The Small Business Jobs Act of 2010

Tools, Tips, and Tactics

By Robert S. Keebler, Peter Melcher, and Michelle Ward

Based on an article by Matthew G. Lamoreaux and Alistair M. Nevius

Originally appearing in the Journal of Accountancy, September 2010 © AICPA

The Small Business Jobs and Credit Act of 2010 (SBJA), signed by President Obama on September 27, 2010, offers a variety of small business tax breaks, expands loan programs through the Small Business Administration (SBA), strengthens small business preference programs for federal government projects, provides incentives for exporters, and includes a number of revenue raisers.

Small Business Loans

The SBJA creates a Small Business Lending Fund to address the ongoing effects of the financial crisis on small businesses by allowing the Treasury Department to make capital investments in eligible financial institutions to increase credit available for small businesses. Independent community banks may participate in a new $30 billion lending fund on the condition they make loans to small businesses and meet other requirements. Financial institutions (bank and savings and loan holding companies, depository institutions, and community development loan funds) with $10 billion or less in total assets may apply for capital investments of up to 3 percent of risk-weighted assets.

Other small business lending provisions in the act include the following:

- Online information center. The SBJA directs the SBA to create an online lending platform that lists all lenders that make SBA-guaranteed loans and provides interest rates for each lender.

- Nonprofit lenders pilot. The SBJA also creates an intermediary lending pilot program to allow certain private, nonprofit entities that seek or have been awarded SBA loans to make loans to small businesses. The pilot program will allow $20 million in loans each year from 2011 to 2013 to not more than 20 eligible entities. Eligible nonprofit organizations may apply for up to $1 million for the purpose of lending up to $200,000 to eligible small businesses.

- Increased maximums for Microloan Program. The SBJA increases the Microloan Program maximum loan amount to $50,000, from $35,000. It raises total outstanding loan commitment limits to $4.5 million, from $1.5 million, and the total gross loan amount to $5 million, from $2 million. Increased government guarantees and outstanding loan commitments are effective until January 1, 2011, when the percentage guarantees will revert to the original percentages, and the total outstanding loan commitment will reduce to $3.75 million.

- Increased participation limit for section 7(a) business loans. It also increases the limit on the government’s participation in section 7(a) small business loans to 90 percent, from 75 percent, or 85 percent for all section 7(a) loans, regardless of loan amount.

- Raises loan maximums for plant acquisition, construction, conversion, and expansion. The new maximums under the SBA’s 504 Program are tiered in relation to the borrower’s plans to use the capital to support federal government priority goals and projects, mostly in the energy and manufacturing sectors. For nonpriority goals and projects, the maximum is increased to $5 million, from $1.5 million, for each small business concern; to $5 million, from $2 million, for each small business concern if the loan proceeds will be directed toward certain public policy goals; to $5.5 million, from $4 million, for each project of a small manufacturer; to $5.5 million, from $4 million, for each project that reduces the borrower’s energy consumption by at least 10 percent; and to $5.5 million, from $4 million, for each project that generates renewable energy or renewable fuels, such as biodiesel or ethanol production.

- Low-interest refinancing for Local Development Business Loan Program. Up to $7.5 billion in low-interest refinancing is available under the SBA’s Local Development Business Loan Program. Up to $7.5 billion annually is available for loan refinancing for 2 years after enactment for qualifying loans. Qualifying conditions include meeting job creation and retention goals and providing collateral valued at least 125 percent of the amount financed.

- Retail floor plan refinancing. Creates a floor plan refinancing program under which the SBA can guarantee open-ended extensions of credit to small businesses if the loan is used to purchase certain eligible retail goods for resale.

- Express loan enhancement. The maximum amount of express loans under section 7(a) of the Small Business Act is increased to $1 million, from $350,000, for 1 year from the date of enactment.

Small Business Federal Contracting

Federal agencies are called on to solicit bids from small businesses, and federal contracting requirements are amended to encourage small businesses to bid for federal contracts.

The SBJA also establishes a Small Businesses Teaming Pilot Program, which will promote federal contracting opportunities for joint ventures and small businesses. The program is scheduled to run for five years.

Federal agencies are required to solicit bids from any responsible source, including small business concerns, teams, and joint ventures, for multiple award contracts above the substantial bundling threshold of the agency. The SBJA also revises the federal contracting and reporting requirements. Electronic annual certifications of small business size and status are required for ongoing eligibility as a small
Small Business contractor. Small business classification criteria must be reviewed by the SBA at least once every five years.

The SBJA requires the Comptroller General to study strategic mentoring alliances between large and small businesses as a way of getting small businesses access to federal contracts. The study will examine potential competition between mentor and protégé, systems to assure substantive benefit to the protégé, and agency processes to administer or monitor such programs. The study must be completed within 180 days of the bill’s enactment.

Small Business Exports

The SBJA contains measures designed to encourage small businesses to become exporters or increase their export activities. The SBA will create a pilot three-year trade and export promotion program that will make grants to states to carry out export programs that assist eligible small businesses.

A number of changes are made within the SBA’s Office of International Trade to increase the number of small businesses that export and the volume of small business exports.

Other Small Business Programs

The SBJA creates federal grants for small business development centers to provide technical assistance to small businesses seeking capital and credit and other opportunities. It also mandates regulatory relief for small businesses.

A seven-year small business credit initiative is established to allocate federal funds (up to $1.5 billion) to participating states.

Small Business Tax Relief

Many provisions are targeted to assist small business operations through additional tax deductions and tax credits or exclusions. The SBJA would exclude from taxes certain capital gains on sales of small-business stock and accelerate business tax write-offs for purchases of new equipment and other expenses.

Internal Revenue Code Section 179 Expensing and Bonus Depreciation

The SBJA increases the maximum amount a taxpayer may expense under Internal Revenue Code (IRC) Section 179 to $500,000 and increases the phaseout threshold amount to $2 million for tax years beginning in 2010 and 2011. The first-year 50 percent bonus depreciation available under IRC Section 168(k) is extended for 1 year to apply to property acquired and placed in service in 2010 (or 2011 for certain long-lived and transportation property). The SBJA also allows taxpayers using the percentage-of-completion method to take into account the cost of qualified property as if bonus depreciation had not been enacted.
PLANNING POINTERS

Several planning points need to be noted here. First, the increased IRC Section 179 amounts apply to property placed in service at any time during 2010 and not just to the portion of the year following enactment. Thus, taxpayers should make sure that they don’t overlook property placed in service earlier in the year, which will provide them with an unexpected benefit.

Second, the definition of IRC Section 179 property has been expanded. Although it previously included only tangible personal property, following enactment of the SBJA, IRC Section 179 expensing also extends to qualified leasehold improvements, qualified restaurant property, and qualified retail improvement property. For example, it should now apply to improvements to the reception area of a law or an accounting firm. A maximum deduction of $250,000 is permitted for real property, but the overall deduction for personal and real property is limited to $500,000.

Third, after 2011, the maximum deduction reverts from $500,000 to its pre-2008 level of $25,000, with the phaseout beginning at $225,000 instead of $2,000,000. Taxpayers planning to acquire relatively large amounts of IRC Section 179 assets over the next 2 years should accelerate 2011 expenses into 2010 and 2012 expenses into 2011. Acceleration may be particularly important for taxpayers expensing real property improvements. Deductible amounts in excess of the $250,000 maximum can only be carried forward to 2011, and no carryover is permitted for qualifying property placed in service in 2011.

Unlike most of the provisions in the SBJA, the bonus depreciation extension will help large businesses more than small businesses. As a general rule, small businesses would be better off using IRC Section 179 expensing than bonus depreciation, but they need to run the numbers to be sure, particularly if they have little taxable income for the year. This is because bonus depreciation can create a net operating loss that the business can carry back but IRC Section 179 expensing cannot.

Taxpayers should consider accelerating 2011 purchases that qualify for bonus depreciation into 2010 to take advantage of the time value of money for the tax benefit. Like IRC Section 179 expensing, bonus depreciation applies to all of 2010 and not just to the portion of the year following enactment. They may also wish to determine the amount of bonus depreciation they can claim on assets purchased earlier in the year to reduce fourth quarter estimated payments.

QUALIFIED SMALL BUSINESS STOCK

The SBJA amends IRC Section 1202 to increase the exclusion from gross income of gain from the sale or exchange of qualified small business stock (QSBS) from 50 percent to 100 percent, and the minimum tax preference does not apply. This provision applies to eligible stock acquired after the date of enactment and before January 1, 2011.
Planning Pointers

Under prior law, noncorporate taxpayers could exclude 75 percent of the gain from the sale of QSBS acquired between February 18, 2009, and December 31, 2010, and 50 percent on QSBS acquired after 2010. This made the effective tax rates for stock acquired before the end of 2010 7 percent for the regular tax and 12.88 percent for the alternative minimum tax (AMT). For assets acquired on or after January 1, 2011, the effective rates were 14 percent and 14.98 percent, respectively. Notwithstanding the low tax rates, the QSBS provision did not attract as many new businesses as Congress hoped, largely because to take advantage of the provision, a company had to be a C corporation during substantially all of the taxpayer’s holding period.

With both the regular and AMT rates now set at zero, more taxpayers may now find QSBS desirable. The most favorable type of business to acquire would be one that produces a substantial return on investment within the requisite five-year holding period. The business could then be sold without any gain recognition, and the taxpayer would not be burdened with unfavorable C corporation taxation for a long period of time.

Taxpayers wishing to take advantage of the 100 percent tax exclusion will have to act quickly because it applies only to stock acquired from September 27, 2010, to December 31, 2010. Stock purchased after that date will receive only a 50 percent exclusion.

Business Credits

The carryback period for eligible small business credits under IRC Section 38 is extended from one to five years. The SBJA also allows taxpayers to use eligible small business credits to offset both regular and AMT liability. Both provisions are effective for credits determined in tax years beginning after 2009.

Planning Pointers

Numerous general business credits exist under IRC Section 38, including the Work Opportunity Tax Credit, the Low Income Housing Tax Credit, the Research and Development Tax Credit, and the Employer-Provided Child Care Credit. Under previous law, the credits could be carried back only one year, and they applied only to the regular tax.

This carryback provision was specifically designed for small businesses, applying only to firms with average annual gross receipts of $50 million or less over the past 3 years. Credits for a partnership or S corporation are not eligible small business credits for a partner or shareholder, unless the partner or shareholder also meets the gross receipts test for the tax year the credits are treated as current year business credits.

The rationale for extending the carryback period is, presumably, that because of the poor economy, many companies have had little taxable income the last couple of years and would have little use for a current credit. Three, four, or five years ago, however, their situation may have been very different.
Built-In Gains Tax

For tax years beginning in 2011, the SBJA provides that for purposes of computing the IRC Section 1374 built-in gains tax, the recognition period is the five-year period beginning with the first day of the first tax year for which the corporation was an S corporation.

Planning Pointers

Following the repeal of the General Utilities doctrine in 1986, corporate income is taxed twice: once at the corporate level and again at the shareholder level. Realizing that shareholders could easily avoid the second level of tax by transferring appreciated assets to an S corporation, Congress enacted the IRC Section 1374 built-in gains tax as a backstop. This tax applies to S corporations that were formerly C corporations and held assets with fair market value greater than basis at the time of the conversion or later acquired assets from a C corporation in certain nonrecognition transactions. As originally enacted, IRC Section 1374 required that if such a corporation sold or made a liquidating distribution of a built-in gain asset within 10 years after the date of the S conversion, a corporate level tax was imposed on the built-in gain at the highest corporate tax rate (currently 35%). The recognition period was shortened to 7 years for 2010 before the current reduction to 5 years for 2011.

The shortened recognition period will help two kinds of S corporation owners. First, it will enable those with unwanted built-in gain assets to sell the assets earlier and free up money for expansion or hiring additional employees. Because gain must also be recognized on an asset sale of a corporation or a liquidating distribution, owners wishing to sell the S corporation may be able to do so sooner. Suppose, for example, that a C corporation with large built-in gains converted to an S corporation in 2006. If the recognition period had not been shortened, the shareholders would have had to wait until 2013 to sell, but now, they could sell in 2011.

The projected cost of shortening the recovery period is only $70 million dollars. This suggests that the main effect of the built-in gains was not to raise revenue but simply to delay asset sales. Most S corporations with built-in gains were evidently waiting until the end of the recognition period to sell assets. Finally, this provision may encourage more C corporations with substantial built-in gains to convert to S corporations because they can now eliminate the tax liability in a shorter period of time following the conversion.

Self-Employed Individuals’ Health Insurance

The SBJA allows self-employed individuals who deduct the cost of health insurance for themselves and their spouses, dependents, and children under 27 years old as of the end of the tax year to take the deduction into account in calculating net earnings from self-employment for purposes of Self-Employment Contributions Act taxes. This provision applies to the taxpayer’s tax years beginning after 2009.

Start-Up Expenses

The SBJA increases the IRC Section 195 deduction for trade or business start-up expenses from $5,000 to $10,000 for tax years beginning in 2010 and 2011. The start of the limitation on the deduction is increased from $50,000 to $60,000. So, for 2010 and 2011, the amount of the deduction is the lesser of (a) the amount of the start-up expenses or (b) $10,000, reduced (but not below zero) by the amount by which the start-up expenditures exceed $60,000.
Planning Pointers

In the absence of the special rule for start-up expenses, these amounts would be deductible over a 180-month period. If business start-up expenses are less than $10,000, the full amount can be deducted in the first year. For a small business, this may cover most or all of the start-up costs. If expenses exceed $10,000, however, the excess is deducted ratably over a 180-day period, beginning with the month in which the active trade or business begins. Note that it is possible to deduct both the $10,000 amount and a ratable portion of the remainder in the first year.

Example: T, a calendar-year individual, begins an active trade or business in November 2010 and has $55,000 of start-up expenses. T can deduct $10,000 plus the ratable portion of the remaining $45,000 of expenditures attributable to the last 2 months of 2010. This gives him a total deduction in 2010 of $10,500: $10,000 + (($45,000/180) × 2 months). The remaining $44,500 is deducted ratably over the next 178 months at $250 per month.

Reportable and Listed Transactions

The SBJA limits the IRC Section 6707A penalty for failure to disclose a reportable transaction (that is, a transaction determined by the IRS to have a potential for tax avoidance or evasion) to 75 percent of the decrease in tax resulting from the transaction. The maximum annual penalty allowed for failure to disclose a reportable transaction will be $10,000 in the case of a natural person and $50,000 for all other persons. For listed transactions, the maximum penalty will be $100,000 in the case of a natural person and $200,000 for all other persons. The minimum penalty is $5,000 for natural persons and $10,000 for all other persons.

The SBJA also requires the IRS to report to Congress by December 31, 2010, and then annually, on penalties assessed for certain tax shelters and reportable transactions [under IRC Sections 6662A, 6700(a), 6707, 6707A and 6708]. The penalty under section 6707A has been criticized because the penalty amounts often exceed the tax benefit of the targeted transactions. Since last July, the IRS has been working under a self-imposed moratorium on collection enforcement of the IRC Section 6707A penalty to give Congress time to amend the penalty amounts. The AICPA has recommended that the IRS be allowed to abate the IRC Section 6707A penalty in cases in which the taxpayer has acted reasonably and in good faith. The AICPA also believes that judicial review should be allowed in cases in which the IRS has assessed a penalty under IRC Section 6707A. The SBJA does not adopt either of these recommendations.
Planning Pointers

Reportable transactions include (a) listed transactions, (b) confidential transactions, (c) transactions with contractual protection, (d) transactions with large losses, (e) transactions of interest, and (f) transactions with a brief holding period.

