client cause the member's independence to be impaired?

.191 Answer—No. Such an agreement would not cause an impairment of independence since the member and the client are not in threatened or actual positions of material adverse interests by reason of threatened or actual litigation.

96. Commencement of ADR Proceeding

.192 Question—Would the commencement of an alternative dispute resolution (ADR) proceeding impair independence?

.193 Answer—Except as stated in the next sentence, independence would not be considered to be impaired because many of the ADR techniques designed to facilitate negotiation and the actual conduct of those negotiations do not place the member and the client in threatened or actual positions of material adverse interests. Nevertheless, if the member and client are in a position of material adverse interests because the ADR proceedings are sufficiently similar to litigation, ethics interpretation 101-6 [ET section 101.08] should be applied. Such a position would exist if binding arbitration were used.

98. Member's Loan From a Nonclient Subsidiary or Parent of an Attest Client

.196 Question—A member has obtained a loan from a nonclient. The parent or a subsidiary of the nonclient is a client of the member requiring independence. Does the member's loan from the nonclient subsidiary or parent impair the member's independence with respect to the client?

.197 Answer—A member's loan, that is not a "grandfathered" or "permitted" loan under interpretation 101-5 [ET section 101.07], from a nonclient subsidiary would impair the member's independence with respect to the client. However, a loan from a nonclient parent would not impair the member's independence with respect to the client subsidiary as long as the subsidiary is not material to its parent.

99. Member Providing Services for Company Executives

.198 Question—A member has been approached by a company, for which he or she may or may not perform other professional services, to provide personal financial planning or tax services for its executives. The executives are aware of the company's relationship with the member, if any, and have also consented to the arrangement. The performance of the services could result in the member recommending to the executives actions that may be adverse to the company. What rules of conduct should the member consider before accepting and during the performance of the engagement?

.199 Answer—Before accepting and during the performance of the engagement, the member should consider the applicability of Rule 102, Integrity and Objectivity [ET section 102.01]. If the member believes that he or she can perform the personal financial planning or tax services with objectivity, the member would not be prohibited from accepting the engagement. The member should also consider informing the company and the executives of possible results of the engagement. During the performance of the services, the member should consider his or her professional responsibility to the clients (that is, the company and the executives) under Rule 301, Confidential Client Information [ET section 301.01].

100. Actions Permitted When Independence Is Impaired

.200 Question—If a member was independent when his or her report was initially issued, may the member re-sign the report or consent to its use at a later date when his or her independence is impaired?

.201 Answer—Yes. A member may re-sign the report or consent to its use at a later date when his or her independence is impaired, provided that no "post-audit work" is performed by the member during the period of impairment. The term "post-audit work," in this context, does not include inquiries of successor auditors, reading of subsequent financial statements, or such procedures as may be necessary to assess the effect of subsequently discovered facts on the financial statements covered by the member's previously issued report.

101. Client Advocacy and Expert Witness Services

.202 Question—Would the performance of expert witness services be considered as acting as an advocate for a client as discussed in interpretation 102-6 [ET section 102.07]?

.203 Answer—No. A member serving as an expert witness does not serve as an advocate but as someone with specialized knowledge, training, and experience in a particular area who should arrive at and present positions objectively.

102. Member's Indemnification of a Client

.204 Question—As a condition to retaining a member or member's firm for the performance of a professional service requiring independence, client or prospective client requests that the member or member's firm enter into an agreement providing, among other things, that the member or member's firm indemnify the client for damages, losses, or costs arising from lawsuits, claims, or settlements that relate, directly or indirectly, to client acts. Would the member or member's firm entering into such an agreement be independent of the client?

.205 Answer—No. Such an agreement would impair independence under interpretation 101-1.A [ET section 101.02] and interpretation 101-1.B [ET section 101.02].

103. Member Providing Attest Report on Internal Controls

.206 Question—If a member or a member's firm (member) provides extended audit services for a client in compliance with interpretation 101-13 [ET section 101.15], would the member be considered independent in the performance of an attestation engagement to report on the client's assertion regarding the effectiveness of its internal control over financial reporting?

.207 Answer—Independence would not be impaired with respect to the issuance of such a report if all of the following conditions are met:

1. The member's activities have been limited in a manner consistent with interpretation 101-13 [ET section 101.15].
2. Management has assumed responsibility to establish and maintain internal control.
3. Management does not rely on the member's work as the primary basis for its assertion and accordingly has (a) evaluated the results of its ongoing monitoring procedures built into the normal recurring activities of the entity (including regular management and supervisory activities) and (b) evaluated the findings and results of the member's work and other separate evaluations of controls, if any.

104. Member Providing Operational Auditing Services

.208 Question—As part of an extended audit engagement, a member or member's firm (member) may be asked to review certain of the client's business processes, as selected by the client, for how well they function, their efficiency, or their effectiveness. For example, a member may be asked to assess whether performance is in compliance with management's policies and procedures, to identify opportunities for improvement, and to develop recommendations for improvement or further action for management consideration and decision making. Would the member's independence be considered to be impaired in performing such a service?

.209 Answer—The member's independence would not be considered to be impaired provided that during the course of the review the member does not act or appear to act in a capacity equivalent to that of a member of client management or of an employee. The decision as to whether any of the member's recommendations will be implemented must rest entirely with management.

105. Frequency of Performance of Extended Audit Procedures

.210 Question—In providing extended audit services, would the frequency with which a member performs an audit procedure impair the member's independence?

.211 Answer—The independence of the member or member's firm would not be considered to be impaired provided that the member's activities have been limited in a manner consistent with interpretation 101-13 [ET section 101.15] and the procedures performed constituted separate evaluations of the effectiveness of the ongoing control and monitoring activities/procedures that are built into the client's normal recurring activities.

106. Member Has Significant Influence Over an Entity That Has Significant Influence Over a Client

.212 Question—A member or member's firm (member) has significant influence, as defined in interpretation 101-9 [ET section 101.11], over an entity that has significant influence over a client. Would independence be considered to be impaired with respect to the client?

.213 Answer—Yes. Because the member has significant influence over an entity that has significant influence over a client, the member also is considered to have significant influence over the client.

See interpretation 101-8 [ET section 101.10] for further guidance.

107. Participation in Health and Welfare Plan of Client

.214 Question—A member participates in or receives benefits from a health and welfare plan (the "Plan") sponsored by a client. Would the independence of the member or member's firm be considered to be impaired with respect to the client sponsor and the Plan?

.215 Answer—Participation of the member in a Plan sponsored by a client would impair the independence of the member or member's firm with respect to the client sponsor and the Plan. However, if the member's participation in the Plan, or benefits received thereunder, arises as the result of the permitted employment of the member's spouse or cohabitant in accordance with interpretation 101-9 [ET section 101.11], independence would not be impaired provided that the Plan is normally offered to all employees in equivalent employment positions.

108. Participation of Member or Spouse in Retirement, Savings, or Similar Plan Sponsored by, or That Invests in, Client

.216 Question—A member participates in a retirement, savings, or similar plan ("Benefit Plan") that is either sponsored by a client ("Sponsor Client") or invests in the Sponsor Client or in another client of the member ("Other Client"). Would the independence of the member or member's firm be considered to be impaired with respect to the Sponsor Client, the Other Client, or the Benefit Plan?

.217 Answer—Participation of the member in a Benefit Plan that is sponsored by a client or that invests in a client would impair independence with respect to the Sponsor Client, the Other Client, and the Benefit Plan. However, if the member's participation in the Benefit Plan arises as the result of the permitted employment of the member's spouse or cohabitant in accordance with interpretation 101-9 [ET section 101.11], independence would not be impaired if all of the following conditions are met:

- a. The Benefit Plan is normally offered to all employees in equivalent employment positions.

