Will brighten the pathway on which I have gone not a sign of the beautiful ^{things} that brought me regret nor a ^{single} like fragrance that ^{lingers} ^{around} ^{me}
Their memory will still be a joy.

Mr E D Bray
Sir

you will please to pay over to W C Warren the money you have collected on the Warren place since the settlement you made with my father

Yours Respectfully
S. H. Shettleworth
E. M. Shettleworth

Old time as he buried the beautiful hours
That faded away by the side
Enchanted them all in bright ^{fair} leaves & flowers
And gave me one hint when they died
Their light fingers swept life's ^{golden} chain
Too softly, its soon to slip
But many a jewel that fell from their ^{finger}
Is treasured away in my heart.

The Angels have woven the beams of light
Of mystical sunshine & shade
Let us forget how its ^{warm} & ^{trifling}
And cherish its joys as they ^{fade}
And let us remember when we hold
To warm our chill hearts in his ^{light}
And treasure the brightness he ^{gives}
To chase our ^{moments} of ^{woe}

Thus live in the dim twilight of Whom hope in our sad hearts is
The past like the light of a ^{sun}