Prior to the change, there was no proportionality between the amount of the penalty for failure to disclose a reportable transaction and the potential tax benefit from the transaction. The penalty regime was particularly unfair for S corporation shareholders or partners with relatively small interests in the business who played no role in deciding to use the transaction in question.

To illustrate the change in penalty amounts, suppose that an individual enters into a reportable transaction that could save $10,000 of income tax and failed to report it. Under the old rules, the penalty would have been $50,000, but under the new rules, the penalty would be the greater of (a) $5,000 or (b) $7,500: $7,500: 0.75 × $10,000.

The Joint Committee on Taxation (JCT) report indicates that the reduced penalty amounts apply to all penalties assessed after December 31, 2006. Thus, taxpayers who paid an IRC Section 6707A penalty after that date should consider filing a refund claim. To avoid penalties going forward, taxpayers should keep a list of transactions of interest and listed transactions. These can be found in Notice 2009-55 and 2009-59, respectively. The lists are constantly being updated, so taxpayers should also check the IRS website from time to time.

Cell Phones

The SBJA removes cell phones from the definition of listed property. Thus, the heightened substantiation requirements and special depreciation rules that apply to listed property under IRC Section 280A will no longer apply to cell phones. However, the JCT notes that this change “does not affect Treasury’s authority to determine the appropriate characterization of cell phones as a working condition fringe benefit under section 132(d) or that the personal use of such devices that are provided primarily for business purposes may constitute a de minimis fringe benefit, the value of which is so small as to make accounting for it administratively impracticable, under section 132(e).”

Planning Pointers

Under the old law, taxpayers were technically required to label every incoming and outgoing phone call as business or personal, creating an unworkable situation. The SBJA eliminates this onerous requirement, and there are indications that the IRS may take relief one step further. Earlier this year, the IRS Commissioner urged Congress to treat an employee’s personal use of an employer-provided cell phone as a de minimis fringe benefit. The statement from the JCT report previously quoted seems to follow up on the IRS Commissioner’s suggestion. Thus, we may see the IRS adopt a blanket rule providing that cell phones issued primarily for business use would automatically qualify as a de minimis fringe benefit.
Revenue Raisers

457 Plan Roth Contributions

The SBJA allows participants in government 457 plans to treat elective deferrals as Roth contributions, effective for tax years beginning after 2010.

<tr>
<th>Planning Pointers</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Participants in 401(k) and 403(b) plans already had the ability to designate their elective deferrals as Roth contributions. The new law also permits 457 plans that allow Roth contributions to convert pretax plan assets to Roth assets by making an in-plan rollover.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Rollovers to Roth Accounts

The SBJA also allows rollovers from elective deferral plans to Roth-designated accounts. If a 401(k), 403(b), or 457(b) plan has a qualified, designated Roth contribution program, a distribution to an employee (or a surviving spouse) from an account under the plan that is not a designated Roth account is permitted to be rolled over into a designated Roth account under the plan for the individual. This provision is effective for distributions made after the date of enactment.
The new provision raises an interesting question. Assuming that a Roth conversion would be beneficial, are taxpayers better off using the new in-plan rollover option and keeping the assets inside the qualified plan or converting to a Roth IRA?

The advantage of the Roth-designated account is that the money stays inside the plan and continues to have Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 protection. This may be very important for high risk professionals, such as doctors and lawyers.

On the other hand, taxpayers who use the new option will lose two of the most important advantages of Roth IRAs. First, no recharacterizations are permitted if the account assets perform poorly. This could be disastrous. To illustrate, assume that a taxpayer has $1 million in a 401(k) and converts the full balance to a Roth 401(k). During the next several months, the value of the assets drops to $600,000. The taxpayer has until the following October 15 to unwind the conversion. On the other hand, if the taxpayer rolls the $1 million in a Roth-designated account inside the 401(k) plan, no recharacterization is possible, and the taxpayer will end up paying tax on $400,000 of value that no longer exists. Second, although required minimum distributions must be paid from a Roth-designated account, no such requirement exists with a Roth IRA. Thus, the Roth IRA is a much better estate planning vehicle for wealthy taxpayers who don’t need the IRA to provide income. This suggests that although high-risk professionals might consider Roth-designated accounts, other taxpayers would be better off converting to a Roth IRA.

Note, however, that it may be possible for professionals in high-risk occupations to get the best of both worlds. One strategy would be for them to convert to a Roth-designated account at age 60 to provide added asset protection during the last years of practice and the early years of retirement when malpractice exposure might continue. This would have little downside because no required distributions would be required, and the risk of the assets dropping sharply in value could be minimized by using only relatively safe assets. Then, at age 70, there could be a conversion to a Roth IRA to avoid required minimum distributions.

A participant who elects an in-plan Roth conversion can choose between recognizing all the income in 2010 or spreading it evenly between 2010 and 2011. Which is the better option in any given case will depend on the facts and circumstances, and taxpayers will simply have to run the numbers to make the right choice. By paying the full amount in 2010, a taxpayer may be able to take advantage of a lower marginal rate structure but will lose tax deferral and the ability to spread the payments between two tax years, possibly preventing income from extending into a higher tax bracket.

Amending plans before the end of 2010 to give employees the option of spreading income over two years or taking advantage of lower 2010 tax rates may create practical problems for employers. They will have to create systems to track plan amounts and establish guidelines for issues, such as how often conversions can be made and what assets can be converted. The legislative history of the SBJA states, however, that Congress intends for the IRS to provide employers with a sufficient period of time to make the necessary changes to their plans.

Annuitization

The SBJA permits a portion of an annuity, an endowment, or a life insurance contract to be annuitized while the balance is not annuitized, provided that the annuitization period is for 10 years or more or the lives of one or more individuals.

Planning Pointers

This provision is designed to permit taxpayers to access a portion of a nonqualified deferred annuity without highly unfavorable tax consequences. To illustrate, suppose that a taxpayer has a deferred annuity with a current balance of $100,000 and that the total amount of premiums paid was $70,000. The taxpayer needs additional cash flow but wants to keep the bulk of the value in the annuity to grow in a tax-deferred environment. She converts $40,000 into a fixed, periodic income stream and leaves the remaining $60,000 inside the annuity.

Prior to the SBJA, the tax treatment of partial annuitizations was a no-rule area; taxpayers were concerned, and there was concern that the IRS would take the position that the partial annuity payments were subject to the income-first rule under which all payments would be fully taxable until the full amount of gain had been recognized. Returning to the fact pattern previously outlined, this would mean that all annuity payments would be fully taxable until the full $30,000 gain had been recognized. After that, all payments would be tax free. Under the new provision, there would instead be a pro rata split of each annuity payment between taxable gain and tax-free return of basis. Thus, under the preceding example, 30 percent of each payment would be taxable, and the remaining 70 percent would be tax free.

Reporting Rental Income

The SBJA makes recipients of rental income from real estate generally subject to the same information reporting requirements as taxpayers engaged in a trade or business. In particular, rental income recipients making payments of $600 or more to a service provider (such as a plumber, painter, or accountant) in the course of earning rental income are required to provide an information return (typically Form 1099-MISC) to the IRS and service provider. This provision will apply to payments made after December 31, 2010.

Planning Pointers

The SBJA provides exceptions for individuals temporarily renting their principal residence (including members of the military), taxpayers with minimal income, and those for whom the reporting would create a hardship. The details of the last two exemptions will be developed by the IRS in regulations. To facilitate enforcement, the penalties for not filing the required Form 1099s will be increased.

Information Returns

The SBJA also increases the penalties for failure to file a correct information return. The first-tier penalty increases from $15 to $30, and the calendar-year maximum increases from $75,000 to $250,000. The second-tier penalty increases from $30 to $60, and the calendar-year maximum increases from $150,000 to $500,000. The third-tier penalty increases from $50 to $100, and the calendar-year maximum increases from $250,000 to $1.5 million. For small business filers, the calendar-year maximum increases from $25,000 to $75,000 for the first-tier penalty; from $50,000 to $200,000 for the second-tier penalty; and from $100,000 to $500,000 for the third-tier penalty. The minimum penalty for each failure due to intentional disregard increases from $100 to $250.
Planning Pointers
The new penalties might be expected to increase IRS scrutiny of information returns. Although the per return amounts are still low, many businesses file so many information returns that the penalties could add up to very substantial amounts, warranting increased attention to the forms.

Federal Contractor Levies
The SBJA allows the IRS to issue levies prior to a collections due process hearing with respect to federal tax liabilities of federal contractors identified under the Federal Payment Levy Program, effective for levies issued after the date of enactment.

Planning Pointers
Effective September 27, 2010, the SBJA gives the IRS authority to levy on certain payments to federal contractors without giving 30 days notice and an opportunity to request a hearing during the 30-day period. The taxpayer will still have an opportunity to request a hearing within a reasonable time after the levy.

Cellulosic Biofuels
The SBJA excludes so-called crude tall oil from the definition of cellulosic biofuel for purposes of the IRC Section 40 tax credit for alcohol used as fuel. Crude tall oil is a by-product of the paper-making industry. Earlier this year, the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act of 2010 removed another paper by-product—black liquor—from the definition of cellulosic biofuel.

Planning Pointers
The SBJA also excludes other cellulosic biofuels with acid numbers greater than 25. The reason is that the more acidic the fuel becomes when it begins to break down, the greater the engine corrosion and fuel system deposits. Taxpayers will need check on what fuels still qualify.

Income From Guarantees
The SBJA overrides the Tax Court’s recent decision in Container Corp. v. Comm’r, 134 TC no. 5 (2010), by amending the IRC Sections 861 and 862 source rules to address income from guarantees issued after the date of enactment. Under new IRC Section 861(a)(9), income from sources within the United States includes amounts received, whether directly or indirectly, (a) from a noncorporate resident or domestic corporation for the provision of a guarantee of indebtedness of the person or (b) from any foreign person for the provision of a guarantee of any indebtedness of the person, if such amount is connected with income that is effectively connected (or treated as effectively connected) with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States.
The question presented to the Tax Court in Container Corp. v. Comm’r was whether a guarantee fee received by a Mexican corporation from its U.S. subsidiary was U.S. source income subject to withholding. Although the IRC provides specific rules for sourcing most items of income, it has no rule for guarantee fees. Thus, the Tax Court had to determine what item of income for which the IRC did provide a sourcing rule was most analogous to a guarantee fee.

The most likely possibilities were (a) interest, which is sourced according to the residence of the payor and services, and (b) services, which are sourced where the services are created or provided. If the fee was treated as interest, it would be U.S. source income because it was paid by the U.S. subsidiary. If it was treated as a service, it would be sourced in Mexico because it was the Mexican parent’s promise to pay that produced the service (the guarantee). The Tax Court held that the fee was in the nature of a service, making it foreign source income. The SBJA legislatively reverses this result by creating new IRC Section 861(a)(9), treating guarantee fees as interest and sourcing them to the country where received by the guaranteed party.

Corporate Estimated Taxes

The SBJA increases the required corporate estimated tax payments factor for corporations with assets of at least $1 billion for payments due in July, August, or September 2015.

Planning Pointers

The factor is increased from 123.25 percent of the estimated tax payment otherwise due to 159.25 percent. The increase represents only a timing difference because there will be a corresponding decrease in the next quarterly payment.

quired under subsection (e)(3), the Secretary shall expand the use of predictive analytics technologies, beginning April 1, 2015, to apply to Medicaid and CHIP. To the extent the Secretary determines appropriate, such expansion may be made on a phased-in basis.

(6) OPTION FOR REFINEMENT AND EVALUA-TION.—If, with respect to the first, second, or third implementation year, the Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services certifies as part of the report required under subsection (e) for that year no or only nominal actual savings to the Medicare fee-for-service program, the Secretary may impose a moratorium, not to exceed 12 months, on the expansion of the use of predictive analytics technologies under this section for the succeeding year in order to refine the use of predictive analytics technologies to achieve more than nominal savings before further expansion. If a moratorium is imposed in accordance with this paragraph, the implementation dates applicable for the succeeding year or years shall be adjusted to reflect the length of the moratorium period.

(ii) the actual and projected savings to the Medicare fee-for-service program as a result of such use of predictive technologies relative to the return on investment for the use of such technologies and in comparison to other strategies or technologies used to prevent and detect fraud, waste, and abuse in the Medicare fee-for-service program; and

(iii) includes recommendations regarding—
(I) whether the Secretary should continue to use predictive analytics technologies;

CHIP, the Secretary shall, by grant, contract, or interagency agreement, conduct an independent evaluation of the use of predictive analytics technologies under the Medicare fee-for-service program and Medicaid and CHIP. The evaluation shall include an analysis with respect to each such program of the items required for the third year implementation report under subsection (e)(3).

(2) REPORT.—Not later than 18 months after the evaluation required under paragraph (1) is initiated, the Secretary shall submit a report to Congress on the evaluation that shall include the results of the evaluation, the Secretary’s response to such results and, to the extent the Secretary determines appropriate, recommendations for legislation or administrative actions.

(g) WAIVER AUTHORITY.—The Secretary may waive such provisions of titles XI, XVIII, XIX, and XXI of the Social Security Act, including applicable prompt payment requirements under titles XVIII and XIX of such Act, as the Secretary determines to be appropriate to carry out

Treasury not otherwise appropriated, there is appropriated to the Secretary to carry out this section, $100,000,000 for the period beginning January 1,
2011, to remain available until expended.

(2) RESERVATIONS.—

(A) INDEPENDENT EVALUATION.—The
Secretary shall reserve not more than 5 percent of the funds appropriated under paragraph (1)
for purposes of conducting the independent evaluation required under subsection (f).

(B) APPLICATION TO MEDICAID AND

Appendix B: Summary of the Small Business Jobs and Credit Act of 2010

Summary of the Small Business Jobs Act
August 5, 2010

Provisions to Provide Access to Capital

100% Exclusion of Small Business Capital Gains. Generally, non-corporate taxpayers may exclude 50 percent of the gain from the sale of certain small business stock acquired at original issue and held for more than five years. For stock acquired after February 17, 2009 and before January 1, 2011, the exclusion is increased to 75 percent. At the time of sale, however, 28% of the excluded gain will be treated as a tax preference item subject to the alternative minimum tax (AMT). Qualifying small business stock is from a C corporation whose gross assets do not exceed $50 million (including the proceeds received from the issuance of the stock) and who meets a specific active business requirement. The amount of gain eligible for the exclusion is limited to the greater of ten times the taxpayer’s basis in the stock or $10 million of gain from stock in that corporation. This bill would temporarily increase further the amount of the exclusion to 100 percent of the gain from the sale of qualifying small business stock that is acquired after the date of enactment in 2010 and held for more than five years. Additionally, the bill eliminates the AMT preference item attributable for that sale. This provision is estimated to cost $518 million over ten years.

General Business Credit Carried Back Five Years. Under current law, a business’ unused general business credit may generally be carried back to offset taxes paid in the previous year, and the remaining amount may be carried forward for 20 years to offset future tax liabilities. This bill extends the one year carryback for general business credits to five years for certain small businesses. This applies to general business credits for those sole proprietorships, partnerships and non-publicly traded corporations with $50 million or less in average annual gross receipts for the prior three years. This provision is estimated to cost $107 million over ten years.

General Business Credit Not Subject to AMT. Under the Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT), taxpayers may generally only claim allowable general business credits against their regular tax liability, and only to the extent that their regular tax liability exceeds their AMT liability. A few credits may be used to offset AMT liability, such as the credit for small business employee health insurance expense. This bill allows certain small businesses to use all types of general business credits against their AMT. This applies to general business credits for those sole proprietorships, partnerships and non-publicly traded corporations with $50 million or less in average annual gross receipts for the prior three years. This provision is estimated to cost $977 million over ten years.