- b. If the Benefit Plan provides for an investment option by the spouse, the investment option selected by the spouse is not in the Sponsor Client or the Other Client.
 - c. If no other investment option is available (also see ruling No. 35 [ET section 191.069-.070]), and the right of possession exists, the investment is promptly withdrawn and disposed. The right of possession is not considered to exist if a penalty significant to the investment is imposed upon withdrawal.
 - d. If the right of possession does not exist, the spouse's investment through the Benefit Plan in the Sponsor Client or the Other Client is considered an indirect financial interest and is not material to the member's net worth.

ET Section 201

General Standards

.01 Rule 201—General standards. A member shall comply with the following standards and with any interpretations thereof by bodies designated by Council.

- A. Professional Competence. Undertake only those professional services that the member or the member's firm can reasonably expect to be completed with professional competence.
- B. Due Professional Care. Exercise due professional care in the performance of professional services.
- C. Planning and Supervision. Adequately plan and supervise the performance of professional services.
- D. Sufficient Relevant Data. Obtain sufficient relevant data to afford a reasonable basis for conclusions or recommendations in relation to any professional services performed.

[As adopted January 12, 1988.]

(See appendix A.)

Interpretations under Rule 201—General Standards

Interpretations and Ethics Rulings which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

.02 201-1—Competence. A member's agreement to perform professional services implies that the member has the necessary competence to complete those professional services according to professional standards, applying his or her knowledge and skill with reasonable care and diligence, but the member does not assume a responsibility for infallibility of knowledge or judgment.

Competence to perform professional services involves both the technical qualifications of the member and the member's staff and the ability to supervise and evaluate the quality of the work performed. Competence relates both to knowledge of the profession's standards, techniques and the technical subject matter involved, and to the capability to exercise sound judgment in applying such knowledge in the performance of professional services.

The member may have the knowledge required to complete the services in accordance with professional standards prior to performance. In some cases, however, additional research or consultation with others may be necessary during the performance of the professional services. This does not ordinarily represent a lack of competence, but rather is a normal part of the performance of professional services.

However, if a member is unable to gain sufficient competence through these means, the member should suggest, in fairness to the client and the public, the engagement of someone competent to perform the needed professional service, either independently or as an associate.

ET Section 203

Accounting Principles

.01 Rule 203—Accounting principles. A member shall not (1) express an opinion or state affirmatively that the financial statements or other financial data of any entity are presented in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles or (2) state that he or she is not aware of any material modifications that should be made to such statements or data in order for them to be in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles, if such statements or data contain any departure from an accounting principle promulgated by bodies designated by Council to establish such principles that has a material effect on the statements or data taken as a whole. If, however, the statements or data contain such a departure and the member can demonstrate that due to unusual circumstances the financial statements or data would otherwise have been misleading, the member can comply with the rule by describing the departure, its approximate effects, if practicable, and the reasons why compliance with the principle would result in a misleading statement.

[As adopted January 12, 1988.]

Interpretations under Rule 203—Accounting Principles

Interpretations and Ethics Rulings which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

.02 203-1—Departures from established accounting principles. Rule 203 [ET section 203.01] was adopted to require compliance with accounting principles promulgated by the body designated by Council to establish such principles. There is a strong presumption that adherence to officially established accounting principles would in nearly all instances result in financial statements that are not misleading.

However, in the establishment of accounting principles it is difficult to anticipate all of the circumstances to which such principles might be applied. This rule therefore recognizes that upon occasion there may be unusual circumstances where the literal application of pronouncements on accounting principles would have the effect of rendering financial statements misleading. In such cases, the proper accounting treatment is that which will render the financial statements not misleading.

The question of what constitutes unusual circumstances as referred to in rule 203 [ET section 203.01] is a matter of professional judgment involving the ability to support the position that adherence to a promulgated principle would be regarded generally by reasonable men as producing a misleading result.

Examples of events which may justify departures from a principle are new legislation or the evolution of a new form of business transaction. An unusual degree of materiality or the existence of conflicting industry practices are examples of circumstances which would not ordinarily be regarded as unusual in the context of rule 203 [ET section 203.01].

.03 203-2—Status of FASB and GASB interpretations. Council is authorized under rule 203 [ET section 203.01] to designate bodies to establish accounting principles. Council has designated the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) as such a body and has resolved that FASB Statements of Financial Accounting Standards, together with those Accounting Research Bulletins and APB Opinions which are not superseded by action of the FASB, constitute accounting principles as contemplated in rule 203 [ET section 203.01]. Council has also designated the Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB), with respect to Statements of Governmental Accounting Standards issued in July 1984 and thereafter, as the body to establish financial accounting principles for state and local governmental entities pursuant to rule 203 [ET section 203.01].

In determining the existence of a departure from an accounting principle established by a Statement of Financial Accounting Standards, Accounting Research Bulletin or APB Opinion encompassed by rule 203 [ET section 203.01], or the existence of a departure from an accounting principle established by a Statement of Governmental Accounting Standards encompassed by rule 203 [ET section 203.01], the division of professional ethics will construe such Statements, Bulletin or Opinion in the light of any interpretations thereof issued by the FASB or the GASB.

[.04] [203-3]—[Deleted]

.05 203-4—Responsibility of employees for the preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP. Rule 203 [ET section 203.01] provides, in part, that a member shall not state affirmatively that financial statements or other financial data of an entity are presented in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) if such statements or data contain any departure from an accounting principle promulgated by a body designated by Council to establish such principles that has a material effect on the statements or data taken as a whole.

Rule 203 [ET section 203.01] applies to all members with respect to any affirmation that financial statements or other financial data are presented in conformity with GAAP. Representation regarding GAAP conformity included in a letter or other communication from a client entity to its auditor or others related to that entity's financial statements is subject to rule 203 [ET section 203.01] and may be considered an affirmative statement within the meaning of the rule with respect to members who signed the letter or other communication; for example, signing reports to regulatory authorities, creditors and auditors.

8. Subcontractor Selection for Management Consulting Service Engagements

.015 Question—A member has been engaged to design and program a computer system. The engagement is well within the member's competence. The member plans to retain a contract programming organization as a subcontractor to provide additional qualified manpower. What procedures should the member consider in making the selection of a subcontractor?

.016 Answer—When selecting subcontractors the member has a responsibility to ensure that the subcontractors have the professional qualifications, technical skills and other resources required. Factors that can be helpful in evaluating a prospective subcontractor include business, financial and personal references from banks, from other CPAs, and from other customers of the subcontractor; the subcontractor's professional reputation and recognition; published materials (articles and books authored); and the member's personal evaluation of the subcontractor.

9. Supervision of Technical Specialist on Management Consulting Services Engagements

.017 Question—A member would like to add to the member's staff a systems analyst who specializes in developing computer systems. Must the member be able to perform all of the services that the specialist can perform in order to be able to supervise the specialist?

.018 Answer—The member must be qualified to supervise and evaluate the work of specialists in the member's employ. Although supervision does not require that the member be qualified to perform each of the specialist's tasks, the member should be able to define the tasks and evaluate the end product.

10. Preparation and Transmittal of Financial Statements by a Member in Public Practice

.019 Question—A member in public practice is also a stockholder, partner, director, or employee of an entity and in this capacity prepares the entity's financial statements for transmittal to third parties. What are the ethical considerations?

.020 Answer—If the member prepares the financial statements in his or her capacity as a stockholder, partner, director, or employee of the entity and transmits them to a third party, the transmittal should clearly indicate, preferably in writing, the relationship of the member to the entity and should not imply that the member is independent of the entity [ET section 191.130–.131]. In addition, if the transmittal states affirmatively that the financial statements are presented in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles, the member is subject to rule 203 [ET section 203.01] of the Code of Professional Conduct.

If the member prepares financial statements as a member in public practice and/or transmits them using the member's public practitioner's letterhead or other identification, the member should comply with applicable standards, including any requirement to disclose a lack of independence.

11. Applicability of Rule 203 to Members Performing Litigation Support Services

.021 Question—Does Rule 203, Accounting Principles [ET section 203.01], apply to members performing litigation support services?

.022 Answer—Yes.

