AICPA GRANTS CPA WEBTRUST SEAL TO H.D. VEST, INC.

- First Online Tax Preparation Site to Receive Seal of Assurance in U.S. -

NEW YORK, NY, JANUARY 20, 2000 – The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) and the accounting firms of Leach Consulting and Accounting and Carroll, Caton & Greenway announced today that H.D. Vest, Inc. (NASDAQ: HDVS) has been granted a CPA WebTrust seal of assurance for its online tax preparation site, www.hdvest.com. H.D. Vest specializes in providing extensive investment and tax services to the public through accounting and tax professionals.

As the recipient of the first WebTrust seal to be awarded to a U.S.-based online tax preparation site, the Company is looking to further build customer confidence in its online services by providing the security, privacy protection and peace of mind that customers seek.

"The safety of financial information sent via the Internet is the number one concern of Internet users," said Herb D. Vest, Chairman and CEO of H.D. Vest, Inc. "At hdvest.com, we share their concern and have taken security very seriously. That's why we're pleased that H.D. Vest is the first online tax preparation site in the U.S. to receive a WebTrust seal. It sends a clear message to our customers that their private information is protected and their financial planning transactions are safe and secure."

With the granting of this seal, Leach Consulting and Accounting and Carroll, Caton & Greenway move into a growing market for the accounting profession -- Internet and e-commerce consulting - especially in the financial services sector in which protection of sensitive and confidential information is crucial.

"WebTrust is the solution developed by the accounting profession to create a consumer comfort zone with the Internet regarding transactions and protection of private information," said Chris Leach, partner, Leach Consulting and Accounting. "H.D. Vest's main reason for obtaining the seal was to demonstrate that its interest in customer safety and security is first and foremost."

With WebTrust, CPAs and their international counterparts examine online businesses to determine if they are legitimate, their transactions are secure, the information they collect from customers is kept private, their business practices are fully disclosed to customers, and they have a mechanism to resolve customer complaints.

The first in a family of assurance services, CPA WebTrust is part of a global effort by the accounting profession to bring effective solutions to e-commerce. WebTrust is now being offered in the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico, England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, France and Australia. Negotiations are underway with other European and Asian countries to offer WebTrust.
