ACCOUNTING HISTORY EXHIBITS

In honor of the 75th Anniversary of Bentley College, an exhibit of 40 books from The Harry C. Bentley Collection at the Boston Public Library (BPL) was held from May 15-June 15. The exhibit was coordinated by John Cathcart, archivist at Bentley College and Richard Vangermeersch, professor of accounting at the University of Rhode Island. They were joined by the coauthor of Harry C. Bentley’s two volume bibliography, Miss Ruth S. Leonard for a reception at the BPL on May 29. This exhibit was the first one from the Harry C. Bentley Collection housed at the library.

John Cathcart and Richard Vangermeersch are very much interested in the improvement of exhibits of accounting history. John has presented many small exhibits at Bentley College and developed the use of a "foam-board" material which allows display of more than just a page or two of each book. Richard has participated in the exhibit at Columbia for the AICPA Centennial. Both are interested in finding new ways to provide the same excitement of a study of the books by the viewers as achieved by the exhibitors.

Something different is being planned for an exhibit of books at the Northeast American Accounting Association meeting in Providence in April, 1993. They plan to display 20 books from the Bentley Archives and several other books from Richard’s personal library. A "photo pack-age" from each of the 20 books of the Bentley Archives and a brief commentary on each book will be provided. As the exhibit is discussed, viewers will be urged to examine the books. This procedure is expected to make the viewers more active participants in the process.

The books exhibited are presented here for your interest and knowledge in the order used in the exhibit brochure. It begins with William Mitchell’s 1796 book which Bentley and Leonard believed to be the first American book on accounting.

Maginess, James (1780-1829). The Family Clerk and Students' Assistant, Containing a Neat, Concise, and Plain Method of Bookkeeping, By Single Entry, Harrisburg. Greer, 1817, 194pp.

Wilson, Clement A. A Treatise on Bookkeeping in a Concise and Practical Form . . . , Philadelphia. Lindsay & Blakiston, 1848, 103pp.

Winchester, George W. (1808?-?). Journal to Winchester's New Method of Teaching Bookkeeping by Double Entry . . . , Hartford. Hawley, 1848. 48pp.

Meservey, Atwood Bond (1831-1901). Meservey's Bookkeeping Without a Master,
Inadequate reporting was sometimes a problem, as indicated in a speech given by the orator, Cicero, in the first century B.C. In his prosecution of Gaius Verres for corruption, Cicero commented on the deficiencies of a report rendered by Verres when he was a quaestor to Gnaeus Carbo [Greenwood 1978, 159-161].

Let us see how he presented his accounts: he will prove to us himself why he ran away from Carbo; he will give evidence against himself. Note their conciseness:

Received 2,235,417 sesterces
Expended: soldiers' pay, corn, adjutants, deputy-quaestor, commander's private staff 1,635,417 sesterces
Balance left at Ariminum 600,000 sesterces

Is that the way to present accounts? Have you or I, Hortensius, has anyone in the world, ever presented them like that? Confound the man's unscrupulos impudence! What does this mean? Among all the thousands of accounts that have been presented, is there any parallel for this style of thing?

Auditing in the Bible

There are several direct and indirect references to auditing in the Bible. It should be noted these references occur in stories or parables and are not historical in nature.