ET Section 301

Confidential Client Information

.01 Rule 301—Confidential client information. A member in public practice shall not disclose any confidential client information without the specific consent of the client.

This rule shall not be construed (1) to relieve a member of his or her professional obligations under rules 202 [ET section 202.01] and 203 [ET section 203.01], (2) to affect in any way the member's obligation to comply with a validly issued and enforceable subpoena or summons, or to prohibit a member's compliance with applicable laws and government regulations, (3) to prohibit review of a member's professional practice under AICPA or state CPA society or Board of Accountancy authorization, or (4) to preclude a member from initiating a complaint with, or responding to any inquiry made by, the professional ethics division or trial board of the Institute or a duly constituted investigative or disciplinary body of a state CPA society or Board of Accountancy.

Members of any of the bodies identified in (4) above and members involved with professional practice reviews identified in (3) above shall not use to their own advantage or disclose any member's confidential client information that comes to their attention in carrying out those activities. This prohibition shall not restrict members' exchange of information in connection with the investigative or disciplinary proceedings described in (4) above or the professional practice reviews described in (3) above.

[As amended January 14, 1992.]

Interpretations Under Rule 301—Confidential Client Information

Interpretations and Ethics Rulings which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

.04 301-3—Confidential information and the purchase, sale, or merger of a practice. Rule 301 [ET section 301.01] prohibits a member in public practice from disclosing any confidential client information without the specific consent of the client. The rule provides that it shall not be construed to prohibit the review of a member's professional practice under AICPA or state CPA society authorization.

For purposes of rule 301 [ET section 301.01], a review of a member's professional practice is hereby authorized to include a review in conjunction with a prospective purchase, sale, or merger of all or part of a member's practice. The member must take appropriate precautions (for example, through a written confidentiality agreement) so that the prospective purchaser does not disclose any information obtained in the course of the review, since such information is deemed to be confidential client information.

Members reviewing a practice in connection with a prospective purchase or merger shall not use to their advantage nor disclose any member's confidential client information that comes to their attention.

[Effective February 28, 1990.]

[The next page is 4681.]

ET Section 302

Contingent Fees

.01 Rule 302—Contingent fees. A member in public practice shall not

- (1) Perform for a contingent fee any professional services for, or receive such a fee from a client for whom the member or the member's firm performs,
 - (a) an audit or review of a financial statement; or
 - (b) a compilation of a financial statement when the member expects, or reasonably might expect, that a third party will use the financial statement and the member's compilation report does not disclose a lack of independence; or
 - (c) an examination of prospective financial information;

or

- (2) Prepare an original or amended tax return or claim for a tax refund for a contingent fee for any client.

The prohibition in (1) above applies during the period in which the member or the member's firm is engaged to perform any of the services listed above and the period covered by any historical financial statements involved in any such listed services.

Except as stated in the next sentence, a contingent fee is a fee established for the performance of any service pursuant to an arrangement in which no fee will be charged unless a specified finding or result is attained, or in which the amount of the fee is otherwise dependent upon the finding or result of such service. Solely for purposes of this rule, fees are not regarded as being contingent if fixed by courts or other public authorities, or, in tax matters, if determined based on the results of judicial proceedings or the findings of governmental agencies.

A member's fees may vary depending, for example, on the complexity of services rendered.

[As adopted May 20, 1991.]

Interpretation under Rule 302—Contingent Fees

.02 302-1—Contingent fees in tax matters. This interpretation defines certain terms in rule 302 [ET section 302.01] and provides examples of the application of the rule.

Definition of Terms

- (a) Preparation of an original or amended tax return or claim for tax refund includes giving advice on events which have occurred at the time the advice is given if such advice is directly relevant to determining the existence, character, or amount of a schedule, entry, or other portion of a return or claim for refund.

- (b) A fee is considered determined based on the findings of governmental agencies if the member can demonstrate a reasonable expectation, at the time of a fee arrangement, of substantive consideration by an agency with respect to the member's client. Such an expectation is deemed not reasonable in the case of preparation of original tax returns.

Examples

The following are examples, not all-inclusive, of circumstances where a contingent fee would be permitted:

1. Representing a client in an examination by a revenue agent of the client's federal or state income tax return.
2. Filing an amended federal or state income tax return claiming a tax refund based on a tax issue that is either the subject of a test case (involving a different taxpayer) or with respect to which the taxing authority is developing a position.
3. Filing an amended federal or state income tax return (or refund claim) claiming a tax refund in an amount greater than the threshold for review by the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation ($1 million at March 1991) or state taxing authority.
4. Requesting a refund of either overpayments of interest or penalties charged to a client's account or deposits of taxes improperly accounted for by the federal or state taxing authority in circumstances where the taxing authority has established procedures for the substantive review of such refund requests.
5. Requesting, by means of "protest" or similar document, consideration by the state or local taxing authority of a reduction in the "assessed value" of property under an established taxing authority review process for hearing all taxpayer arguments relating to assessed value.
6. Representing a client in connection with obtaining a private letter ruling or influencing the drafting of a regulation or statute.

The following is an example of a circumstance where a contingent fee would not be permitted:

1. Preparing an amended federal or state income tax return for a client claiming a refund of taxes because a deduction was inadvertently omitted from the return originally filed. There is no question as to the propriety of the deduction; rather the claim is filed to correct an omission.

ET Section 391

Ethics Rulings on Responsibilities to Clients

Ethics Rulings and Interpretations which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

1. Computer Processing of Clients' Returns

.001 Question—May a member make use of an outside service bureau for the processing of clients' tax returns? The member's firm would control the input of information and the computer service would perform the mathematical computations and print the return. Is there any violation of the confidential relationship in the fact that client information leaves the member's office?

.002 Answer—A member may utilize outside services to process tax returns. He must take all necessary precautions to be sure that the use of outside services does not result in the release of confidential information.

2. Distribution of Client Information to Trade Associations

.003 Question—A member's firm is requested by a trade association to supply profit and loss percentages taken from the reports of the accountants' clients. The association would distribute them to its members. May the firm comply with the request?

.004 Answer—Rule 301 [ET section 301.01] would not be violated if the firm has the clients' permission to distribute the figures.

3. Information to Successor Accountant About Tax Return Irregularities

.005 Question—A member withdrew from an engagement on discovering irregularities in his client's tax return. May he reveal to the successor accountant why the relationship was terminated?

.006 Answer—Rule 301 [ET section 301.01] is not intended to help an unscrupulous client cover up illegal acts or otherwise hide information by changing CPAs. If the member is contacted by the successor he should, at a minimum, suggest that the successor ask the client to permit the member to discuss all matters freely with the successor. The successor is then on notice of some conflict. Because of the serious legal implications, the member should seek legal advice as to his status and obligations in the matter.

[4.] Prior Client Relationship

[.007-.008] [Deleted August 1989]

5. Records Retention Agency

.009 Question—May a member use a records-retention agency to store his clients' records, working papers, and so forth?

.010 Answer—There is no objection to the use of such a records center. However, responsibility for preserving the confidential nature of the records rests with the member.

6. Revealing Client Information to Competitors

.011 Question—A municipality in a particular state enforces a personal property tax on business inventories, fixtures and equipment, and machinery by retaining a firm of CPAs to examine the books and records of the businesses to be sure the proper amount has been declared. In the course of its engagement, the CPA firm will examine sales, purchases, gross profit percentages, and inventories as well as fixed asset accounts. A member serving one of the companies involved objects to these procedures on the ground that information gathered from the books and records of his client could be inadvertently conveyed to competitors by employees of the CPA firm doing the audit. Is such an engagement ethically proper?

.012 Answer—It would be proper for a member's firm to perform such services. It should be emphasized to everyone concerned that rule 301 [ET section 301.01] prohibits members from revealing to others any confidential information obtained in their professional capacity.

7. Revealing Names of Clients

.013 Question—May a member in public practice disclose the name of a client for whom the member or the member's firm performed professional services?