S Corp Holding Period. Generally, a C corporation converting to an S corporation must hold onto any appreciated assets for 10 years following its conversion or face a business-level tax imposed on the built-in gain at the highest corporate rate of 35 percent. This holding period is reduced where the 7th taxable year in the holding period preceded the taxable year beginning in 2009 or 2010. This bill temporarily shortens the holding period of assets subject to the built-in gains tax to 5 years if the 5th taxable year in the holding period preceeds the taxable year beginning in 2011. This provision is estimated to cost $70 million over ten years.

Increase Small Business Administration (SBA) Loan Limits. This provision increases 7(a) loan limits from $2 million to $5 million, 504 loans from $1.5 million to $5.5 million, and microloans from $35,000 to $50,000. It also increases the government guarantee on 7(a) loan limits, while providing the elimination of borrower fees on 7(a) and 504 loans through December 31, 2010. It increases the 7(a) Express Loans from $300,000 to $1 million to increase working capital to small businesses. The package also includes Intermediary Lending Pilot program, which allows the SBA to make direct loans to eligible nonprofit lending intermediaries, in turn allowing them to make loans to new or growing small businesses. SBA has estimated that the loan increase would increase lending to small businesses by $5 billion in the first year. This provision is estimated to cost $26 million over two years.
Extend Elimination of Small Business Administration (SBA) Loan Fees. This provision extends the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act small business lending program that eliminates the fees normally charged for loans through the SBA 7(a) and 504 loan programs and increases the government guarantees on 7(a) loans from 75% to 90%. Since its creation, the program has supported over $26 billion in small business lending, which has helped to create or retain over 650,000 jobs. This provision was added in the substitute amendment introduced on July 21, 2010. This provision is estimated to cost $505 million over ten years.

State Small Business Credit Initiative (SSBCI). The bill provides $1.5 billion in grants to States to support small business lending programs. States will apply for the funds to be used for approved programs that leverage private lenders to extend greater credit to small businesses and manufacturers. The program allows States to build upon successful models for state small business programs, including capital access, loan participation, collateral support, State-run venture capital, and credit guarantee programs. Funds are allocated to the States using formulas based on certain State employment and unemployment rate data. States have nine months to apply for the program. If the state does not apply, the largest municipalities of the states can apply. This provision was increased by $600 million in the substitute amendment introduced on July 21, 2010. This provision is estimated to cost $1.5 billion over ten years.

Small Business Lending Fund. The bill authorizes the creation of the Small Business Lending Fund to provide Treasury with the ability to purchase preferred stock and other debt instruments from eligible financial institutions with less than $10 billion in total assets. Eligible institutions include insured depositories, bank and savings and loan holding companies, and certain community development loan funds. Eligible institutions with less than $1 billion in total assets can apply to receive investments of up to five percent of their risk-weighted assets. Eligible institutions between $1 billion and $10 billion in total assets can receive investments of up to three percent of risk-weighted assets. Participating institutions will pay a five percent dividend rate on the preferred stock, but this rate can be reduced to as low as one percent if a bank demonstrates a 10 percent increase in small business lending relative to a baseline set using the four quarters prior to enactment. The dividend rate is increased to seven percent after two years, if the bank does not increase its small business lending. To encourage timely repayment, the rate increases to nine percent after four and a half years. Treasury’s authority to make capital investments under the program is terminated one year after the date of enactment. This provision was added in the substitute amendment introduced on July 27, 2010. This provision is estimated to raise $1.1 billion over ten years.

Provisions to Encourage Investment

Increase of Section 179 Expensing and Expansion to Certain Real Property. Under current law, taxpayers may elect to write-off the costs of certain tangible personal property that is purchased for use in the active conduct of a trade or business in the year of acquisition in lieu of recovering these costs over time through depreciation. For the taxable year beginning in 2010, taxpayers may write-off up to $250,000 of these capital expenditures subject to a phase-out once these capital expenditures exceed $800,000. After 2010, the thresholds revert to $25,000 and $200,000, respectively. This bill would increase the thresholds to $500,000 and $2,000,000 for the taxable years beginning in 2010 and 2011. Within those thresholds, this bill would allow taxpayers to expense up to $250,000 of the cost of qualified leasehold improvement property, qualified restaurant property, and qualified retail improvement property. This provision is estimated to cost $2.2 billion over ten years.

Extension of Bonus Depreciation. Businesses are allowed to recover the cost of capital expenditures over time according to a depreciation schedule. Congress temporarily allowed businesses to recover the costs of certain capital expenditures made in 2008 and 2009 more quickly than under ordinary depreciation schedules by permitting those businesses to immediately write-off 50 percent of the cost of depreciable property placed in service in those years. This bill extends the additional, first-year 50 percent depreciation for qualifying property purchased and placed in service in 2010. This provision is estimated to cost $5.5 billion over ten years.

Special Rule for Long-Term Contract Accounting. This provision decouples bonus depreciation from allocation of contract costs under the percentage of completion accounting method rules for assets with a depreciable life of seven years or less in order to allow contractors that do not complete contracts within the same year in which they are entered into to benefit from bonus depreciation. This provision was added in the substitute amendment introduced on July 21, 2010. This provision is estimated to have no cost over ten years.

Provisions to Promote Entrepreneurship

Increased Deduction for Start-up Expenditures. Under current law, taxpayers may deduct up to $5,000 in trade or business start-up expenditures. The amount that a business may deduct is reduced by the amount by which start-up expenditures exceed $50,000. Start-up expenditures are defined as expenses paid or incurred in connection with investigating or creating an active trade or business, which would be deductible if paid or incurred in connection with the operation of an existing trade or business. For the taxable year beginning in 2010, this bill would temporarily increase the amount of start-up expenditures that may be deducted to $10,000 subject to a $60,000 phase-out threshold. This provision is estimated to cost $230 million over ten years.

Small Business Export Promotion. The Office of the United States Trade Representative (USTR) plays an important role in promoting U.S. exports, and recently increased its focus on small business export promotion in particular. USTR has done so in several respects, including the creation of the position of Assistant USTR for Small Business, Market Access, and Industrial Competitiveness within USTR. This official will help ensure that USTR’s trade policy addresses the challenges facing smaller U.S. exporters and promotes global export opportunities for them. The bill authorizes funds for USTR’s market access and trade enforcement activities targeted at helping small business increase market access and ensure a level playing field on which to sell their U.S. made goods. This provision has no cost associated with it.

Export Promotion Act. The substitute would assist U.S. small and mid-sized businesses that are looking to export their products but do not have the resources or know-how to find new international customers. First, it increases the activities and staffing of the Department of Commerce in carrying out its mission to promote U.S. exports. Second, it authorizes increased funding for export grants available to industry associations and non-profit institutions. Finally, the amendment requires that decisions to fund manufacturing and innovation grants include exporting potential as one of the application considerations. The Department of Commerce’s International Trade Administration historically has shown that for every $1 million dollars in appropriated funds, $56.6 million in exports are seen in return. This legislation is projected to support over 40,000 jobs once the funds are appropriated. This provision was added in the substitute amendment introduced on July 27, 2010. This change has no cost associated with it.

Enhanced Small Business Trade Opportunities. This provision improves the SBA’s trade and export finance programs and elevates the Office of International Trade within the SBA. It adds Export Finance Specialists to the SBA’s trade counseling programs. It also establishes the State Export Promotion Grant Program (STEP), which would increase the number of small businesses that export. In addition, it improves coordination between federal and state agencies and SBA resource partners. This leverages more than $1 billion in export capital for small businesses, which will create or save as many as 40,000–50,000 jobs in 2010. This provision is estimated to cost $58 million over two years.
Improved Small Business Contracting. Removes the red tape and closes loopholes that too often put government work into the hands of multinational corporations instead of Main Street businesses. Increasing contracts to small businesses by just 2 percent can create more than 60,000 jobs. This legislation also provides for a periodic review of small business size standards to ensure that size indicators are consistent with inflation and industry growth of small businesses. It establishes accountability of large business prime contractors for prompt payment to small business subcontractors. This provision is estimated to cost $142 million over two years.

Relief for Community Partners. This provision allows SBA to waive or reduce the non-federal share of its funding requirements for up to one year, through fiscal year 2012. It also gives relief to Women’s Business Centers (WBCs) and microloan intermediaries, which provide assistance to underserved communities to start and grow small businesses. The SBA estimates that the microloan program will create or save more than 10,000 jobs in Fiscal Year 2011. This legislation also provides an additional $50 million for the Small Business Development Centers to provide technical assistance to small business owners and entrepreneurs. This provision is estimated to cost $50 million for one year.

Provisions to Promote Small Business Fairness

Modify Section 6707A Penalty. The bill revises section 6707A of the Internal Revenue Code to make the penalty for failing to disclose a reportable transaction proportionate to the underlying tax savings. The penalty for failure to disclose reportable transactions to the IRS would be set at 75 percent of the tax benefit received. Reportable transactions are defined as investments in transactions that the IRS has identified as listed tax shelters or that have characteristics of tax shelters, including large losses or confidentiality agreements. The minimum penalty under this bill is $10,000 for corporations and $5,000 for individuals, and the maximum penalty is $200,000 for corporations and $100,000 for individuals. The bill also requires the IRS to provide an annual report to the Senate Finance Committee and to the House Ways and Means Committee giving an account of certain tax-shelter related penalties asserted during the year. This provision is estimated to cost $176 million over ten years.

Deductibility of Health Insurance for the Purposes of Calculating Self-Employment Tax. Under current law, business owners are not permitted to deduct the cost of health insurance for themselves and their family members for purposes of calculating self-employment tax. This provision would allow business owners to deduct the cost of health insurance incurred in 2010 for themselves and their family members in the calculation of their 2010 self-employment tax. This provision is estimated to cost $1.9 billion over ten years.

Enhancements to Small Business Contracting Parity Programs. This provision removes the priority one contracting program has over another, making clear that no single restricted competition program has priority over another. It places the small business contracting programs, HUBZone, 8(a), Service-Disabled Veterans and Women-Owned Businesses on a level playing field when competing for Federal contracts. This provision has no cost associated with it.

Improvements to Disaster Recovery to Include Aquaculture. Currently, the SBA excludes aquaculture businesses from receiving SBA Economic Injury Disaster Loans (EIDL). This section would allow SBA, provided it does not duplicate other Federal disaster programs for that disaster, to make economic injury disaster loans to these businesses. This provision has no cost associated with it.

Require Federal Agencies to Expand Their Assessments of Economic Effects on Small Businesses. This provision strengthens the Regulatory Flexibility Act by requiring agencies to respond to the SBA Chief Counsel of Advocacy’s comments in the final rule. It also seeks more independence for the Office of Advocacy by mandating a separate line item in the SBA’s annual budget. This provision has no cost associated with it.
Remove Cellular Phones from “Listed Property.” This provision would “delist” cell phones so their cost can be deducted or depreciated like other business property, without onerous recordkeeping requirements. This provision was added in the substitute amendment introduced on July 21, 2010. This provision is estimated to cost $410 million over ten years.

Offsets – Reducing the Tax Gap

Require Information Reporting for Rental Property Expense Payments. The bill requires persons receiving rental income from real property to file information returns to the IRS and to service providers reporting payments of $600 or more during the year for rental property expenses. In general, there is an exception for individuals renting their principal residences, including active members of the military, from the reporting requirements. This provision is estimated to raise $2.5 billion over ten years.

Increase Penalties for Failure to File Information Returns. The bill increases penalties for failure to timely file information returns to the IRS. The first-tier penalty is increased from $15 to $30, and the calendar year maximum is increased from $75,000 to $250,000. The second-tier penalty is increased from $30 to $60, and the calendar year maximum is increased from $150,000 to $500,000. The third-tier penalty is increased from $50 to $100, and the calendar year maximum is increased from $250,000 to $1.5 million. For small filers, the calendar year maximum is increased from $25,000 to $75,000 for the first-tier penalty, from $50,000 to $200,000 for the second-tier penalty, and from $100,000 to $500,000 for the third-tier penalty. The minimum penalty for each failure due to intentional disregard is increased from $100 to $250. The penalty amounts are adjusted every five years for inflation. Penalties for failure to file information returns to payees are similarly increased. This provision is estimated to raise $421 million over ten years.

Application of Continuous Levy to Tax Liabilities of Certain Federal Contractors. Generally, before the IRS can issue a levy for an unpaid Federal tax liability, it must give the taxpayer an opportunity for a collection due process (CDP) hearing. Prior to the Federal government making disbursements to Federal contractors, an automated check for a Federal tax liability occurs. When such a liability is identified, the IRS issues a CDP notice to the contractor but cannot levy on payments to the contractor until the CDP requirements are complete. The bill allows IRS to issue levies prior to a CDP hearing on Federal tax liabilities of Federal contractors. It also provides the taxpayer with an opportunity for a CDP hearing within a reasonable time after a levy is issued. This provision is estimated to raise $1.1 billion over ten years.

Offsets – Promoting Retirement Preparation

Allow Participants in Governmental 457 Plans to Treat Elective Deferrals as Roth Contributions. Beginning in 2011, the bill would allow retirement savings plans sponsored by state and local governments (governmental 457(b) plans) to include Roth accounts, which are currently available only in 401(k) and 403(b) plans and will be available in the federal Thrift Savings Plan in 2011. Contributions to Roth accounts are made on an after-tax basis, but distributions of both principal and earnings are generally tax-free. This provision is estimated to raise $506 million over ten years.

Allow Rollovers from Elective Deferral Plans to Roth Designated Accounts. The bill would allow 401(k), 403(b), and governmental 457(b) plans to permit participants to roll their pre-tax account balances into a Roth account. The amount of the rollover would be includible in taxable income except to the extent it is the return of after-tax contributions. If the rollover is made in 2010, the participant can elect to pay the tax in 2011 and 2012. Plans would be able to allow these rollovers immediately upon enactment. This provision is estimated to raise $5.1 billion over ten years.
Permit Partial Annuitization of a Nonqualified Annuity Contract. The substitute would allow holders of nonqualified annuities (that is, annuity contracts held outside of a tax-qualified retirement plan or IRA) to elect to receive a portion of the contract in the form of a stream of annuity contracts, leaving the remainder of the contract to accumulate income on a tax-deferred basis. This provision was added in the substitute amendment introduced on July 21, 2010. This provision is estimated to raise $956 million over ten years.

Offsets – Closing Unintended Loopholes

Crude Tall Oil Ineligible for Cellulosic Biofuel Producer Credit. In 2008, Congress enacted a $1.01 per gallon tax credit for the production of biofuel from cellulosic feedstocks in order to encourage the development of new production capacity for biofuels that are not derived from food source materials. Some taxpayers are seeking to claim the cellulosic biofuel tax credit for processed fuels that are highly corrosive, such as crude tall oil (another waste by-product of the paper manufacturing process). The bill limits eligibility for the tax credit to fuels that are not highly corrosive (i.e., fuels that could be used in a car engine or in a home heating application). This provision is estimated to raise $1.8 billion over ten years.

Source Rules on Guarantees. Under current law, the treatment of guarantee fees under the source rules is unclear. If guarantee fees are sourced like services, they are sourced according to the location in which the services were performed. If the guarantee fees are sourced like interest, they are sourced by reference to the country of residence of the payor. A recent court case determined that guarantee fees should be sourced like services. Sourcing guarantee fees in a manner similar to services would permit U.S. subsidiaries of foreign corporations to engage in earning stripping transactions by making deductible payments to foreign affiliates (thereby reducing their U.S. income tax liability) without the imposition of U.S. withholding tax on the payment. The substitute would provide that amounts received directly or indirectly for guarantees of indebtedness of the payor issued after the date of enactment will be sourced like interest and, as a result, if paid by U.S. taxpayers to foreign persons will generally be subject to withholding tax. No inference is intended with respect to the treatment of guarantees issued before the date of enactment. This provision was added in the substitute amendment introduced on July 21, 2010. This provision is estimated to raise $2 billion over ten years.

