

University of Mississippi

eGrove

Clippings

James W. Silver Collection

1963

A Lusty Yell

Author Unknown

Follow this and additional works at: https://egrove.olemiss.edu/jws_clip

Recommended Citation

Unknown, Author, "A Lusty Yell" (1963). Clippings. 302.
https://egrove.olemiss.edu/jws_clip/302

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the James W. Silver Collection at eGrove. It has been accepted for inclusion in Clippings by an authorized administrator of eGrove. For more information, please contact egrove@olemiss.edu.

JACKSON DA

Mississippi's Great

FREDERICK SULLENS

JAMES M. WARD, Editor

MISSISSIPPI

PAGE 8

A Lusty Yell Fo

A big, bald-face blunder, dressed up like a faceless tuxedo bound for a raw-meat banquet to celebrate the debut of "progressive education and brotherhooding" in Mississippi.

That's the way we sum up the decision of the board of trustees of Mississippi Institutions of Higher Learning in supporting Dr. D. W. Colvard in permitting the glorious, victorious Mississippi State Maroons to participate in the racially-mixed NCAA basketball tournament.

But being as good a Roman as the next fellow, guilty of devoting as much space to sports as we do science, peace, war and religion combined, we give forth with a blasting cheer for total victory by Mississippi State at East Lansing, Michigan, as our soldiers go forth in combat.

Grateful, however, that mankind has evolved a system of athletics that utilizes

rou
Chi
inst
the hick
stea
join ing
civi
E
no
shi
eng
Co
th
fo
no he m