.014 Answer—It is permissible under rule 301 [ET section 301.01] for a member to disclose the name of a client, whether publicly or privately owned, without the client's specific consent unless the disclosure of the client's name constitutes the release of confidential information. For example, if a member's practice is limited to bankruptcy matters, the disclosure of a client's name would suggest that the client may be experiencing financial difficulties, which could be confidential client information.

14. Use of Confidential Information on Management Consulting Service Engagements

.027 Question—In the course of performing a feasibility study a nonclient outside source has provided pertinent information to the member's firm with the understanding that the source and the details of the information will not be disclosed. The information, which the firm believes is pertinent, directly affects its conclusions and recommendations. How may this information be utilized in connection with the feasibility study engagement and related conclusions and recommendations?

.028 Answer—Rule of conduct 301 [ET section 301.01] regarding confidential client information is not directly applicable to the circumstances described; however, Rule of conduct 501, Acts Discreditable [ET section 501.01], is applicable to situations involving confidential relationships with non-clients. For an engagement in which it appears likely that the development of pertinent information will have to come from outside non-client sources, and such information must remain confidential, the terms of the engagement with the client should specify that the confidences of outside non-client sources will not be divulged by the member's firm even when they might affect the outcome of the engagement. If the use of confidential outside sources is necessary and the terms of the engagement are silent regarding disclosure of source and details, the member should promptly seek the approval of the client to present his recommendations without making disclosures that include confidential information. If the client does not agree to this, the member should withdraw rather than breach a confidence or improperly limit the inclusion of information in his final recommendation.

15. Earlier Similar Management Consulting Service Study with Negative Outcome

.029 Question—A prospective client has asked a member's firm to study the desirability of his using a newly developed electronic ticketing system for his business. A recent study made for another client leads the member's firm to believe that the system would not be desirable for him. Must the firm state its reservations at the risk of disclosing information acquired while performing an assignment for a client competitor?

.030 Answer—Rule of conduct 301 [ET section 301.01] provides that a member shall not disclose any confidential information obtained in the course of a professional engagement except with the consent of the client. Knowledge and expertise which results in a special competence in a particular field can be provided to a client without violating the confidence of another client. Reservations that the firm may have concerning the electronic ticketing system should be communicated to the prospective client provided the details of the other client's engagement are not disclosed. If, however, circumstances are such that the prospective client would clearly know the origin of the information on which the member's reservations are based, and such information is sensitive, the engagement should not be accepted without clearance with the first client.

16. Disclosure of Confidential Client Information

.031 Question—A member has prepared a married couple's joint tax returns for several years. The member was engaged by and has dealt exclusively with spouse A. Divorce proceedings are now under way and spouse B has approached the member with requests for confidential information relating to prior tax returns. Spouse A has directed the member not to comply with spouse B's requests. Would release of this information by the member to spouse B constitute a violation of rule 301 [ET section 301.01]?

.032 Answer—As defined by the Code of Professional Conduct, spouse B would be considered to be a client with respect to the prior tax returns in question. Therefore, release of the requested information to spouse B would not be prohibited by rule 301 [ET section 301.01]. The member should consider, however, reviewing the legal implications of such a disclosure with an attorney.

17. Definition of the Receipt of a Contingent Fee or a Commission

.033 Question—Rules 302 [ET section 302.01] and 503 [ET section 503.01] prohibit, among other acts, the receipt of contingent fees for the performance of certain services and the receipt of a commission for the referral of products or services under certain circumstances. When is a contingent fee or commission deemed to be received?

.034 Answer—A contingent fee or a commission is deemed to be received when the performance of the related services is complete and the fee or the commission is determined. For example, if in one year a member sells a life insurance policy to a client and the member's commission payments are determined to be a fixed percentage of future years' renewal premiums, the commission is deemed to be received in the year the policy is sold.

18. Bank Director

.035 Question—May a member in public practice serve as a director of a bank?

.036 Answer—Yes; however, before accepting a bank directorship, the member should carefully consider the implications of such service if the member has clients that are customers of the bank.

These implications fall into two categories:

- a. Confidential Client Information—Rule 301 [ET section 301.01] provides that a member in public practice shall not disclose any confidential client information without the specific consent of the client. This ethical requirement applies even though failure to disclose information may constitute a breach of the member's fiduciary responsibility as a director.
- b. Conflicts of Interest—Interpretation 102-2 [ET section 102.03] provides that a conflict of interest may occur if a member performs a professional service (including service as a director) and the member or his or her firm has a relationship with another entity that could, in the member's professional judgment, be viewed by appropriate parties as impairing the member's objectivity. If the member believes that the professional service can be performed with objectivity and the relationship is disclosed to and consent is obtained from all appropriate parties, performance of the service shall not be prohibited.

In view of the above factors, it is generally not desirable for a member in public practice to accept a position as bank director where the member's clients are likely to engage in significant transactions with the bank. If a member is engaged in public practice, the member should avoid the high probability of a conflict of interest and the appearance that the member's fiduciary obligations and responsibilities to the bank may conflict with or interfere with the member's ability to serve the client's interest objectively and in complete confidence.

The general knowledge and experience of CPAs in public practice may be very helpful to a bank in formulating policy matters and making business decisions; however, in most instances, it would be more appropriate for the member as part of the member's public practice to serve as a consultant to the bank's board. Under such an arrangement, the member could limit activities to those which did not involve conflicts of interest or confidentiality problems.

19. Receipt of Contingent Fees or Commissions by Member's Spouse

.037 Question—May a member's spouse provide services to the member's attest client for a contingent fee or refer products or services for a commission to or from the member's attest client without causing the member to be in violation of rule 302 [ET section 302.01] or rule 503 [ET section 503.01]?

.038 Answer—Yes, if the activities of the member's spouse are separate from the member's practice and the member is not significantly involved in those activities. The member, however, should consider whether a conflict of interest may exist as described in rule 102 [ET section 102.01] and interpretation 102-2 [ET section 102.03].

20. Disclosure of Confidential Client Information to Professional Liability Insurance Carrier

.039 Question—A member has learned of a potential claim that may be filed against the member. The member's professional liability insurance policy requires that the carrier be promptly notified of actual or potential claims. If the member notifies the carrier and complies with its request for documents that would constitute confidential client information without the client's permission, would the member be in violation of rule 301 [ET section 301.01]?

.040 Answer—No. Rule 301 [ET section 301.01] is not intended to prohibit a member from releasing confidential client information to the member's liability insurance carrier solely to assist the defense against an actual or potential claim against the member.

21. Member Providing Services for Company Executives

.041 Question—A member has been approached by a company, for which he or she may or may not perform other professional services, to provide personal financial planning or tax services for its executives. The executives are aware of the company's relationship with the member, if any, and have also consented to the arrangement. The performance of the services could result in the member recommending to the executives actions that may be adverse to the company. What rules of conduct should the member consider before accepting and during the performance of the engagement?

.042 Answer—Before accepting and during the performance of the engagement, the member should consider the applicability of Rule 102, Integrity and Objectivity [ET section 102.01]. If the member believes that he or she can perform the personal financial planning or tax services with objectivity, the member would not be prohibited from accepting the engagement. The member should also consider informing the company and the executives of possible results of the engagement. During the performance of the services, the member should consider his or her professional responsibility to the clients (that is, the company and the executives) under Rule 301, Confidential Client Information [ET section 301.01].

22. Member Removing Client Files From an Accounting Firm

.043 Question—If a member terminates his or her relationship with a firm, may he or she take original or copies from the firm's client files or proprietary information without the firm's permission?

.044 Answer—No, except where permitted by contractual arrangement. If, upon leaving the firm, the member takes any of the firm's client files or proprietary information without permission, the member would be committing an act discreditable to the profession in violation of rule 501 [ET section 501.01].

If the member provides original or copies of the firm's client files, records, or workpapers to another firm without the prior specific consent of each client, the member would also be in violation of Rule 301, Confidential Client Information [ET section 301.01].