Other Provisions

Use of Predictive Modeling and Other Analytics Technologies to Identify and Prevent Waste, Fraud and Abuse in the Medicare Fee-for Service Program. The bill would require the Secretary to contract with private companies to conduct predictive modeling and other analytics technologies to identify and prevent payment of improper claims submitted under Parts A and B of Medicare. The Secretary would be required to identify the ten states that have the highest risk of waste, fraud and abuse in the Medicare program, and for one year, predictive modeling and other analytics technologies would be used to identify and stop fraudulent claims in these states. After this initial year, the Inspector General of the Department of HHS (HHS OIG) would report to Congress on the actual savings to the Medicare fee-for-service during the preceding year, projected future savings to the program as a result of the use of these technologies, and the return on investments as a result of the predictive analytics technologies. The Secretary would be required to report to Congress on the effect, if any, the technologies have on Medicare beneficiaries and providers. If the HHS OIG certifies more than nominal savings from the use of the technology, its use would be expanded to ten additional states for another year. After the second year of use, the Secretary and the HHS OIG, would conduct a second analysis and certification. If this analysis and certification are positive, the technologies would be expanded to the Medicare fee-for-service program in every state for an additional year. Finally, after that additional year, a third analysis would be conducted, and if positive, the Secretary would expand the use of the technologies to Medicaid and the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP). If during any evaluation and certification, the HHS OIG does not certify savings, a moratorium would be imposed on the expansion of the technologies for one year. This provision was added in the substitute amendment introduced on July 27, 2010. This change increases the cost of the bill by $930 million over ten years.

I. SMALL BUSINESS RELIEF

A. Providing Access to Capital

1. Temporary exclusion of 100 percent of gain on certain small business stock (sec. 2011 of the bill and sec. 1202 of the Code)

Present Law

In general

Individuals generally may exclude 50 percent (60 percent for certain empowerment zone businesses) of the gain from the sale of certain small business stock acquired at original issue and held for at least five years. The amount of gain eligible for the exclusion by an individual with respect to any corporation is the greater of (1) ten times the taxpayer's basis in the stock or (2) $10 million. To qualify as a small business, when the stock is issued, the gross assets of the corporation may not exceed $50 million. The corporation also must meet certain active trade or business requirements.

The portion of the gain includible in taxable income is taxed at a maximum rate of 28 percent under the regular tax. A percentage of the excluded gain is an alternative minimum tax preference; the portion of the gain includible in alternative minimum taxable income is taxed at a maximum rate of 28 percent under the alternative minimum tax.

Gain from the sale of qualified small business stock generally is taxed at effective rates of 14 percent under the regular tax and (i) 14.98 percent under the alternative minimum tax for dispositions before January 1, 2011; (ii) 19.88 percent under the alternative minimum tax for dispositions after December 31, 2010, in the case of stock acquired before January 1, 2001; and (iii) 17.92 percent under the alternative minimum tax for dispositions after December 31, 2010, in the case of stock acquired after December 31, 2000.

3 Sec. 1(h).

4 Sec. 57(a)(7). In the case of qualified small business stock, the percentage of gain excluded from gross income which is an alternative minimum tax preference is (i) seven percent in the case of stock disposed of in a taxable year beginning before 2011; (ii) 42 percent in the case of stock acquired before January 1, 2001, and disposed of in a taxable year beginning after 2010; and (iii) 28 percent in the case of stock acquired after December 31, 2000, and disposed of in a taxable year beginning after 2010.

5 The 50 percent of gain included in taxable income is taxed at a maximum rate of 28 percent.

6 The amount of gain included in alternative minimum tax is taxed at a maximum rate of 28 percent. The amount so included is the sum of (i) 50 percent (the percentage included in taxable income) of the total gain and (ii) the applicable preference percentage of the one-half gain that is excluded from taxable income.
Temporary increase in exclusion

The percentage exclusion for qualified small business stock acquired after February 17, 2009, and before January 1, 2011, is increased to 75 percent. As a result of the increased exclusion, gain from the sale of this qualified small business stock held at least five years is taxed at effective rates of seven percent under the regular tax\(^7\) and 12.88 percent under the alternative minimum tax.\(^8\)

Explanation of Provision

Under the provision, the percentage exclusion for qualified small business stock acquired during 2010 is increased to 100 percent and the minimum tax preference does not apply. Thus, no regular tax or alternative minimum tax is imposed on the sale of this stock held at least five years.

Effective Date

The provision is effective for stock issued after the date of enactment and before January 1, 2011.

2. Five-year carryback of general business credit of eligible small business (sec. 2012 of the bill and sec. 39 of the Code)

Present Law

The general business credit generally may not exceed the excess of the taxpayer’s net income tax over the greater of the taxpayer's tentative minimum tax or 25 percent of so much of the taxpayer's net regular tax liability as exceeds $25,000.\(^9\) General business credits in excess of this limitation may be carried back one year and forward up to 20 years.\(^10\)

Explanation of Provision

The provision extends the carryback period for eligible small business credits from one to five years. Under the provision, eligible small business credits are defined as the sum of the general business credits determined for the taxable year with respect to an eligible small business. An eligible small business is, with respect to any taxable year, a corporation, the stock of which is not publicly traded, or a partnership which meets the gross receipts test of section

\(^7\) The 25 percent of gain included in taxable income is taxed at a maximum rate of 28 percent.

\(^8\) The 46 percent of gain included in alternative minimum tax is taxed at a maximum rate of 28 percent. Forty-six percent is the sum of 25 percent (the percentage of total gain included in taxable income) plus 21 percent (the percentage of total gain which is an alternative minimum tax preference).

\(^9\) Sec. 38(c). The general business credit is the sum of the credits allowed under sec. 38(b).

\(^10\) Sec. 39.
448(c), substituting $50 million for $5 million each place it appears. In the case of a sole proprietorship, the gross receipts test is applied as if it were a corporation. Credits determined with respect to a partnership or S corporation are not treated as eligible small business credits by a partner or shareholder unless the partner or shareholder meets the gross receipts test for the taxable year in which the credits are treated as current year business credits.

Effective Date

The provision is effective for credits determined in the taxpayer's first taxable year beginning after December 31, 2009.

3. General business credit of eligible small business not subject to alternative minimum tax (sec. 2013 of the bill and sec. 38 of the Code)

Present Law

For any taxable year, the general business credit, which is the sum of the various business credits, generally may not exceed the excess of the taxpayer's net income tax over the greater of the taxpayer's tentative minimum tax or 25 percent of so much of the taxpayer's net regular tax liability as exceeds $25,000. Any general business credit in excess of this limitation may be carried back one year and forward up to 20 years. The tentative minimum tax is an amount equal to specified rates of tax imposed on the excess of the alternative minimum taxable income over an exemption amount. However, in applying the tax liability limitation to certain specified credits that are part of the general business credit, the tentative minimum tax is treated as being zero. Thus, the specified credits may offset both regular and alternative minimum tax liability.

Description of Proposal

The provision provides that the tentative minimum tax is treated as being zero for eligible small business credits. Thus, an eligible small business credit may offset both regular and alternative minimum tax liability. Under the provision, eligible small business credits are defined as the sum of the general business credits determined for the taxable year with respect to an eligible small business. An eligible small business is, with respect to any taxable year, a corporation, the stock of which is not publicly traded, or a partnership, which meets the gross receipts test of section 448(c), substituting $50 million for $5 million each place it appears. In the case of a sole proprietorship, the gross receipts test is applied as if it were a corporation.

11 For example, a calendar year corporation meets the $50 million gross receipts test for the 2010 taxable year, if as of January 1, 2010, its average annual gross receipts for the 3-taxable-year period ending December 31, 2009, does not exceed $50 million. The aggregation and special rules under sections 448(c)(2) and (3) apply in applying the test.

12 See section 38(c)(4)(B) for a list of the specified credits.

13 For example, a calendar year corporation meets the $50 million gross receipts test for the 2010 taxable year, if as of January 1, 2010, if its average annual gross receipts for the 3-taxable-year period ending December 31, 2009, does not exceed $50 million. The aggregation and special rules under sections 448(c)(2) and (3) apply for purposes of the test.
Credits determined with respect to a partnership or S corporation are not treated as eligible small business credits by a partner or shareholder unless the partner or shareholder meets the gross receipts test for the taxable year in which the credits are treated as current year business credits.

Effective Date

The proposal is effective for credits determined in a taxpayer's first taxable year beginning after December 31, 2009.

Present Law

A “small business corporation” (as defined in section 1361(b)) may elect to be treated as an S corporation. Unlike C corporations, S corporations generally pay no corporate-level tax. Instead, items of income and loss of an S corporation pass through to its shareholders. Each shareholder takes into account separately its share of these items on its individual income tax return.

A corporate level tax, at the highest marginal rate applicable to corporations (currently 35 percent) is imposed on an S corporation's gain that arose prior to the conversion of the C corporation to an S corporation and is recognized by the S corporation during the recognition period, i.e., the 10-year period beginning with the first day of the first taxable year for which the S election is in effect. For any taxable year beginning in 2009 and 2010, no tax is imposed on an S corporation under section 1374 if the seventh taxable year in the corporation’s recognition period preceded such taxable year. Thus, with respect to gain that arose prior to the conversion of a C corporation to an S corporation, for taxable years beginning in 2009 and 2010, no tax is imposed under section 1374 after the seventh taxable year the S corporation election is in effect.

The built-in gains tax also applies to gains with respect to net recognized built-in gain attributable to property received by an S corporation from a C corporation in a carryover basis transaction. In the case of built-in gain attributable to an asset received by an S corporation from a C corporation in a carryover basis transaction, the recognition period rules are applied by 14 Sec. 1366.

15 Sec. 1374(d)(7)(A). The 10-year period refers to ten calendar years from the first day of the first taxable year for which the corporation was an S corporation.

16 Sec. 1374(d)(7)(B).

17 Sec. 1374(d)(8). With respect to such assets, the recognition period runs from the day on which such assets were acquired (in lieu of the beginning of the first taxable year for which the corporation was an S corporation). Sec. 1374(d)(8)(B).
substituting the date such asset was acquired by the S corporation in lieu of the beginning of the first taxable year for which the corporation was an S corporation.\textsuperscript{18}

Gains recognized in the recognition period are not built-in gains to the extent they are shown to have arisen while the S election was in effect or are offset by recognized built-in losses. The amount of the built-in gains tax is treated as a loss taken into account by the shareholders in computing their individual income tax.\textsuperscript{19}

Explanation of Provision

For taxable years beginning in 2011, the provision provides that for purposes of computing the built-in gains tax, the "recognition period" is the five-year period\textsuperscript{20} beginning with the first day of the first taxable year for which the corporation was an S corporation.

Effective Date

The provision is effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 2010.

\textsuperscript{18} Shareholders continue to take into account all items of gain and loss under section 1366.

\textsuperscript{19} Sec. 1366(f)(2).

\textsuperscript{20} The 5-year period refers to 5 calendar years from the first day of the first taxable year for which the corporation was an S corporation.
B. Encouraging Investment

1. Increase and expand expensing of certain depreciable business assets (sec. 2021 of the bill and sec. 179 of the Code)

Present Law

A taxpayer that satisfies limitations on annual investment may elect under section 179 to deduct (or “expense”) the cost of qualifying property, rather than to recover such costs through depreciation deductions.\(^{21}\) For taxable years beginning in 2010, the maximum amount that a taxpayer may expense is $250,000 of the cost of qualifying property placed in service for the taxable year. The $250,000 amount is reduced (but not below zero) by the amount by which the cost of qualifying property placed in service during the taxable year exceeds $800,000.\(^{22}\) In general, qualifying property is defined as depreciable tangible personal property that is purchased for use in the active conduct of a trade or business. Off-the-shelf computer software placed in service in taxable years beginning before 2011 is treated as qualifying property.

For taxable years beginning in 2011 and thereafter, a taxpayer with a sufficiently small amount of annual investment may elect to deduct up to $25,000 of the cost of qualifying property placed in service for the taxable year. The $25,000 amount is reduced (but not below zero) by the amount by which the cost of qualifying property placed in service during the taxable year exceeds $200,000. The $25,000 and $200,000 amounts are not indexed. In general, qualifying property is defined as depreciable tangible personal property that is purchased for use in the active conduct of a trade or business (not including off-the-shelf computer software).

The amount eligible to be expensed for a taxable year may not exceed the taxable income for a taxable year that is derived from the active conduct of a trade or business (determined without regard to this provision). Any amount that is not allowed as a deduction because of the taxable income limitation may be carried forward to succeeding taxable years (subject to similar limitations). No general business credit under section 38 is allowed with respect to any amount for which a deduction is allowed under section 179. An expensing election is made under rules prescribed by the Secretary.\(^{23}\)

Explanation of Provision

The provision increases the maximum amount a taxpayer may expense under section 179 to $500,000 and increases the phase-out threshold amount to $2 million for taxable years

\(^{21}\) Additional section 179 incentives are provided with respect to qualified property meeting applicable requirements that is used by a business in an enterprise zone (sec. 1397A), a renewal community (sec. 1400J), or the Gulf Opportunity Zone (sec. 1400N(e)).

beginning in 2010 and 2011. Thus, the provision provides that the maximum amount a taxpayer may expense, for taxable years beginning after 2009 and before 2012, is $500,000 of the cost of qualifying property placed in service for the taxable year. The $500,000 amount is reduced (but not below zero) by the amount by which the cost of qualifying property placed in service during the taxable year exceeds $2 million.

The provision also temporarily expands the definition of property qualifying for section 179 to include certain real property—specifically, qualified leasehold improvement property, qualified restaurant property, and qualified retail improvement property. The maximum amount with respect to real property that may be expensed under the proposal is $250,000. In addition, section 179 deductions attributable to qualified real property that are disallowed under the trade or business income limitation may only be carried over to taxable years in which the definition of eligible section 179 property includes qualified real property. Thus under the provision, if a taxpayer’s section 179 deduction for 2010 with respect to qualified real property is limited by the taxpayer’s active trade or business income, such disallowed amount may be carried over to 2011 in the manner under present law. Any such amounts that are not used in 2011, plus any 2011 disallowed section 179 deductions attributable to qualified real property, are treated as property placed in service in 2011 for purposes of computing depreciation. The carryover amount from 2010 is considered placed in service on the first day of the 2011 taxable year.

The provision also permits a taxpayer to elect to exclude real property from the definition of section 179 property.

24 For purposes of the provision, qualified leasehold improvement property has the meaning given such term under section 168(e)(6), qualified restaurant property has the meaning given such term under section 168(e)(7) (and includes a building described in section 168(e)(7)(A)(i) that is placed in service after December 31, 2009 and before January 1, 2012), and qualified retail improvement property has the meaning given such term under section 168(e)(8) (without regard to section 168(e)(8)(E)).

25 For example, assume that during 2010, a company’s only asset purchases are section 179-eligible equipment costing $100,000 and qualifying leasehold improvements costing $350,000. Assuming the company has no other asset purchases during 2010, and is not subject to the taxable income limitation, the maximum section 179 deduction the company can claim for 2010 is $350,000 ($100,000 with respect to the equipment and $250,000 with respect to the qualifying leasehold improvements).

