Faces in the News

Robert Beyer, managing partner of the U. S. A. firm, and members of the winning team talk over how they did it after playing the management-computer game "Management Simulation" at Touche Ross July Management Conference in Hot Springs, Virginia. Members of the team are Howard J. Orlin of the New York office, Robert F. Cavins of the Tulsa office and Howard M. Olsen of the Tokyo office.

The Elijah Watt Sells gold medal was awarded this year to Robert O. Kaiser, audit staff member in the Detroit office of Touche Ross for having achieved the highest grades nationally in all parts of the uniform CPA examination. Mr. Kaiser (right) is congratulated by Detroit partner Daniel J. Kelly as he receives a $1,000 check from the firm.

After dinner at the August session of the Touche Ross National Audit Conference in East Lansing, Mich., two conferees talk with National Director of Personnel Henry C. Korff (left) and conference speaker Robert T. Sprouse, Professor of Accounting at Stanford University Graduate School of Business (center).

The meeting of the Touche Ross partners from the United Kingdom was held in Droitwich, England. Shown here are managing partner William R. S. Ritchie and senior partner George L. C. Touche.

Management systems and big-city schools were the focus of a three-day conference in Racine, Wisconsin this spring; Touche Ross director of government, education and medical services Dennis Mulvihill was one of six management experts who met with an equal number of top administrators of large urban schools to hear what management lessons business has for the schools. The conference, known as Wing-spread, was sponsored by the Bank Street College of Education, New York City. Pictured left to right facing camera are Joseph McElligott, administrative office, San Francisco Public Schools; Robert Flahive, assistant superintendent in charge of long-range planning and development, Milwaukee Public Schools; Dennis Mulvihill; John A. Granito, chairman, division of field service and leadership development, Bank Street College of Education; William Delano, vice chairman, board of trustees, Bank Street College of Education; Gordon J. Klopff, dean of faculties, Bank Street College of Education. Pictured back to camera are William B. Mason, group vice president, United Fruit Company and John H. Niemeyer, president, Bank Street College of Education. Also attending were chief public school administrators from New York City, Philadelphia, Detroit and Washington, D. C.

The family of Arthur Hills, Touche Ross partner in Boston, was chosen regional Tennis Family of the Year by the United States Lawn Tennis Association of America. Mr. & Mrs. Hills (above) and their three sons have all been winners of championship trophies.