23. Disclosure of Confidential Client Information in Legal or Alternative Dispute Resolution Proceedings

.045 Question—A member discloses confidential client information to the member's attorney or a court or in documents or proceedings in connection with an actual or threatened lawsuit or alternative dispute resolution proceeding relating to that client. Would the member be in violation of rule 301 [ET section 301.01] of the Code of Professional Conduct?

.046 Answer—No. Rule 301 [ET section 301.01] is not intended to prohibit a member from disclosing the information necessary to initiate, pursue or defend himself or herself in such proceedings.

This ruling is not intended to prohibit a member's compliance with applicable federal or state laws or regulations.

ET Section 501

Acts Discreditable

.01 Rule 501—Acts discreditable. A member shall not commit an act discreditable to the profession.

[As adopted January 12, 1988.]

Interpretations Under Rule 501—Acts Discreditable

Interpretations and Ethics Rulings which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

.02 501-1—Retention of client records. Retention of client records after a demand is made for them is an act discreditable to the profession in violation of rule 501 [ET section 501.01]. The fact that the statutes of the state in which a member practices may grant the member a lien on certain records in his or her possession does not change this ethical standard.

A client's records are any accounting or other records belonging to the client that were provided to the member by or on behalf of the client. If an engagement is terminated prior to completion, the member is required to return only client records.

A member's workpapers—including, but not limited to, analyses and schedules prepared by the client at the request of the member—are the member's property, not client records, and need not be made available.

In some instances a member's workpapers contain information that is not reflected in the client's books and records, with the result that the client's financial information is incomplete. This would include (1) adjusting, closing, combining or consolidating journal entries and (2) information normally contained in books of original entry and general ledgers or subsidiary ledgers. In those instances when an engagement has been completed, such information should also be made available to the client upon request. However, the member may require that fees due the member with respect to such completed engagements be paid before such information is provided.

Once the member has complied with the foregoing requirements, he or she need not comply with any subsequent requests to again provide such information.

.03 501-2—Discrimination and harassment in employment practices. Whenever a member is finally determined by a court of competent jurisdiction to have violated any of the antidiscrimination laws of the United States or any state or municipality thereof, including those related to sexual and other forms of harassment, or has waived or lost his/her right of appeal after a hearing by an administrative agency, the member will be presumed to have committed an act discreditable to the profession in violation of rule 501 [ET section 501.01].

[Revised, effective November 30, 1997, by the Professional Ethics Executive Committee.]

.04 501-3—Failure to follow standards and/or procedures or other requirements in governmental audits. Engagements for audits of government grants, government units or other recipients of government monies typically require that such audits be in compliance with government audit standards, guides, procedures, statutes, rules, and regulations, in addition to generally accepted auditing standards. If a member has accepted such an engagement and undertakes an obligation to follow specified government audit standards, guides, procedures, statutes, rules and regulations, in addition to generally accepted auditing standards, he is obligated to follow such requirements. Failure to do so is an act discreditable to the profession in violation of rule 501 [ET section 501.01], unless the member discloses in his report the fact that such requirements were not followed and the reasons therefor.

.05 501-4—Negligence in the preparation of financial statements or records. A member who, by virtue of his negligence, makes, or permits or directs another to make, false and misleading entries in the financial statements or records of an entity shall be considered to have committed an act discreditable to the profession in violation of rule 501 [ET section 501.01].

.06 501-5—Failure to follow requirements of governmental bodies, commissions, or other regulatory agencies in performing attest or similar services. Many governmental bodies, commissions or other regulatory agencies have established requirements such as audit standards, guides, rules, and regulations that members are required to follow in performing attest or similar services for clients subject to their jurisdiction. For example, the Securities and Exchange Commission, Federal Communications Commission, state insurance commissions, and other regulatory agencies have established such requirements.

When a member agrees to perform an attest or similar service for the purpose of reporting to such bodies, commissions, or regulatory agencies, the member should follow such requirements, in addition to generally accepted auditing standards (where applicable). Failure to substantially follow such requirements is an act discreditable to the profession, unless the member discloses in his or her report that such requirements were not followed and the reasons therefore. Not following such requirements could require the member to modify his or her report.

If the agency requires additional disclosures of the auditor, they must be made in accordance with the disclosure requirements established by the governmental body, commission or other regulatory agency. Failure to substantially follow such requirements is an act discreditable to the profession.

[Effective August 31, 1989.]

.07 501-6—Solicitation or disclosure of CPA examination questions and answers. A member who solicits or knowingly discloses the May 1996 or later Uniform CPA Examination question(s) and/or answer(s) without the written authorization of the AICPA shall be considered to have committed an act discreditable to the profession in violation of rule 501 [ET section 501.01].

[Effective January 31, 1996. Revised, effective May 31, 1996, by the Professional Ethics Executive Committee.]

[The next page is 4841.]

ET Section 502

Advertising and Other Forms of Solicitation

.01 Rule 502—Advertising and other forms of solicitation. A member in public practice shall not seek to obtain clients by advertising or other forms of solicitation in a manner that is false, misleading, or deceptive. Solicitation by the use of coercion, over-reaching, or harassing conduct is prohibited.

[As adopted January 12, 1988.]

Interpretations under Rule 502—Advertising and Other Forms of Solicitation

Interpretations and Ethics Rulings which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

[.02] [502-1]—[Deleted]

.03 502-2—False, misleading or deceptive acts in advertising or solicitation. Advertising or other forms of solicitation that are false, misleading, or deceptive are not in the public interest and are prohibited. Such activities include those that—

1. Create false or unjustified expectations of favorable results.
2. Imply the ability to influence any court, tribunal, regulatory agency, or similar body or official.
3. Contain a representation that specific professional services in current or future periods will be performed for a stated fee, estimated fee or fee range when it was likely at the time of the representation that such fees would be substantially increased and the prospective client was not advised of that likelihood.
4. Contain any other representations that would be likely to cause a reasonable person to misunderstand or be deceived.

[Revised, November 30, 1990, by the Professional Ethics Executive Committee.]

[.04] [502-3]—[Deleted]

[.05] [502-4]—[Deleted]

.06 502-5—Engagements obtained through efforts of third parties. Members are often asked to render professional services to clients or customers of third parties. Such third parties may have obtained such clients or customers as the result of their advertising and solicitation efforts.

Members are permitted to enter into such engagements. The member has the responsibility to ascertain that all promotional efforts are within the bounds of the Rules of Conduct. Such action is required because the members will receive the benefits of such efforts by third parties, and members must not do through others what they are prohibited from doing themselves by the Rules of Conduct.

[The next page is 4871.]

ET Section 503

Commissions and Referral Fees

.01 Rule 503—Commissions and referral fees.

A. Prohibited commissions

A member in public practice shall not for a commission recommend or refer to a client any product or service, or for a commission recommend or refer any product or service to be supplied by a client, or receive a commission, when the member or the member's firm also performs for that client

- (a) an audit or review of a financial statement; or
- (b) a compilation of a financial statement when the member expects, or reasonably might expect, that a third party will use the financial statement and the member's compilation report does not disclose a lack of independence; or
- (c) an examination of prospective financial information.

This prohibition applies during the period in which the member is engaged to perform any of the services listed above and the period covered by any historical financial statements involved in such listed services.

B. Disclosure of permitted commissions

A member in public practice who is not prohibited by this rule from performing services for or receiving a commission and who is paid or expects to be paid a commission shall disclose that fact to any person or entity to whom the member recommends or refers a product or service to which the commission relates.

C. Referral fees

Any member who accepts a referral fee for recommending or referring any service of a CPA to any person or entity or who pays a referral fee to obtain a client shall disclose such acceptance or payment to the client.

[As adopted May 23, 1990, effective August 9, 1990.]

Interpretation under Rule 503—Commissions and Referral Fees

Interpretations and Ethics Rulings which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

[.02] [503-1]—[Deleted]

[The next page is 4891.]

ET Section 505

Form of Organization and Name

.01 Rule 505—Form of organization and name. A member may practice public accounting only in a form of organization permitted by state law or regulation whose characteristics conform to resolutions of Council.

