The Sequel to Briton's Strike Home

Printed and sold by Pitts 14 Great St Andrew Street, seven Dials,

OUR toils they are ended the battle is o'er,
And I'm returned to my own native shore

CHORUS.

So we'll plow the salt seas for honor's
no more, (shore,
But stay with my Mary contented on

We sail'd out from Portsmouth the weather being fair.
But little I thought my Mary was there,
So we'll plow, &c.

We had not left England past days two or three.
Before we fell in with a proud enemy.
So we'll plow, &c.

We fought them three hours the battl^e
was hot,
In the close of the action my mesmate
was shot,
so we'll plow, &c.

But O what a fight when wounded I see My Mary it was lay bleeding by me,
so we'll plow, &c.

The wound was not mortal, so great is my pride, (my bride.
By her father's consent I have made her
so we'll plow, &c.

so now brother seamen I'm blest with a wife,
I've five hundred a year and my Mary for life.
so we'll plow, &c.