26 For example, assume that during 2010, a company’s only asset purchases are section 179-eligible equipment costing $100,000 and qualifying leasehold improvements costing $200,000. Assume the company has no other asset purchases during 2010, and has a taxable income limitation of $150,000. The maximum section 179 deduction the company can claim for 2010 is $150,000, which is allocated pro rata between the properties, such that the carryover to 2011 is allocated $100,000 to the qualified leasehold improvements and $50,000 to the equipment.

Assume further that in 2011, the company had no asset purchases and had taxable income of $-0-. The $100,000 carryover from 2010 attributable to qualified leasehold improvements is treated as placed in service as of the first day of the company’s 2011 taxable year. The $50,000 carryover allocated to equipment is carried over to 2012 under section 179(b)(3)(B).
Effective Date

The provision is effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 2009.

2. Extend the additional first-year depreciation allowance (sec. 2022 of the bill and sec. 168(k) of the Code)

Present Law

In general

An additional first-year depreciation deduction is allowed equal to 50 percent of the adjusted basis of qualified property placed in service during 2008 and 2009 (2009 and 2010 for certain longer-lived and transportation property).\(^{27}\) The additional first-year depreciation deduction is allowed for both regular tax and alternative minimum tax purposes, but is not allowed for purposes of computing earnings and profits. The basis of the property and the depreciation allowances in the year of purchase and later years are appropriately adjusted to reflect the additional first-year depreciation deduction. In addition, there are no adjustments to the allowable amount of depreciation for purposes of computing a taxpayer’s alternative minimum taxable income with respect to property to which the provision applies. The amount of the additional first-year depreciation deduction is not affected by a short taxable year. The taxpayer may elect out of additional first-year depreciation for any class of property for any taxable year.

The interaction of the additional first-year depreciation allowance with the otherwise applicable depreciation allowance may be illustrated as follows. Assume that in 2009, a taxpayer purchased new depreciable property and places it in service.\(^{28}\) The property’s cost is $1,000, and it is five-year property subject to the half-year convention. The amount of additional first-year depreciation allowed is $500. The remaining $500 of the cost of the property is depreciable under the rules applicable to five-year property. Thus, 20 percent, or $100, is also allowed as a depreciation deduction in 2009. The total depreciation deduction with respect to the property for 2009 is $600. The remaining $400 adjusted basis of the property generally is recovered through otherwise applicable depreciation rules.

Property qualifying for the additional first-year depreciation deduction must meet all of the following requirements. First, the property must be (1) property to which MACRS applies with an applicable recovery period of 20 years or less; (2) water utility property (as defined in section 168(e)(5)); (3) computer software other than computer software covered by section 197; or (4) qualified leasehold improvement property (as defined in section 168(k)(3)).\(^{29}\) Second, the

\(^{27}\) Sec. 168(k). The additional first-year depreciation deduction is subject to the general rules regarding whether an item must be capitalized under section 263 or section 263A.

\(^{28}\) Assume that the cost of the property is not eligible for expensing under section 179.

\(^{29}\) The additional first-year depreciation deduction is not available for any property that is required to be depreciated under the alternative depreciation system of MACRS. The additional first-year depreciation deduction is original use\textsuperscript{30} of the property must commence with the taxpayer after December 31, 2007.\textsuperscript{31} Third, the taxpayer must purchase the property within the applicable time period. Finally, the property must be placed in service after December 31, 2007, and before January 1, 2010. An extension of the placed in service date of one year (i.e., to January 1, 2011) is provided for certain property with a recovery period of ten years or longer and certain transportation property.\textsuperscript{32} Transportation property is defined as tangible personal property used in the trade or business of transporting persons or property.

The applicable time period for acquired property is (1) after December 31, 2007, and before January 1, 2010, but only if no binding written contract for the acquisition is in effect before January 1, 2008, or (2) pursuant to a binding written contract which was entered into after December 31, 2007, and before January 1, 2010.\textsuperscript{33} With respect to property that is manufactured, constructed, or produced by the taxpayer for use by the taxpayer, the taxpayer must begin the manufacture, construction, or production of the property after December 31, 2007, and before January 1, 2010. Property that is manufactured, constructed, or produced for the taxpayer by another person under a contract that is entered into prior to the manufacture, construction, or production of the property is considered to be manufactured, constructed, or produced by the taxpayer. For property eligible for the extended placed in service date, a special rule limits the amount of costs eligible for the additional first-year depreciation. With respect to such property, only the portion of the basis that is properly attributable to the costs incurred \textsuperscript{30} The term “original use” means the first use to which the property is put, whether or not such use corresponds to the use of such property by the taxpayer.

\textsuperscript{31} A special rule applies in the case of certain leased property. In the case of any property that is originally placed in service by a person and that is sold to the taxpayer and leased back to such person by the taxpayer within three months after the date that the property was placed in service, the property would be treated as originally placed in service by the taxpayer not earlier than the date that the property is used under the leaseback.

\textsuperscript{32} Property qualifying for the extended placed in service date must have an estimated production period exceeding one year and a cost exceeding $1 million.

\textsuperscript{33} Property does not fail to qualify for the additional first-year depreciation merely because a binding written contract to acquire a component of the property is in effect prior to January 1, 2008.
before January 1, 2010 ("progress expenditures") is eligible for the additional first-year
depreciation. 34

Property does not qualify for the additional first-year depreciation deduction when the user of such property (or a related party) would not have been eligible for the additional first-year depreciation deduction if the user (or a related party) were treated as the owner. For example, if a taxpayer sells to a related party property that was under construction prior to January 1, 2008, the property does not qualify for the additional first-year depreciation deduction. Similarly, if a taxpayer sells to a related party property that was subject to a binding written contract prior to January 1, 2008, the property does not qualify for the additional first-year depreciation deduction. As a further example, if a taxpayer (the lessee) sells property in a sale-leaseback arrangement, and the property otherwise would not have qualified for the additional first-year depreciation deduction if it were owned by the taxpayer-lessee, then the lessor is not entitled to the additional first-year depreciation deduction.

The limitation under section 280F on the amount of depreciation deductions allowed with respect to certain passenger automobiles is increased in the first year by $8,000 for automobiles that qualify (and for which the taxpayer does not elect out of the additional first-year deduction).
The $8,000 increase is not indexed for inflation.

Explanation of Provision

The provision extends the additional first-year depreciation deduction for one year to apply to qualified property acquired and placed in service during 2010 (or placed in service during 2011 for certain long-lived property and transportation property).

Effective Date

The provision applies to property placed in service in taxable years ending after December 31, 2009.

34 For purposes of determining the amount of eligible progress expenditures, it is intended that rules similar to section 46(d)(3) as in effect prior to the Tax Reform Act of 1986 apply.
3. Disregard bonus depreciation in computing percentage completion (sec. 2023 of the bill and new sec. 460(c)(6) of the Code)

Present Law

Percentage-of-completion method

In general, in the case of a long-term contract, the taxable income from the contract is determined under the percentage-of-completion method. Under such method, the percentage completion is determined by comparing costs allocated to the contract and incurred before the end of the taxable year with the estimated total contract costs. Costs allocated to the contract typically include all costs (including depreciation) that directly benefit or are incurred by reason of the taxpayer's long-term contract activities. The allocation of the costs to a contract is made in accordance with regulations.

Additional first-year depreciation deduction (“bonus depreciation”)

A taxpayer is allowed to recover, through annual depreciation deductions, the cost of certain property used in a trade or business or for the production of income. The amount of the depreciation deduction allowed with respect to tangible property for a taxable year generally is determined under MACRS. Under MACRS, different types of property generally are assigned applicable recovery periods and depreciation methods. The recovery periods applicable to most tangible personal property (tangible property other than residential rental property and nonresidential real property) range from three to 25 years. The depreciation methods generally applicable to tangible personal property are the 200-percent and 150-percent declining balance methods, switching to the straight-line method for the taxable year in which the depreciation deduction would be maximized. In general, the recovery periods for real property are 39 years for non-residential real property and 27.5 years for residential rental property. The depreciation method for real property is the straight-line method.

An additional first-year depreciation deduction is allowed equal to 50 percent of the adjusted basis of qualified property placed in service during 2008 and 2009 (2009 and 2010 for certain longer-lived and transportation property), and for property placed in service in 2010 (2011 for certain longer-lived and transportation property) under section 2022 of the bill. The additional first-year depreciation deduction is allowed for both regular tax and alternative minimum tax purposes, but is not allowed for purposes of computing earnings and profits. The 36 Treas. Reg. sec. 1.460-5.

37 For certain property, including tangible property used predominantly outside of the United States, tax-exempt use property, tax-exempt bond-financed property, and certain other property, the MACRS “alternative depreciation system” of section 168(g) applies, generally increasing recovery periods and requiring straight-line depreciation.
basis of the property and the depreciation allowances in the year of purchase and later years are appropriately adjusted to reflect the additional first-year depreciation deduction. In addition, there are no adjustments to the allowable amount of depreciation for purposes of computing a taxpayer’s alternative minimum taxable income with respect to property to which the provision applies. The amount of the additional first-year depreciation deduction is not affected by a short taxable year. The taxpayer may elect out of additional first-year depreciation for any class of property for any taxable year.

Property qualifying for the additional first-year depreciation deduction must meet all of the following requirements. First, the property must be (1) property to which MACRS applies with an applicable recovery period of 20 years or less, (2) water utility property (as defined in section 168(e)(5)), (3) computer software other than computer software covered by section 197, or (4) qualified leasehold improvement property (as defined in section 168(k)(3)). Second, the original use of the property must commence with the taxpayer after December 31, 2007. Third, the taxpayer must purchase the property within the applicable time period. Finally, the property must be placed in service after December 31, 2007, and before January 1, 2011. An extension of the placed in service date of one year (i.e., to January 1, 2012) is provided for certain property with a recovery period of ten years or longer, and certain transportation property. Transportation property is defined as tangible personal property used in the trade or business of transporting persons or property.

The applicable time period for acquired property is (1) after December 31, 2008, and before January 1, 2011, but only if no binding written contract for the acquisition is in effect before January 1, 2010, or (2) pursuant to a binding written contract which was entered into after

39 The additional first-year depreciation deduction is not available for any property that is required to be depreciated under the alternative depreciation system of MACRS. The additional first-year depreciation deduction is also not available for qualified New York Liberty Zone leasehold improvement property as defined in section 1400L(c)(2).

40 The term “original use” means the first use to which the property is put, whether or not such use corresponds to the use of such property by the taxpayer.

If in the normal course of its business a taxpayer sells fractional interests in property to unrelated third parties, then the original use of such property begins with the first user of each fractional interest (i.e., each fractional owner is considered the original user of its proportionate share of the property).

41 A special rule applies in the case of certain leased property. In the case of any property that is originally placed in service by a person and that is sold to the taxpayer and leased back to such person by the taxpayer within three months after the date that the property was placed in service, the property would be treated as originally placed in service by the taxpayer not earlier than the date that the property is used under the leaseback.

If property is originally placed in service by a lessor (including by operation of section 168(k)(2)(D)(i)), such property is sold within three months after the date that the property was placed in service, and the user of such property does not change, then the property is treated as originally placed in service by the taxpayer not earlier than the date of such sale.

42 Property qualifying for the extended placed in service date must have an estimated production period exceeding one year and a cost exceeding $1 million.
December 31, 2008, and before January 1, 2011. With respect to property that is manufactured, constructed, or produced by the taxpayer for use by the taxpayer, the taxpayer must begin the manufacture, construction, or production of the property after December 31, 2008, and before January 1, 2010. Property that is manufactured, constructed, or produced for the taxpayer by another person under a contract that is entered into prior to the manufacture, construction, or production of the property is considered to be manufactured, constructed, or produced by the taxpayer. For property eligible for the extended placed in service date, a special rule limits the amount of costs eligible for the additional first-year depreciation. With respect to such property, only the portion of the basis that is properly attributable to the costs incurred before January 1, 2011 (“progress expenditures”) is eligible for the additional first-year depreciation.

Property does not qualify for the additional first-year depreciation deduction when the user of such property (or a related party) would not have been eligible for the additional first-year depreciation deduction if the user (or a related party) were treated as the owner. In addition, the limitation under section 280F on the amount of depreciation deductions allowed with respect to certain passenger automobiles is increased in the first year by $8,000 for automobiles that qualify (and for which the taxpayer does not elect out of the additional first-year deduction). The $8,000 increase is not indexed for inflation.

Explanation of Provision

The provision provides that solely for purposes of determining the percentage of completion under section 460(b)(1)(A), the cost of qualified property is taken into account as a cost allocated to the contract as if bonus depreciation had not been enacted. Qualified property is property otherwise eligible for bonus depreciation that has a MACRS recovery period of 7 years or less and that is placed in service after December 31, 2009, and before January 1, 2011 (January 1, 2012, in the case of property described in section 168(k)(2)(B)).

43 Property does not fail to qualify for the additional first-year depreciation merely because a binding written contract to acquire a component of the property is in effect prior to January 1, 2008.

44 For purposes of determining the amount of eligible progress expenditures, it is intended that rules similar to section 46(d)(3) as in effect prior to the Tax Reform Act of 1986 apply.

45 For example, assume a calendar year taxpayer is required to use the percentage-of-completion method to account for a long-term contract during 2010. Assume further that during 2010 the taxpayer purchases and places into service equipment with a cost basis of $500,000 and MACRS recovery period of 5-years. The taxpayer uses the equipment exclusively in performing its obligation under the contract. In computing the percentage of completion under section 460(b)(1)(A), the depreciation on the equipment (assuming a half-year convention) taken into account as a cost allocated to the contract for 2010 is $100,000 \([\frac{500,000}{5} \times 200\% \times 0.5]\). The amount of the depreciation deduction that may be claimed by the taxpayer in 2010 with respect to the equipment is $300,000 \([\frac{500,000 \times 0.5}{5} + \frac{(500,000 - (500,000 \times 0.5))}{5} \times 200\% \times 0.5]\).

46 Sec. 168(k)(2)(B) generally applies to property having longer production periods.
Effective Date

The provision is effective for property placed in service after December 31, 2009.
C. Promoting Entrepreneurship

1. Increase amount allowed as deduction for start-up expenditures (sec. 2031 of the bill and sec. 195 of the Code)

Present Law

Start-up expenditures

A taxpayer can elect to deduct up to $5,000 of start-up expenditures in the taxable year in which the active trade or business begins. However, the $5,000 amount is reduced (but not below zero) by the amount by which the cumulative cost of start-up expenditures exceeds $50,000. Start-up expenditures that are not deductible in the year in which the active trade or business begins are, at the taxpayer's election, amortized over a 15-year period beginning with the month the active trade or business begins. Start-up expenditures are amounts that would have been deductible as trade or business expenses, had they not been paid or incurred before business began, including amounts paid or incurred in connection with (1) investigating the creation or acquisition of an active trade or business, (2) creating an active trade or business, or (3) any activity engaged in for profit and for the production of income before the day on which the active trade or business begins, in anticipation of such activity becoming an active trade or business.

Treasury regulations provide that a taxpayer is deemed to have made an election under section 195(b) to amortize its start-up expenditures for the taxable year in which the active trade or business to which the expenditures relate begins. A taxpayer that chooses to forgo the deemed election must clearly elect to capitalize its start-up expenditures on its timely filed Federal income tax return for the taxable year the active trade or business commences. The election either to amortize or capitalize start-up expenditures is irrevocable and applies to all start-up expenditures related to the active trade or business.