A member shall not practice public accounting under a firm name that is misleading. Names of one or more past owners may be included in the firm name of a successor organization.

A firm may not designate itself as "Members of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants" unless all of its owners are members of the Institute.

[As amended January 14, 1992 and October 28, 1997.]

(See appendix B.)

Interpretations Under Rule 505—Form of Organization and Name

Interpretations and Ethics Rulings which existed before the adoption of the Code of Professional Conduct on January 12, 1988, will remain in effect until further action is deemed necessary by the appropriate senior technical committee.

.02 505-1—Investment in accounting organization. A member in the practice of public accounting may have an unlimited investment in an accounting organization as long as the practice of public accounting through that form of organization is permitted by state law or regulation and the organization's characteristics conform to resolutions of council. If the practice of public accounting through a corporate form is not permitted by state law or regulation, the member may invest in the corporation. However, the member's relation to the corporation must be solely that of an investor, and the investment cannot allow the member significant influence over the corporation. [Replaces previous interpretation 505-1, Investment in Commercial Accounting Corporation, March 1993, effective March 31, 1993.]

.03 505-2—Application of rules of conduct to members who operate a separate business. A member in the practice of public accounting may participate in the operation of a separate business that performs for clients any of the professional services of accounting, tax, personal financial planning, litigation support services, and those services for which standards are promulgated by bodies designated by Council (see ET section 92.09). Such a member is considered to be in the practice of public accounting in connection with the separate business and must observe all of the Rules of Conduct.

A member who is not otherwise in the practice of public accounting must observe the Rules of Conduct in the operation of the separate business if the member holds out as a CPA and performs for a client any of the professional services included in the definition of the practice of public accounting (see ET section 92.09). [Replaces previous interpretation 505-2, with the same title, March 1993, effective March 31, 1993.]

[1.] Retention of Records

2. Fees: Collection of Notes Issued in Payment

.003 Question—A member's firm made arrangements with a bank to collect notes issued by a client in payment of fees due, and so advised the delinquent client. Is this procedure ethical?

.004 Answer—The procedure followed does not violate any provision of the Code.

3. Employment by Non-CPA Firm

.005 Question—A member is considering employment with a public accounting firm made up of one or more non-CPA practitioners. If he is employed by such a firm, what are his responsibilities under the Rules of Conduct?

.006 Answer—A member so employed must comply with all the Rules of Conduct. If he becomes a partner in such a firm, he will then in addition be held responsible for compliance with the Rules of Conduct by all persons associated with him.

38. CPA Title, Controller of Bank

.075 Question—A member not in public practice is controller of a bank. May the member permit the bank to use his CPA title on bank stationery and in paid advertisements listing the officers and directors of the bank?

.076 Answer—The use of the CPA title on bank stationery by a member not in public practice is proper. It would also be proper for the CPA title of the member to appear in paid advertisements of the bank that list the officers and directors.

.156 Answer—The Code does not prohibit the simultaneous practice of accounting and law by a member licensed in both professions. Either a single or separate letterheads may be used, provided the information with respect to the CPA designation complies with rule 502 [ET section 502.01]. However, the member should also consult the rules of the applicable Bar Association.

134. Association of Accountants Not Partners

.267 Question—Two members who are not partners share an office, have the same employees, have a joint bank account, and work together on each other's engagements. Would it be proper to have a joint letterhead showing both names, "Certified Public Accountants," and their addresses?

.268 Answer—In these circumstances the public would assume that a partnership existed. If any reports were to be issued under the joint heading, rule 505 [ET section 505.01] would be violated.

Members should not use a letterhead showing the names of two accountants when a partnership does not exist.

135. Association of Firms Not Partners

.269 Question—Three CPA firms wish to form an association—not a partnership—to be known as "Smith, Jones & Associates." Is there any impropriety in this?

.270 Answer—The use of such a title is not permitted since it might mislead the public into thinking a true partnership exists. Instead, each firm is advised to use its own name on its letterhead, indicating the other two as correspondents.

136. Audit with Former Partner

.271 Question—A member's firm consisting of one certified and one non-certified partner has been dissolved. One account was retained which the two practitioners plan to continue to service together. Should the audit report be submitted on partnership stationery?

.272 Answer—It would appear proper for the audit to be carried out jointly by the two former partners. The opinion should be presented on plain paper and signed somewhat as follows:

John Doe, Certified Public Accountant

Richard Roe, Accountant

Such a signature would leave no doubt as to whether a partnership existed, and the client and others would have the assurance that both accountants participated in the audit.

137. Nonproprietary Partners

.273 Question—A member's firm wishes to institute the designation "non-proprietary partner" to describe certain high-ranking staff who were former partners of merged firms who did not qualify for partnership in the merging firm. With this title, they would be eligible to participate in the firm's pension plan. In holding themselves out to the public they would be required to use this designation. Is there any impropriety in the proposed title?

.274 Answer—The use of the designation “partner” should be restricted to those members of the firm who are legally partners. Those who are not parties to the partnership agreement should not hold themselves out in any manner which might lead others to believe that they are partners. The use of the designation “nonproprietary partner” by one who is not in fact a partner is considered misleading and therefore is not permitted.

138. Partner Having Separate Proprietorship

.275 Question—May a member be a partner of a firm of public accountants, all other members of which are noncertified, and at the same time retain for himself a practice of his own as a CPA?

.276 Answer—Rule 505 [ET section 505.01] would not prohibit such a practice. However, clients and others interested should be advised about the dual position of the member to prevent any misunderstanding or misrepresentation.

139. Partnership with Non-CPA

.277 Question—May a member form a partnership for the practice of public accounting with a non-CPA?

.278 Answer—Rule 505 [ET section 505.01] of the Institute’s code does not prohibit a member from forming a partnership with a non-CPA provided that mixed partnerships are permitted by state law or regulation and the characteristics of the partnership conform to the May 1994 resolution of Council. In addition, the partnership would not be permitted to represent itself as a partnership of CPAs.

[Revised, December 31, 1986, by the Professional Ethics Executive Committee.]

140. Political Election

.279 Question—A member’s firm, consisting of four members, practices under the name of the managing partner who is presently seeking election to high public office. If he is elected and withdraws from the partnership, may the three remaining partners continue to use the present firm name?

.280 Answer—It would not be a violation for the three remaining partners to continue to practice under the name of the managing partner followed by the designation “and Company.”

141. Responsibility for Non-CPA Partner

.281 Question—Is a member who has formed a partnership with a non-certified public accountant ethically responsible for all the acts of the partnership?

.282 Answer—Yes. If the noncertified partner should violate the Code, the member would be held accountable.

144. Title: Partnership Roster

.287 Question—Is there any prohibition in the Code to the use of an established firm name in a different state where there is some difference in the roster of partners?

.288 Answer—It would be proper for the firm to use the established name in different states even though the roster of partners differed as long as the firm otherwise complies with rule 505 [ET section 505.01].

145. Firm Name of Merged Partnerships

.289 Question—When two partnerships merge, is it permissible for the newly merged firm to practice under a title which includes the name of a partner who had retired from one of the two firms prior to the merger?

.290 Answer—Rule 505 [ET section 505.01] of the Code of Professional Conduct states that partnerships may practice under a firm title which includes the name or names of former partners. Since the retired partner was once a partner in one of the merged firms, it would be proper for his name to appear in the title of a newly created firm.

146. Membership Designation

.291 Question—On the letterhead of a partnership of members and non-certified public accountants, the designation “Members of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants” appears in a manner which attempts to distinguish members of the Institute from nonmembers. Is such use of the designation of Institute membership by a mixed partnership permitted by rule 505 [ET section 505.01]?

.292 Answer—Rule 505 [ET section 505.01] states, “A firm may not designate itself as Members of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants unless all of its partners or shareholders are members of the Institute.” Individual members may be designated as such.

