SCOPE & CONTENT NOTE

Most of the material in the Stone Collection is related to the issue of race in the southern United States.

Box 1 contains letters from African-Americans to Stone's wife, Mary (Folder 2), transcriptions of articles on slavery from antebellum newspapers (Folder 4), early twentieth century bibliographies of works on African-Americans (Folder 5), material from the Commission on Interracial Cooperation (Folder 6), and early twentieth century magazine and newspaper clippings on race (Folders 7-9).

Box 2 contains books and pamphlets ranging from the antebellum period to the early twentieth century on a variety of topics, but the majority of these works are race-related. Box 3 contains oversized material, primarily early twentieth century newspapers, or pages from them, which contain articles on race.