Explanation of Provision

For taxable years beginning in 2010, the provision increases the amount of start-up expenditures a taxpayer can elect to deduct from $5,000 to $10,000 and increases the deduction phase-out threshold such that the $10,000 is reduced (but not below zero) by the amount by which the cumulative cost of start-up expenditures exceeds $60,000.

2. Provision providing authorization of appropriations to the Office of the United States Trade Representative\(^{52}\) (sec. 2032 of the bill)

Present Law

Current law authorizes funding for the Office of the United States Trade Representative ("USTR") to carry out the agency’s functions; however, that authorization expired in 2004. The authorization currently exists through appropriations. USTR was appropriated $47,826,000 for fiscal year 2010.

Explanation of Provision

The provision authorizes additional appropriations in the amount of $5,230,000 for USTR to (1) analyze and develop opportunities for U.S. businesses to access foreign markets; and (2) enforce trade agreements to which the United States is a party. In obligating and expending the funds, the United States Trade Representative shall (1) give preference to initiatives that will create or sustain the greatest number of U.S. jobs or result in the greatest benefit to the U.S. economy; and (2) consider the needs of U.S. small and medium-sized businesses.

The effective date is the date of enactment of this legislation.

D. Promoting Small Business Fairness

1. Limitation on penalty for failure to disclose certain information (sec. 2041 of the bill and sec. 6707A of the Code)

Present Law

The reporting requirements of sections 6011 through 6112 create interlocking disclosure obligations for both taxpayers and advisors. Each of these disclosure statutes has a parallel penalty provision that enforces it. Prior to enactment of the American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 ("AJCA"), no penalty was imposed on taxpayers who failed to disclose participation in transactions subject to section 6011. For disclosures that were due after enactment of that legislation, a strict liability penalty under section 6707A applies to any failure to disclose a reportable transaction.

Regulations under section 6011 require a taxpayer to disclose with its tax return certain information with respect to each “reportable transaction” in which the taxpayer participates. A reportable transaction is defined as one that the Secretary determines is required to be disclosed because it is determined to have a potential for tax avoidance or evasion. There are five categories of reportable transactions: listed transactions, confidential transactions, transactions with contractual protection, certain loss transactions and transactions of interest.

Transactions falling under the first and last categories of reportable transactions are transactions that are described in publications issued by the Treasury Department and identified as one of these types of transaction. A listed transaction is defined as a reportable transaction which is the same as, or substantially similar to, a transaction specifically identified by the Secretary as a tax avoidance transaction for purposes of the reporting disclosure requirements. A “transaction of interest” is one that is the same or substantially similar to a transaction identified by the Secretary as one about which the Secretary is concerned but does not yet have sufficient knowledge to determine that the transaction is abusive.

55 Sec. 6707A(c)(1).
56 Treas. Reg. sec. 1.6011-4(b)(2)-(6).
57 The regulations clarify that the term “substantially similar” includes any transaction that is expected to obtain the same or similar types of tax consequences and that is either factually similar or based on the same or similar tax strategy. Further, the term must be broadly construed in favor of disclosure. Treas. Reg. sec. 1.6011-4(c)(4).
58 Sec. 6707A(c)(2).
59 Treas. Reg.sec. 1.6011-4(b)(6).
The other categories of reportable transactions are not specifically identified in published guidance, but are defined as classes of transactions sharing certain characteristics. In general, a transaction is considered to be offered to a taxpayer under conditions of confidentiality if an advisor who is paid a minimum fee places a limitation on disclosure by the taxpayer of the tax treatment or tax structure of the transaction and the limitation on disclosure protects the confidentiality of that advisor's tax strategies (irrespective if such terms are legally binding). A transaction involves contractual protection if (1) the taxpayer has the right to a full or partial refund of fees if the intended tax consequences from the transaction are not sustained, or (2) the fees are contingent on the intended tax consequences from the transaction being sustained. A reportable loss transaction generally includes any transaction that results in a taxpayer claiming a loss (under section 165) of at least (1) $10 million in any single year or $20 million in any combination of years by a corporate taxpayer or a partnership with only corporate partners; (2) $2 million in any single year or $4 million in any combination of years by all other partnerships, S corporations, trusts, and individuals; or (3) $50,000 in any single year for individuals or trusts if the loss arises with respect to foreign currency translation losses. Treasury has announced its intention to add a sixth category of reportable transactions, patented transactions, but has not yet done so.

Section 6707A imposes a penalty for failure to comply with the reporting requirements of 6011. A single reportable transaction may have to be reported by multiple taxpayers in connection with multiple tax returns. For example, a reportable transaction entered into by a partnership may have to be reported under section 6011 by both the partnership and its partners. The amount of the penalty due for each taxpayer's failure to comply varies depending upon whether or not the transaction is a listed transaction and whether the relevant taxpayer is an individual. For listed transactions, the maximum penalty is $100,000 for natural persons and $200,000 for all other persons. For reportable transactions other than listed transactions, the maximum penalty is $10,000 for natural persons and $50,000 for all other persons.

A public entity that is required to pay a penalty for an undisclosed listed or reportable transaction must disclose the imposition of the penalty in reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") for such periods specified by the Secretary. Disclosure to the SEC applies without regard to whether the taxpayer determines the amount of the penalty to be material to the reports in which the penalty must appear, and any failure to disclose such penalty in the reports is treated as a failure to disclose a listed transaction. A taxpayer must disclose a penalty in reports to the SEC once the taxpayer has exhausted its administrative and judicial remedies with respect to the penalty (or if earlier, when paid). However, the taxpayer is only required to report the penalty one time. A public entity that is subject to a gross valuation misstatement penalty under section 6662(h) attributable to a non-disclosed listed transaction or non-disclosed reportable avoidance transaction may also be required to make disclosures in its SEC filings.66

For reportable transactions other than listed transactions, the Commissioner of the Internal Revenue ("Commissioner") or his delegate can rescind (or abate) the penalty only if rescinding the penalty would promote compliance with the tax laws and effective tax administration.67 The decision to rescind a penalty must be accompanied by a record describing the facts and reasons for the action and the amount rescinded. Determinations by the Commissioner regarding rescission are not subject to judicial review.68 The Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") also is required to submit an annual report to Congress summarizing the application of the disclosure penalties and providing a description of each penalty rescinded under this provision and the reasons for the rescission. The section 6707A penalty cannot be waived with respect to a listed transaction.

The section 6707A penalty is assessed in addition to any accuracy-related penalties. If the taxpayer does not adequately disclose a reportable transaction, the strengthened reasonable cause exception to the accuracy-related penalty is not available, and the taxpayer is subject to an increased penalty equal to 30 percent of the understatement.69 However, a taxpayer will be treated as having adequately disclosed a transaction for this purpose if the Commissioner has separately rescinded the separate penalty under section 6707A for failure to disclose a reportable transaction.70 The Commissioner is authorized to do this only if the failure does not relate to a listed transaction and only if rescinding the penalty would promote compliance and effective tax administration.71

The provision changes the general rule for determining the amount of the applicable penalty to achieve proportionality between the penalty and the tax savings that were the object of the transaction, retains the current penalty amounts as the maximum penalty that may be imposed, and establishes a minimum penalty.

67 In determining whether to rescind (or abate) the penalty for failing to disclose a reportable transaction on the grounds that doing so would promote compliance with the tax laws and effective tax administration, it is intended that the Commissioner take into account whether: (1) the person on whom the penalty is imposed has a history of complying with the tax laws; (2) the violation is due to an unintentional mistake of fact; and (3) imposing the penalty would be against equity and good conscience.

68 This does not limit the ability of a taxpayer to challenge whether a penalty is appropriate (e.g., a taxpayer may litigate the issue of whether a transaction is a reportable transaction (and thus subject to the penalty if not disclosed) or not a reportable transaction (and thus not subject to the penalty)).

69 Sec. 6662A(c).

70 Sec. 6664(d).

71 Sec. 6707A(d).
First, it provides a general rule that a participant in a reportable transaction who fails to disclose the reportable transaction as required under section 6011 is subject to a penalty equal to 75 percent of the reduction in tax reported on the participant's income tax return as a result of participation in the transaction, or that would result if the transaction were respected for federal tax purposes. Regardless of the amount determined under the general rule, the penalty for each such failure may not exceed certain maximum amounts. The maximum annual penalty that a taxpayer may incur for failing to disclose a particular reportable transaction other than a listed transaction is $10,000 in the case of a natural person and $50,000 for all other persons. The maximum annual penalty that a taxpayer may incur for failing to disclose a listed transaction is $100,000 in the case of a natural person and $200,000, for all other persons.

The provision also establishes a minimum penalty with respect to failure to disclose a reportable or listed transaction. That minimum penalty is $5,000 for natural persons and $10,000 for all other persons.

The following examples illustrate the operation of the maximum and minimum penalties with respect to a partnership or a corporation. First, assume that two individuals participate in a listed transaction through a partnership formed for that purpose. Both partners, as well as the partnership, are required to disclose the transaction. All fail to do so. The failure by the partnership to disclose its participation in a listed or otherwise reportable transaction is subject to the minimum penalty of $10,000, because income tax liability is not incurred at the partnership level nor reported on a partnership return. The partners in such partnership who also failed to comply with the reporting requirements of section 6011 are each subject to a penalty based on the reduction in tax reported on their respective returns.

In the second example, assume that a corporation participates in a single listed transaction over the course of three taxable years. The decrease in tax shown on the corporate returns is $1 million in the first year, $100,000 in the second year, and $10,000 in the third year. If the corporation fails to disclose the listed transaction in all three years, the corporation is subject to three separate penalties: a penalty of $200,000 in the first year (as a result of the cap on penalties), a $75,000 penalty in the second year (computed under the general rule) and a $10,000 penalty in the third year (as a result of the minimum penalty) for total penalties of $285,000.

Effective Date

The provision applies to all penalties assessed under section 6707A after December 31, 2006.
2. Temporary deduction for health insurance costs in computing self-employment income (sec. 2042 of the bill and sec. 162(l) of the Code)

Present Law

Deduction for health insurance premiums of self-employed individuals

In calculating adjusted gross income for income tax purposes, self-employed individuals may deduct the cost of health insurance for themselves and their spouses, dependents, and any children who have not attained age 27 as of the end of the taxable year. The deduction is not available for any month in which the self-employed individual is eligible to participate in an employer-subsidized health plan (maintained by the employer of the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse). Moreover, the deduction may not exceed the earned income (within the meaning of section 401(c)(2)) derived by the self-employed individual from the trade or business with respect to which the plan providing the health insurance coverage is established. The deduction applies only to the cost of insurance (i.e., it does not apply to out-of-pocket expenses that are not reimbursed by insurance).

Self-Employment Contributions Act tax

The Self-Employment Contributions Act ("SECA") imposes taxes on the net earnings from self-employment of self-employed individuals ("self-employment income"). The tax is composed of two parts: (1) the old age, survivors, and disability insurance ("OASDI") tax; and (2) the hospital insurance ("HI") tax. The rate of the OASDI portion of SECA taxes is equal to 12.4 percent of self-employment income and generally applies to self-employment income up to the Federal Insurance Contributions Act ("FICA") taxable wage base ($106,800 in 2010). The rate of the HI portion is equal to 2.9 percent of self-employment income and there is no cap on the amount of self-employment income to which the rate applies. The deduction allowable for the cost of health insurance for the self-employed individual and the individual's spouse,

74 Sec. 1401. However, under section 9015 of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (Pub. L. No. 111-148), for remuneration and self-employment income received for taxable years beginning after December 31, 2012, the HI tax under SECA is increased by an additional tax of 0.9 percent on self-employment income received in excess of a threshold amount. However, unlike the general 1.45 percent HI tax on self-employment income, this additional tax is on the combined wages and self-employment income of the self-employed individual and spouse, in the case of a joint return. The threshold amount is $250,000 in the case of a joint return or surviving spouse, $125,000 in the case of a married individual filing a separate return, and $200,000 in any other case.

75 For purposes of computing net earnings from self-employment, taxpayers are permitted a deduction equal to the product of the taxpayer's earnings (determined without regard to this deduction) and one-half of the sum of the rates for OASDI (12.4 percent) and HI (2.9 percent), i.e., 7.65 percent of net earnings. This deduction reflects the fact that the FICA rates apply to an employee's wages, which do not include FICA taxes paid by the employer, whereas the self-employed individual's net earnings are economically equivalent to an employee's wages plus the employer share of FICA taxes.
dependents, and children who have not attained age 27 as of the end of the taxable year for income taxes is not taken in account in determining an individual's net earnings from self-employment for purposes of SECA taxes. 76

Under the provision, the deduction for income tax purposes allowed to self-employed individuals for the cost of health insurance for themselves, their spouses, dependents, and children who have not attained age 27 as of the end of the taxable year is taken into account, and thus also allowed, in calculating net earnings from self-employment for purposes of SECA taxes.

It is intended that earned income within the meaning of section 401(c)(2) be computed without regard to this deduction for the cost of health insurance. 77 Thus, earned income for purposes of the limitation applicable to the health insurance deduction is computed without regard to this deduction.

The provision only applies for the taxpayer's first taxable year beginning after December 31, 2009.

Effective Date

The provision is effective taxable years beginning after December 31, 2009.

3. Remove cellular phones and similar telecommunications equipment from the definition of listed property (sec. 2043 of the bill and sec. 280F of the Code)

Present Law

Employer deduction

Property, including cellular telephones and similar telecommunications equipment (hereinafter collectively “cell phones”), used in carrying on a trade or business is subject to the general rules for deducting ordinary and necessary expenses under section 162. Under these rules, a taxpayer may properly claim depreciation deductions under the applicable cost recovery rules for only the portion of the cost of the property that is attributable to use in a trade or business. 78 Similarly, the business portion of monthly telecommunication service is generally deductible, subject to capitalization rules, as an ordinary and necessary expense of carrying on a trade or business.

77 A technical correction may be needed to achieve this result.

78 Sec. 212 allows deductions for ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred for the production or collection of income.
In the case of certain listed property, special rules apply. Listed property generally is defined as (1) any passenger automobile; (2) any other property used as a means of transportation; (3) any property of a type generally used for purposes of entertainment, recreation, or amusement; (4) any computer or peripheral equipment; (5) any cellular telephone (or other similar telecommunications equipment); and (6) any other property of a type specified in Treasury regulations.80

For listed property, no deduction is allowed unless the taxpayer adequately substantiates the expense and business usage of the property.81 A taxpayer must substantiate the elements of each expenditure or use of listed property, including (1) the amount (e.g., cost) of each separate expenditure and the amount of business or investment use, based on the appropriate measure (e.g., mileage for automobiles), and the total use of the property for the taxable period, (2) the date of the expenditure or use, and (3) the business purposes for the expenditure or use.82 The level of substantiation for business or investment use of listed property varies depending on the facts and circumstances. In general, the substantiation must contain sufficient information as to each element of every business or investment use.83

With respect to the business use of listed property made available by an employer for use by an employee, the employer must substantiate that all or a portion of the use of the listed property is by employees in the employer's trade or business.84 If any employee used the listed property for personal use, the employer must substantiate that it included an appropriate amount in the employee's income.85 An employer generally may rely on adequate records maintained and retained by the employee or on the employee's own statement if it is corroborated by other sufficient evidence, unless the employer knows or has reason to know that the statement, records, or other evidence are not accurate.86

Cost recovery

A taxpayer is allowed to recover through annual depreciation deductions the cost of certain property used in a trade or business or for the production of income. The amount of the

In Notice 2009-46, 2009-23 I.R.B. 1068, the Service requested comments regarding several proposals to simplify the procedures for employers to substantiate an employee's business use of certain employer-provide telecommunications equipment (including cellular telephones).
depreciation deduction allowed with respect to tangible property for a taxable year is determined under the modified accelerated cost recovery system (“MACRS”). Under MACRS, different types of property generally are assigned applicable recovery periods and depreciation methods. The recovery periods applicable to most tangible personal property range from three to 25 years. The depreciation methods generally applicable to tangible personal property are the 200-percent and 150-percent declining balance methods, switching to the straight-line method for the taxable year in which the taxpayer’s depreciation deduction would be maximized.