158. Operation of Separate Data Processing Business by a Public Practitioner

.315 Question—A member in the practice of public accounting also participates in the operation of a separate business that provides data processing services to the public. These services include the preparation of financial statements. Must the member comply with all the rules of conduct in connection with the separate business?

.316 Answer—Yes. As provided in interpretation 505-2 [ET section 505.03], the member is considered to be in the practice of public accounting in connection with the data processing center. The member, therefore, must comply with all the rules of conduct in connection with this business. For example, if compilation or attest engagements are performed, the member must comply with the applicable standards and independence requirements.

177. Data Processing: Billing Services

.353 Question—A member in public practice plans to form a separate business to perform centralized billing services for local doctors. The member maintains that this service, which is similar to one currently offered and advertised by a local bank, does not constitute the practice of public accounting and that rules 502 [ET section 502.01] and 505 [ET section 505.01] do not apply. Is the member correct in this conclusion?

.354 Answer—No, the service in question does in fact constitute service of a type performed by public accountants and consequently the member could proceed with this plan only if the operation were conducted in accordance with the Institute's rules of conduct.

.357 Question—Several CPA firms wish to form an association or group whereby certain joint advertising, training, professional development and management assistance will take place. The firms will otherwise remain separate and distinct. Would it be proper for such firms to practice public accounting under the name of an association or group in the United States?

.358 Answer—The practice of public accounting under such a name in the United States is not permitted since it would be likely to confuse the public as to the nature of the actual relationship which exists among the firms. Instead, each firm should practice only in its own firm name and may indicate the association or group name elsewhere on the firm stationery. Each firm may also list on its stationery the names of the other firms in the association or group.

.363 Question—Does rule 501 [ET section 501.01] require a member to furnish a tax return or supporting detail to a client if the engagement to prepare the tax return is terminated prior to its completion?

.364 Answer—As provided in interpretation 501-1 [ET section 501.02], if an engagement is terminated by either the member or the client prior to completion, the member is required to return or furnish copies of only those records originally given to the member by the client. Therefore, if a member has been engaged to prepare a tax return and the client or the member terminates the engagement before the tax return is delivered to the client, the member's responsibility is to return only those records originally provided to the member by the client.

183. Use of the AICPA Personal Financial Specialist Designation

.365 Question—In what circumstances may a firm include the AICPA-awarded designation “Personal Financial Specialists” on the firm’s letterhead and in marketing materials?

.366 Answer—It is permissible under rule 502 [ET section 502.01] for the designation “Personal Financial Specialists” (PFS) to be used on a firm’s letterhead and in marketing materials if all partners or shareholders of the firm currently have the AICPA-awarded designation. An individual member who holds the designation may use it after his or her name.

184. Definition of the Receipt of a Contingent Fee or a Commission

.367 Question—Rules 302 [ET section 302.01] and 503 [ET section 503.01] prohibit, among other acts, the receipt of contingent fees for the performance of certain services and the receipt of a commission for the referral of products or services under certain circumstances. When is a contingent fee or commission deemed to be received?

.368 Answer—A contingent fee or commission is deemed to be received when the performance of the related services is complete and the fee or the commission is determined. For example, if in one year a member sells a life insurance policy to a client and the member’s commission payments are determined to be a fixed percentage of future years’ renewal premiums, the commission is deemed to be received in the year the policy is sold.

185. Sale of Products to Clients

.369 Question—May a member purchase a product from a third-party supplier and resell the product to a client without violating rule 503 [ET section 503.01]?

.370 Answer—Yes. If a member purchases a product and resells it to a client, any profit on the sale would not constitute a commission. Purchasing entails taking title to the product and having all the associated risks of ownership.

186. Billing for Subcontractor’s Services

.371 Question—A member has contracted with a computer-hardware maintenance servicer to provide support for a client’s computer operations. Would it be a violation of rule 503 [ET section 503.01] for that member to bill the client a higher service fee than that charged the member by the service provider?

.372 Answer—No. The increased fee would not constitute a commission.

187. Receipt of Contingent Fees or Commissions by Member’s Spouse

.373 Question—May a member’s spouse provide services to the member’s attest client for a contingent fee or refer products or services for a commission to or from the member’s attest client without causing the member to be in violation of rule 302 [ET section 302.01] or rule 503 [ET section 503.01]?

.374 Answer—Yes, if the activities of the member’s spouse are separate from the member’s practice and the member is not significantly involved in those activities. The member, however, should consider whether a conflict of interest may exist as described in rule 102 [ET section 102.01] and interpretation 102-2 [ET section 102.03].

188. Referral of Products of Others

.375 Question—A member refers computer products of wholesalers to clients of the firm through distributors and agents. A payment is received by the member from the wholesaler if the clients purchase the computer products. Must the member consider rule 503 [ET section 503.01] in connection with this payment?

.376 Answer—Yes. Section 91.02 [ET section 91.02] of the Code of Professional Conduct provides that a member shall not permit others to perform acts on behalf of the member that, if carried out by the member, would place the member in violation of the rules. Therefore, the member would be held responsible for the actions of the distributors and agents.

Rule 503 [ET section 503.01] provides that, if a member or the member's firm performs for a client a service described in rule 503 [ET section 503.01], the member may not recommend or refer to that client for a commission any product or service, or receive a commission for a recommendation or referral. This prohibition applies during the period in which the member is engaged to perform any of the services described in rule 503 [ET section 503.01] and during the period covered by any historical financial statements in such services.

If the products are referred on a commission basis to clients for which the member is not engaged to perform any of the services described in rule 503 [ET section 503.01], rule 503 [ET section 503.01] would not be violated as long as the commission is disclosed to the client. However, any subsequent performance of services described in rule 503 [ET section 503.01] during a period in which the commission was received would constitute a violation of rule 503 [ET section 503.01].

189. Requests for Client Records and Other Information

.377 Question—Individuals associated with a client entity who are currently on opposing sides in an internal dispute have each issued separate requests calling for the member to supply them with client records and other information that, pursuant to interpretation 501-1 [ET section 501.02], is required to be provided in certain circumstances. What ethical obligations exist under interpretation 501-1 [ET section 501.02] with respect to complying with such requests?

.378 Answer—In providing professional services to individuals, partnerships, or corporations, a member will often deal with an individual who has been designated or held out as the client's representative. Such a representative might include, for example, a general partner or a majority shareholder. A member will have satisfied his or her obligations under interpretation 501-1 [ET section 501.02] when all client records and other information, as defined therein, have been supplied, where required, to the individual who has been previously designated or held out as the client's representative. The member need only supply such information once and need not comply with subsequent requests from the representative, or from other individuals associated with the client entity, to again provide this information.

190. Non-CPA Partner

.379 Question—May a member who is in partnership with non-CPAs sign reports with the firm name and below it affix his own signature with the designation "Certified Public Accountant"?

.380 Answer—This would not be improper, provided it is clear that the partnership itself is not being held out as composed entirely of CPAs.

[Formerly ruling No. 7 under section 291. Transferred from section 291.013-.014, April 1995.]

191. Member Removing Client Files From an Accounting Firm

.381 Question—If a member terminates his or her relationship with a firm, may he or she take original or copies from the firm's client files or proprietary information without the firm's permission?

.382 Answer—No, except where permitted by contractual arrangement. If, upon leaving the firm, the member takes any of the firm's client files or proprietary information without permission, the member would be committing an act discreditable to the profession in violation of rule 501 [ET section 501.01].

If the member provides original or copies of the firm's client files, records, or workpapers to another firm without the prior specific consent of each client, the member would also be in violation of Rule 301, Confidential Client Information [ET section 301.01].

Governmental Accounting Standards Board

WHEREAS: The Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) has been established by the board of trustees of the Financial Accounting Foundation (FAF) to issue standards of financial accounting and reporting with respect to activities and transactions of state and local governmental entities, and

Auditing Standards Board

RESOLVED: That the AICPA auditing standards board is hereby designated as the body authorized under rules 201 [ET section 201.01] and 202 [ET section 202.01] to promulgate auditing and attest standards and procedures.

RESOLVED: That the auditing standards board shall establish under statements on auditing standards the responsibilities of members with respect to standards for disclosure of financial information outside financial statements in published financial reports containing financial statements.

Management Consulting Services Executive Committee

RESOLVED: That the AICPA management consulting services executive committee is hereby designated to promulgate standards under rules 201 [ET section 201.01] and 202 [ET section 202.01] with respect to the offering of management consulting services, provided, however, that such standards do not deal with the broad question of what, if any, services should be proscribed.

AND FURTHER RESOLVED: That any Institute committee or board now or in the future authorized by the Council to issue enforceable standards under rules 201 [ET section 201.01] and 202 [ET section 202.01] must observe an exposure process seeking comment from other affected committees and boards, as well as the general membership.

Council Resolution Concerning Rule 505—Form of Organization and Name

[As revised May 7, 1997.]

RESOLVED: That with respect to a firm or organization which performs (1) any audit or other engagement performed in accordance with the Statements on Auditing Standards, (2) any review of a financial statement or compilation of a financial statement performed in accordance with the Statements on Standards for Accounting and Review Services, or (3) any examination of prospective financial information performed in accordance with the Statements on Standards for Attestation Engagements, or which holds itself out as a firm of certified public accountants or uses the term “certified public accountant(s)” or the designation “CPA” in connection with its name, the characteristics of such a firm or organization under rule 505 [ET section 505.01] are as set forth below. The characteristics of all other firms or organizations are deemed to be whatever is legally permissible under applicable law or regulation.

1. A majority of the ownership of the firm in terms of financial interests and voting rights must belong to CPAs. The non-CPA owner would have to be actively engaged as a firm member in providing services to the firm’s clients as his or her principal occupation. Ownership by investors or commercial enterprises not actively engaged as firm members in providing services to the firm’s clients as their principal occupation is against the public interest and continues to be prohibited.

2. There must be a CPA who has ultimate responsibility for all the services provided by the firm and by each business unit¹ performing financial statement attest and compilation services and other engagements governed by Statements on Auditing Standards or Statements on Standards for Accounting and Review Services.

3. Non-CPA owners could not assume ultimate responsibility for any financial statement attest or compilation engagement.

4. Non-CPAs becoming owners after adoption of Council’s resolution would have to possess a baccalaureate degree and, beginning in the year 2010, have obtained 150 semester hours of education at an accredited college or university.

5. Non-CPA owners would be permitted to use the title “principal,” “owner,” “officer,” “member” or “shareholder,” or any other title permitted by state law, but not hold themselves out to be CPAs.

6. Non-CPA owners would have to abide by the AICPA Code of Professional Conduct. AICPA members may be held responsible under the Code for acts of co-owners.

7. Non-CPA owners would have to complete the same work-related CPE requirements as set forth under AICPA bylaw section 2.3 [BL section 230] for AICPA members.

¹ “Business unit” is meant to indicate geographic (such as offices) and functional arrangements (such as tax and management consulting services).

8. Owners shall at all times own their equity in their own right and shall be the beneficial owners of the equity capital ascribed to them. Provision would have to be made for the ownership to be transferred to the firm or to other qualified owners if the non-CPA ceases to be actively engaged in the firm.

9. Non-CPA owners would not be eligible for membership in the AICPA.

AICPA Mission Statement*

.01 The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants is the national professional organization for all Certified Public Accountants. Its mission is to provide members with the resources, information, and leadership that enable them to provide valuable services in the highest professional manner to benefit the public as well as employers and clients.

In fulfilling its mission, the AICPA works with state CPA organizations and gives priority to those areas where public reliance on CPA skills is most significant.

To achieve its mission, the Institute:

Advocacy

- Serves as the national representative of CPAs before governments, regulatory bodies and other organizations in protecting and promoting members' interests.

Certification and Licensing

- Seeks the highest possible level of uniform certification and licensing standards and promotes and protects the CPA designation.

Communications

- Promotes public awareness and confidence in the integrity, objectivity, competence, and professionalism of CPAs and monitors the needs and views of CPAs.

Recruiting and Education

- Encourages highly qualified individuals to become CPAs and supports the development and outstanding academic programs.

Standards and Performance

- Establishes professional standards; assists members in continually improving their professional conduct, performance, and expertise; and monitors such performance to enforce current standards and requirements.

* Note: The Mission Statement, developed in 1986 by the Mission of AICPA Special Committee, was revised by the Strategic Planning Committee and approved by Council in May 1991. The Strategic Objectives were revised in November 1993 and again in November 1995.

BL Section 921

A Description of the Professional Practice of Certified Public Accountants

.01 Certified public accountants practice in the broad field of accounting.

.02 Accounting is a discipline which provides financial and other information essential to the efficient conduct and evaluation of the activities of any organization.

.03 The information which accounting provides is essential for (1) effective planning, control, and decision-making by management, and (2) discharging the accountability of organizations to investors, creditors, government agencies, taxing authorities, association members, contributors to welfare institutions, and others.

.04 Accounting includes the development and analysis of data, the testing of their validity and relevance, and the interpretation and communication of the resulting information to intended users. The data may be expressed in monetary or other quantitative terms, or in symbolic or verbal forms:

.05 Some of the data with which accounting is concerned are not precisely measurable, but necessarily involve assumptions and estimates as to the present effect of future events and other uncertainties. Accordingly, accounting requires not only technical knowledge and skill, but even more important, disciplined judgment, perception, and objectivity.

.06 Within this broad field of accounting, certified public accountants are the identified professional accountants. They provide leadership in accounting research and education. In the practice of public accounting CPAs bring competence of professional quality, independence, and a strong concern for the usefulness of the information and advice they provide, but they do not make management decisions.

.07 The professional quality of their services is based upon experience and the requirements for the CPA certificate—education and examination—and upon the ethical and technical standards established and enforced by their profession.

.08 CPAs have a distinctive role in auditing financial statements submitted to investors, creditors, and other interested parties, and in expressing independent opinions on the fairness of such statements. This distinctive role has inevitably encouraged a demand for the opinions of CPAs on a wide variety of other representations, such as compliance with rules and regulations of government agencies, sales statistics under lease and royalty agreements, and adherence to covenants in indentures. [Revised, July 1997, to reflect conforming changes necessary due to the issuance of Statement on Auditing Standards No. 58.]

.09 The audit of financial statements requires CPAs to review many aspects of an organization's activities and procedures. Consequently they can advise clients of needed improvements in internal control and make constructive suggestions on financial, tax, and other operating matters. [Revised, July 1997, to reflect conforming changes necessary due to the issuance of Statement on Auditing Standards No. 58.]

.10 In addition to furnishing advice in conjunction with their independent audits of financial statements, CPAs are engaged to provide objective advice and consultation on various management problems. Many of these involve information and control systems and techniques, such as budgeting, cost control, profit planning, internal reporting, automatic data processing, and quantitative analysis. CPAs also assist in the development and implementation of programs approved by management. [Revised, July 1997, to reflect conforming changes necessary due to the issuance of Statement on Auditing Standards No. 58.]

.11 Among the major management problems depending on the accounting function is compliance with tax requirements. An important part of the practice of CPAs includes tax planning and advice, preparation of tax returns, and representation of clients before government agencies.

.12 CPAs also participate in conferences with government agencies such as the Securities and Exchange Commission, and with other interested parties, such as bankers.

.13 Like other professionals, CPAs are often consulted on business, civic, and other problems on which their judgment, experience, and professional standards permit them to provide helpful advice and assistance.

.14 The complexities of an industrial society encourage a high degree of specialization in all professions. The accounting profession is no exception. Its scope is so wide and varied that many individual CPAs choose to specialize in particular types of service.

.15 Although their activities may be diverse, all CPAs have demonstrated basic competence of professional quality in the discipline of accounting. It is this which unites them as members of one profession, and provides a foundation for extension of their services into new areas.