In the case of certain listed property, special depreciation rules apply. First, if for the taxable year that the property is placed in service the use of the property for trade or business purposes does not exceed 50 percent of the total use of the property, then the depreciation deduction with respect to such property is determined under the alternative depreciation system. The alternative depreciation system generally requires the use of the straight-line method and a recovery period equal to the class life of the property. Second, if an individual owns or leases listed property that is used by the individual in connection with the performance of services as an employee, no depreciation deduction, expensing allowance, or deduction for lease payments is available with respect to such use unless the use of the property is for the convenience of the employer and required as a condition of employment.

Explanation of Provision

The provision removes cell phones from the definition of listed property. Thus, under the provision, the heightened substantiation requirements and special depreciation rules that apply to listed property do not apply to cell phones.

Effective Date

The provision is effective for taxable years ending after December 31, 2009.

If for any taxable year after the year in which the property is placed in service the use of the property for trade or business purposes decreases to 50 percent or less of the total use of the property, then the amount of depreciation allowed in prior years in excess of the amount of depreciation that would have been allowed for such prior years under the alternative depreciation system is recaptured (i.e., included in gross income) for such taxable year.

II. REVENUE PROVISIONS

A. Reducing the Tax Gap

1. Information reporting for rental property expense payments (sec. 2101 of the bill and sec. 6041 of the Code)

Present Law

A variety of information reporting requirements apply under present law.\(^91\) The primary provision governing information reporting by payors requires an information return by every person engaged in a trade or business who makes payments to any one payee aggregating $600 or more in any taxable year in the course of that payor’s trade or business.\(^92\) Reportable payments include compensation for both goods and services, and may include gross proceeds. Certain enumerated types of payments that are subject to other specific reporting requirements are carved out of reporting under this general rule.\(^93\)

One such regulatory exception carved out payments to corporations,\(^94\) but was expressly overridden by the addition of new section 6041(h) by section 9006 of the Patient Protection and Affordable Health Care Act ("PPACA").\(^95\) New section 6041(h) expanded information reporting requirements to include gross proceeds paid in consideration for property and to subject payments to corporations to all of the reporting requirements under section 6041. The payor is required to provide the recipient of the payment with an annual statement showing the aggregate payments made and contact information for the payor.\(^96\) The regulations generally except from

\(^91\) Secs. 6031 through 6060.

\(^92\) Sec. 6041(a). The information return is generally submitted electronically as a Form 1096 and Form 1099, although certain payments to beneficiaries or employees may require use of Forms W-3 and W-2, respectively. Treas. Reg. sec. 1.6041-1(a)(2).

\(^93\) Sec. 6041(a) requires reporting “other than payments to which section 6042(a)(1), 6044(a)(1), 6047(c), 6049(a) or 6050N(a) applies and other than payments with respect to which a statement is required under authority of section 6042(a), 6044(a)(2) or 6045[.]” The payments thus excepted include most interest, royalties, and dividends.

\(^94\) Treas. Reg. sec. 1.6041-3(p).

\(^96\) Sec. 6041(d). Specifically, the recipient of the payment is required to provide a Form W-9 to the payor, which enables the payee to provide the recipient of the payment with an annual statement showing the aggregate payments made and contact information for the payor. If a Form W-9 is not provided, the payor is required to “backup withhold” tax at a rate of 28 percent of the gross amount of the payment unless the payee has otherwise established that the income is exempt from backup withholding. The backup withholding tax may be credited by the payee against regular income tax liability, i.e., it is effectively an advance payment of tax, similar to the withholding of tax from wages. This combination of reporting and backup withholding is designed to ensure that U.S. persons pay an appropriate amount of tax with respect to investment income, either by providing the IRS with the information that it needs to audit payment of the tax or, in the absence of such information, requiring collection of the tax on payment.
reporting payments to exempt organizations, governmental entities, international organizations, or retirement plans.\textsuperscript{97} Additionally, the requirement that businesses report certain payments is not applicable to persons engaged in a passive investment activity. Thus, a taxpayer whose rental real estate activity is a trade or business is subject to this reporting requirement, but a taxpayer whose rental real estate activity is not considered a trade or business is not subject to such requirement.

In addition, financial institutions are required to report to both taxpayers and the IRS the amount of interest taxpayers paid during the year on mortgages they held on their rental properties.\textsuperscript{98}

A person that fails to comply with the information reporting requirements is subject to penalties, which may include a penalty for failure to file the information return,\textsuperscript{99} for failure to furnish payee statements,\textsuperscript{100} or for failure to comply with other various reporting requirements.\textsuperscript{101}

\textbf{Explanation of Provision}

Under the provision, recipients of rental income from real estate generally are subject to the same information reporting requirements as taxpayers engaged in a trade or business. In particular, rental income recipients making payments of $600 or more to a service provider (such as a plumber, painter, or accountant) in the course of earning rental income are required to provide an information return (typically Form 1099-MISC) to the IRS and to the service provider. Exceptions to this reporting requirement are made for (i) members of the military or employees of the intelligence community (as defined in section 121(d)(9)) who rent their principal residence on a temporary basis, (ii) individuals who receive only minimal amounts of rental income, as determined by the Secretary in accordance with regulations, and (iii) individuals for whom the requirements would cause hardship, as determined by the Secretary in accordance with regulations.

\textbf{Effective Date}

The provision applies to payments made after December 31, 2010.

\textsuperscript{97} Treas. Reg. sec. 1.6041-3(p).

\textsuperscript{98} Sec. 6050H. This information is provided on Form 1098.

\textsuperscript{99} Sec. 6721. The penalty for the failure to file an information return generally is $50 for each return for which such failure occurs. The total penalty imposed on a person for all failures during a calendar year cannot exceed $250,000. Additionally, special rules apply to reduce the per-failure and maximum penalty where the failure is corrected within a specified period.

\textsuperscript{100} Sec. 6722. The penalty for failure to provide a correct payee statement is $50 for each statement with respect to which such failure occurs, with the total penalty for a calendar year not to exceed $100,000. Special rules apply that increase the per-statement and total penalties where there is intentional disregard of the requirement to furnish a payee statement.

\textsuperscript{101} Sec. 6723. The penalty for failure to timely comply with a specified information reporting requirement is $50 per failure, not to exceed $100,000 for a calendar year.
2. Increase in information return penalties (sec. 2102 of bill and secs. 6721 and 6722 of the Code)

Present Law

Present law imposes information reporting requirements on participants in certain transactions. Under section 6721, any person who is required to file a correct information return who fails to do so on or before the prescribed filing date is subject to a penalty that varies based on when, if at all, the correct information return is filed. If a person files a correct information return after the prescribed filing date but on or before the date that is 30 days after the prescribed filing date, the amount of the penalty is $15 per return (the “first-tier penalty”), with a maximum penalty of $75,000 per calendar year. If a person files a correct information return after the date that is 30 days after the prescribed filing date but on or before August 1, the amount of the penalty is $30 per return (the “second-tier penalty”), with a maximum penalty of $150,000 per calendar year. If a correct information return is not filed on or before August 1 of any year, the amount of the penalty is $50 per return (the “third-tier penalty”), with a maximum penalty of $250,000 per calendar year. If a failure is due to intentional disregard of a filing requirement, the minimum penalty for each failure is $100, with no calendar year limit.

Special lower maximum levels for this penalty apply to small businesses. Small businesses are defined as firms having average annual gross receipts for the most recent three taxable years that do not exceed $5 million. The maximum penalties for small businesses are: $25,000 (instead of $75,000) if the failures are corrected on or before 30 days after the prescribed filing date; $50,000 (instead of $150,000) if the failures are corrected on or before August 1; and $100,000 (instead of $250,000) if the failures are not corrected on or before August 1.

Section 6722 imposes penalties for failing to furnish correct payee statements to taxpayers. The penalty amount is $50 for each failure to furnish a payee statement, up to a maximum of $100,000. If the failure is due to intentional disregard, the amount of the penalty per failure is increased\(^{102}\) and the cap on the penalty is not applicable. In addition, section 6723 imposes a penalty of $50 for failing to comply with other information reporting requirements, up to a maximum of $100,000.

Explanation of Provision

The provision amends section 6721 to increase the first-tier penalty from $15 to $30, and increase the calendar year maximum from $75,000 to $250,000. The second-tier penalty is increased from $30 to $60, and the calendar year maximum is increased from $150,000 to $500,000. The third-tier penalty is increased from $50 to $100, and the calendar year maximum \(^{102}\) Sec. 6722(c)(1) provides that the penalty per failure is the greater of $100 or a fixed percentage of the aggregate items to be shown on the payee statements. The fixed amount is 10 percent for statements other than those required under sections 6045(b), 6041A(e), 6050H(d), 6050J(e), 6050K(b), or 6050L(c). The penalty is the greater of $100 or five percent of the amount required to be shown on statements required under sections 6045(b), 6050K(b) or 6050L(c).

is increased from $250,000 to $1,500,000. For small business filers, the calendar year maximum is increased from $25,000 to $75,000 for the first-tier penalty, from $50,000 to $200,000 for the second-tier penalty, and from $100,000 to $500,000 for the third-tier penalty. The minimum penalty for each failure due to intentional disregard is increased from $100 to $250.

The penalty for failure to furnish a payee statement is revised to provide tiers and caps similar to those applicable to the penalty for failure to file the information return. A first-tier penalty is $30, subject to a maximum of $250,000; a second-tier penalty is $60 per statement, up to $500,000, and the third-tier penalty is $100, up to a maximum of $1,500,000. The penalty is also amended to provide limitations on penalties for small businesses and increased penalties for intentional disregard that parallel the penalty for failure to furnish information returns.

Both the failure to file and failure to furnish penalties will be adjusted to account for inflation every five years with the first adjustment to take place after 2012, effective for each year thereafter.

Effective Date

The provision applies with respect to information returns required to be filed on or after January 1, 2011.

3. Annual reports on penalties and certain other enforcement actions (sec. 2103 of the bill)

Present Law

Transactions that have the potential for tax avoidance are required to be disclosed by both the taxpayers who engage in the transaction and the various professionals who provide advice with respect to such transactions. Failure to comply with the reporting and disclosure requirements may result in assessment of penalties against both the taxpayer and material advisor and the use of special enforcement measures.

Reporting obligations

These disclosure requirements create interlocking disclosure obligations for both taxpayers and advisors. A taxpayer is required to disclose with its tax return certain information with respect to each “reportable transaction,” as defined in regulations. Each advisor who provides material advice with respect to any reportable transaction (including any listed transaction) is required to file an information return with the Secretary (in such form and manner as the Secretary may prescribe). Finally, the advisor is required to maintain a list of those 103 Secs. 6011, 6111 and 6112.

105 Sec. 6111.
persons he has advised with respect to a reportable transaction and to provide the list to the IRS upon request.

A reportable transaction is defined as one that the Secretary requires to be disclosed based on its potential for tax avoidance or evasion. There are five categories of reportable transactions: listed transactions, confidential transactions, transactions with contractual protection, certain loss transactions and transactions of interest.

Penalties and other enforcement tools related to reportable transactions

Each of the disclosure statutes has a parallel penalty provision to aid enforcement. The taxpayer who participates in a reportable transaction and fails to disclose it is subject to a strict liability penalty. The penalty is assessed in addition to any accuracy-related penalties. It may be rescinded with respect to reportable transactions other than listed transactions. Rescission is discretionary and conditioned upon a determination by the Commissioner that rescinding the penalty would promote compliance and effective tax administration. The Code also imposes a penalty on any material advisor who fails to file an information return, or who files a false or incomplete information return, with respect to a reportable transaction (including a listed transaction). It may be rescinded, subject to limitations similar to those applicable to rescission of the penalty imposed on investors. The IRS may also submit a written request that a

107 Sec. 6707A(c)(1) states that the term means "any transaction with respect to which information is required to be included with a return or statement because, as determined under regulations prescribed under section 6011, such transaction is of a type which the Secretary determines as having a potential for tax avoidance or evasion." Sections 6111(b)(2) and 6112 both define "reportable transaction" by reference to the definition in section 6707A(c). The definition of "listed transaction" similarly depends upon identification of transactions by the Secretary as tax avoidance transactions for purposes of section 6011.

109 Section 6707A imposes a penalty for failure to comply with the reporting requirements of section 6011. A single reportable transaction may have to be reported by multiple taxpayers in connection with multiple tax returns. For example, a reportable transaction entered into by a partnership may have to be reported under section 6011 by both the partnership and its partners. The amount of the penalty due for each taxpayer's failure to comply varies depending upon whether or not the transaction is a listed transaction and whether the relevant taxpayer is an individual. For listed transactions, the maximum penalty is $100,000 for natural persons and $200,000 for all other persons. For reportable transactions other than listed transactions, the maximum penalty is $10,000 for natural persons and $50,000 for all other persons. A public entity that is required to pay a penalty for an undisclosed listed or reportable transaction must disclose the imposition of the penalty in reports to the SEC for such periods specified by the Secretary. Failure to comply with this reporting requirement may result in assessment of a second tier penalty.

110 Sec. 6707A(d). In determining whether to rescind (or abate) the penalty for failing to disclose a reportable transaction on the grounds that doing so would promote compliance with the tax laws and effective tax administration, it is intended that the Commissioner take into account whether: (1) the person on whom the penalty is imposed has a history of complying with the tax laws; (2) the violation is due to an unintentional mistake of fact; and (3) imposing the penalty would be against equity and good conscience.

111 Section 6707 provides a penalty in the amount of $50,000. If the penalty is with respect to a listed transaction, the amount of the penalty is increased to the greater of (1) $200,000, or (2) 50 percent of the gross material advisor make available the list required to be maintained under section 6612(a). A failure to make the list available upon written request is subject to a penalty of $10,000 per day for as long as the failure continues, unless the advisor can establish reasonable cause for the failure.\footnote{Sec. 6708.}

In addition to the penalties that specifically address the failure to comply with the disclosure and reporting obligations, other special enforcement provisions are applicable to reportable transactions. An understatement arising from any listed transactions or from a reportable transaction for which a significant purpose is avoidance or evasion of Federal income tax will be subject to an accuracy-related penalty,\footnote{Sec. 6662A.} unless the taxpayer can establish that the failure was due to reasonable cause as determined under a standard that is more stringent than that applicable to other accuracy-related penalties.\footnote{Sec. 6664(d).}

If the taxpayer does not adequately disclose a reportable transaction, the strengthened reasonable cause exception is not available and the taxpayer is subject to an increased penalty equal to 30 percent of the understatement.\footnote{Sec. 6662A(c).} However, a taxpayer will be treated as having adequately disclosed a transaction for this purpose if the Commissioner has separately rescinded the separate penalty under section 6707A for failure to disclose a reportable transaction.\footnote{Sec. 6664(d).} Finally, a new exception to the statute of limitations provides that the period is suspended if a listed transaction is not properly disclosed.\footnote{Sec. 6501(c)(10).} If the transaction is disclosed either because the taxpayer files the proper disclosure form or a material advisor identifies the transaction to the IRS in a list maintained under section 6112, the period will remain open for at least one year from the earlier date of the disclosure by the investor or the disclosure by the material advisor with respect to that transaction.

The Code authorizes civil actions to enjoin any person from specified conduct relating to tax shelters or reportable transactions.\footnote{Sec. 7408.} The specified conduct includes failure to comply with respect to the requirements relating to the reporting of reportable transactions\footnote{Sec. 6707.} and the keeping

Thus, an injunction may be sought against a material advisor to enjoin the advisor from (1) failing to file an information return with respect to a reportable transaction, or (2) failing to maintain, or to timely furnish upon written request by the Secretary, a list of investors with respect to each reportable transaction. In addition, injunctions, monetary penalties and suspension or disbarment are authorized with respect to violations of any of the rules under Circular 230, which regulates the practice of representatives of persons before the Department of the Treasury.

Reports to Congress by the Secretary

The Secretary is required to maintain records and report on the administration of the penalties for failure to disclose a reportable transaction in two ways. First, each decision to rescind a penalty imposed under section 6707 or section 6707A must be memorialized in a record maintained in the Officer of the Commissioner. That record must include a description of the facts and circumstances of the violation, the reasons for the decision to rescind, and the amount rescinded. Second, the IRS is required to submit an annual report to Congress on the administration of the rescission authority under both sections 6707 and 6707A. The information with respect to the latter is to be in summary form, while the information on rescission of penalties imposed against material advisors is to be more detailed. The report is not required to address administration of the other enforcement tools described above.

Explanation of Provision

The provision requires that the IRS, in consultation with the Secretary, submit an annual report on administration of certain penalty provisions of the Code to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate. A summary of penalties assessed the preceding year is required. In addition, the Secretary must report actions taken against practitioners appearing before the Treasury or IRS with respect to a reportable transaction and instances in which the IRS attempted to rely on the exception to the limitations period for assessment based on failure to disclose a listed transaction. The penalties that are subject to this reporting requirement are those assessed in the preceding year with respect to (1) a participant's failure to disclose a reportable transaction,125 (2) reportable transaction understatements,126 (3) promotion of abusive shelters,127 (4) failure of a material advisor to furnish information on a reportable transaction,128 and (5) material advisors' failure to maintain or produce a list of reportable transactions.129

Effective Date

The first annual report is required to be submitted not later than December 31, 2010.

4. Application of continuous levy to employment tax liability of certain Federal contractors
   (sec. 2104 of the bill and sec. 6330 of the Code)

Present Law

In general

Levy is the IRS’s administrative authority to seize a taxpayer’s property or rights to property to pay the taxpayer’s tax liability.130 Generally, the IRS is entitled to seize a taxpayer’s property by levy if a Federal tax lien has attached to such property,131 and the IRS has provided both notice of intention to levy132 and notice of the right to an administrative hearing (referred to as a collections due process notice or “CDP” notice)133 at least thirty days before the levy is made. A Federal tax lien arises automatically when: (1) a tax assessment has been made; (2) the taxpayer has been given notice of the assessment stating the amount and demanding payment; and (3) the taxpayer has failed to pay the amount assessed within 10 days after the notice and demand.134

The 30-day pre-levy notice requirements, the taxpayer’s rights before, during, and following the CDP hearing, and the Federal payment levy program are discussed below.

132 Sec. 6331(d).
133 Sec. 6330. The administrative hearing is referred to as the CDP hearing.
134 Secs. 6321 and 6331(a).
Pre-levy notice requirements

The notice of intent to levy and the CDP notice must include a brief statement describing the following: (1) the statutory provisions and procedures for levy; (2) the administrative appeals available to the taxpayer; (3) the alternatives available to avoid levy; and (4) the provisions and procedures regarding redemption of levied property. In addition, the collection due process notice must include the following: (1) the amount of the unpaid tax; and (2) the right to request a hearing during the 30-day period before the IRS serves the levy.

Upon receipt of this information, the taxpayer may stay the levy action by requesting in writing a hearing before the IRS Appeals Office. Otherwise, the IRS will levy to collect the amount owed after expiration of 30 days from the notice.

The notice of intent to levy is not required if the Secretary finds that collection would be jeopardized by delay. The standard for determining whether jeopardy exists is similar to the standard applicable in permitting the IRS to assess a tax without following the normal deficiency procedures.

The CDP notice (and pre-levy CDP hearing) is not required if the Secretary finds that collection would be jeopardized by delay or the Secretary has served a levy on a State to collect a Federal tax liability from a State tax refund. In addition, a levy issued to collect Federal employment taxes is excepted from the CDP notice and the pre-levy CDP hearing requirement if the taxpayer subject to the levy requested a CDP hearing with respect to unpaid employment taxes arising in the two-year period before the beginning of the taxable period with respect to which the employment tax levy is served. The taxpayer, however, in each of these three cases, is provided an opportunity for a hearing within a reasonable period of time after the levy.

CDP hearing

At the CDP hearing, the taxpayer may present defenses to collection as well as arguments disputing the merits of the underlying tax debt if the taxpayer had no prior opportunity to present such arguments. In addition, the taxpayer is required to be provided the opportunity to negotiate an alternative form of payment, such as an offer-in-compromise, under which the IRS would accept less than the full amount, or an installment agreement under which payments in satisfaction of the debt may be made over time rather than in one lump sum, or some combination of such measures.\textsuperscript{140} If a taxpayer exercises any of these rights in response to the notice of intent to levy, the IRS may not proceed with its levy.

After the CDP hearing, a taxpayer also has a right to seek, within 30 days, judicial review in the U.S. Tax Court of the determination of the CDP hearing to ascertain whether the IRS abused its discretion in reaching its determination.\textsuperscript{141} During this time period, the IRS may not proceed with its levy.

Federal payment levy program

To help the IRS collect taxes more effectively, the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997\textsuperscript{142} authorized the establishment of the Federal Payment Levy Program ("FPLP"), which allows the IRS to continuously levy up to 15 percent of certain “specified payments,” such as government payments to Federal contractors that are delinquent on their tax obligations. The levy generally continues in effect until the liability is paid or the IRS releases the levy.\textsuperscript{143}

Under FPLP, the IRS matches its accounts receivable records with Federal payment records maintained by the Department of the Treasury’s Financial Management Service ("FMS"), such as certain Social Security benefit and Federal wage records. When the records match, the delinquent taxpayer is provided both notice of intention to levy and notice of the right to the CDP hearing 30 days before the levy is made. If the taxpayer does not respond after 30 days, the IRS can instruct FMS to levy its Federal payments. Subsequent payments are continuously levied until the tax debt is paid or IRS releases the levy.

Upon receipt of this information, however, the taxpayer may stay the levy action by requesting in writing a hearing before the IRS Appeals Office. Following the CDP hearing, a taxpayer has a right to seek, within 30 days, judicial review in the U.S. Tax Court of the determination of the CDP hearing to ascertain whether the IRS abused its discretion in reaching its determination. During this time period, the IRS may not proceed with its levy.

Explanation of Provision

The provision allows the IRS to issue levies prior to a CDP hearing with respect to Federal tax liabilities of Federal contractors identified under the Federal Payment Levy Program. When a levy is issued prior to a CDP hearing under this proposal, the taxpayer has an opportunity for a CDP hearing within a reasonable time after the levy.

B. Promoting Retirement Preparation

1. Allow participants in government section 457 plans to treat elective deferrals as Roth contributions (sec. 2111 of the bill and sec. 402A of the Code)

Present Law

Section 401(k) plans and section 403(b) plans are permitted to have qualified Roth contribution programs under which participants may elect to make non-excludable contributions to “designated Roth accounts” and, if certain conditions are met, to exclude from gross income distributions from these accounts.

A qualified Roth contribution program is a program under which a participant may elect to make designated Roth contributions in lieu of all or a portion of the elective deferrals that he or she otherwise would be eligible to make under the applicable retirement plan. To qualify as a qualified Roth contribution program a plan must: (1) establish a separate designated Roth account for the designated Roth contributions of each participant (and for the earnings allocable to these contributions); (2) maintain separate records for each account; and (3) refrain from allocating to the designated Roth account amounts from non-designated Roth accounts.

Generally, if an “applicable retirement plan” includes a qualified Roth contribution program then any contribution that a participant makes under the program is treated as an “elective deferral,” but is not excludable from gross income.\(^{144}\) For purposes of the qualified Roth contribution program rules, the term “applicable retirement plan” means: (1) an employee trust described in section 401(a) which is tax-exempt under section 501(a)\(^ {145}\) and (2) a plan under which amounts are contributed by an individual’s employer for a section 403(b) annuity contract.\(^ {146}\) An “elective deferral” is any deferral described in: (1) section 402(g)(3)(A) (employer contributions to section 401(k) plans not includible in employee’s gross income); or (2) section 402(g)(3)(C) (employer contributions to purchase an annuity contract under a section 403(b) salary reduction agreement).

Explanation of Provision

The provision amends the definition of “applicable retirement plan” to include eligible deferred compensation plans (as defined under section 457(b)) maintained by a State, a political subdivision of a State, an agency or instrumentality of a State, or an agency or instrumentality of a political subdivision of a State (collectively, “governmental 457(b) plans”). The provision also amends the definition of “elective deferral” in section 402A to include amounts deferred under governmental 457(b) plan.

Present law

Individual retirement arrangements

General rules

There are two basic types of individual retirement arrangements ("IRAs") under present law: traditional IRAs,\textsuperscript{147} to which both deductible and nondeductible contributions may be made,\textsuperscript{148} and Roth IRAs, to which only nondeductible contributions may be made.\textsuperscript{149} The principal difference between these two types of IRAs is the timing of income tax inclusion. For a traditional IRA, an eligible contributor may deduct the contributions made for the year, but distributions are includible in gross income. For a Roth IRA, all contributions are after-tax (no deduction is allowed) but, if certain requirements are satisfied, distributions are not includable in gross income.

An annual limit applies to contributions to IRAs. The contribution limit is coordinated so that the aggregate maximum amount that can be contributed to all of an individual’s IRAs (both traditional and Roth IRAs) for a taxable year is the lesser of a certain dollar amount ($5,000 for 2010)\textsuperscript{150} or the individual’s compensation. In the case of a married couple, contributions can be made up to the dollar limit for each spouse if the combined compensation of the spouses is at least equal to the contributed amount.

An individual who has attained age 50 before the end of the taxable year may also make catch-up contributions to an IRA. For this purpose, the aggregate dollar limit is increased by $1,000. Thus for example, if an individual over age 50 contributes $6,000 to a Roth IRA for 2010 ($5,000 plus $1,000 catch-up), the individual will not be permitted to make any contributions to a traditional IRA for the year. In addition, deductible contributions to traditional IRAs and after tax contributions to Roth IRAs generally are subject to AGI limits. IRA contributions generally must be made in cash.

\textsuperscript{148} Sec. 219.
\textsuperscript{149} Sec. 408A.
\textsuperscript{150} The dollar limit is indexed for inflation.
Roth IRAs

Individuals with adjusted gross income below certain levels may make nondeductible contributions to a Roth IRA. The maximum annual contribution that can be made to a Roth IRA is phased out for taxpayers with adjusted gross income for the taxable year over certain indexed levels. The adjusted gross income phase-out ranges for 2010 are: (1) for single taxpayers, $109,000 to $124,000; (2) for married taxpayers filing joint returns, $167,000 to $177,000; and (3) for married taxpayers filing separate returns, $0 to $10,000. Contributions to a Roth IRA may be made even after the account owner has attained age 70-½.

Taxpayers generally may convert a traditional IRA into a Roth IRA. A conversion may be accomplished by means of a rollover, trustee-to-trustee transfer, or account redesignation. Regardless of the means used to convert, any amount converted from a traditional IRA to a Roth IRA is treated as distributed from the traditional IRA and rolled over to the Roth IRA. The amount converted is includible in income as if a withdrawal had been made, except that the 10-percent early withdrawal tax does not apply.

Amounts held in a Roth IRA that are withdrawn as a qualified distribution are not includible in income, or subject to the additional 10-percent tax on early withdrawals. A qualified distribution is a distribution that (1) is made after the five-taxable year period beginning with the first taxable year for which the individual made a contribution to a Roth IRA, and (2) is made after attainment of age 59-½, on account of death or disability, or is made for first-time homebuyer expenses of up to $10,000.

Distributions from a Roth IRA that are not qualified distributions are includible in income to the extent attributable to earnings. Under special ordering rules, after-tax contributions are recovered before income. The amount includible in income is also subject to the 10-percent early withdrawal tax unless an exception applies. The same exceptions to the early withdrawal tax that apply to traditional IRAs apply to Roth IRAs.

Cash or deferred arrangements

Section 401(k) plans and section 403(b) plans

A qualified retirement plan that is a profit-sharing plan may allow an employee to make an election between cash and an employer contribution to the plan pursuant to a qualified cash or deferred arrangement. A plan with this feature is generally referred to as a section 401(k)

---

151 For taxable years beginning before January 1, 2010, such a conversion is not permitted to be made by a taxpayer whose modified adjusted gross income for the year of the distribution exceeds $100,000 (or who, if married, does not file jointly). For taxable years beginning before January 1, 2010, a rollover from an eligible employer plan not made from a designated Roth account is available only to a taxpayer whose modified adjusted gross income for the year of the distribution does not exceed $100,000 (and who, if married, files jointly).

152 Sec. 408A(d)(4).

153 Qualified retirement plans include plans qualified under section 401(a) and section 403(a) annuity plans.
A section 403(b) plan may allow a similar salary reduction agreement under which an employee may make an election between cash and an employer contribution to the plan.\footnote{Section 403(b) plans may be maintained only by (1) tax-exempt charitable organizations, and (2) educational institutions of State or local governments (including public schools). Many of the rules that apply to section 403(b) plans are similar to the rules applicable to qualified retirement plans, including section 401(k) plans.} Amounts contributed pursuant to these qualified cash or deferred arrangements and salary reduction agreements generally are referred to as elective contributions and generally are excludable from gross income. There is a dollar limit on the aggregate amount of elective contributions that an employee is permitted to contribute to either of these plans for a taxable year which is $16,500 for 2010. There is an additional catch up amount that employees over age 50 are allowed to contribute which is $5,500 for 2010.

Elective contributions under a section 401(k) plan are subject to distribution restrictions under the plan. Such contributions generally may only be distributed after attainment of age 59-\(\frac{1}{2}\), death of the employee, termination of the plan, or severance from employment with the employer maintaining the plan. These contributions are also permitted to be distributed on account of hardship. These limitations also apply to certain other contributions to the plan except that such distributions cannot be distributed on account of hardship. Similar distribution restrictions apply to salary reduction contributions under section 403(b) plans.

Amounts under a profit sharing plan that are not subject to these specific distribution restrictions are distributable only as permitted under the plan terms. In order to meet the definition of profit-sharing plan, the plan may allow distribution of an amount contributed to a profit sharing plan after a fixed number of years (but not less than two).\footnote{Rev. Rul. 71-295, 1971, CB 184 and Treas. Reg. sec. 1.401(b)(1)(ii).}

Designated Roth accounts

A qualified retirement plan or a section 403(b) plan with a cash or deferred arrangement can include a Designated Roth program under which an employee is permitted to designate any elective contribution as a designated Roth contribution in lieu of making a pre-tax elective contribution. Although such a plan is permitted to offer only the opportunity to make pre-tax elective contributions, a plan that allows designated Roth contributions must offer a choice of both pre-tax elective contributions and designated Roth contributions.\footnote{Treas. Reg. sec.1.401(k)-1(f)(1)(i).} The designated contributions are generally treated the same under the plan as pre-tax elective contributions (e.g. the nondiscrimination requirements and contribution limits) except a designated Roth contribution is not excluded from gross income.

All designated Roth contributions made under the plan must be maintained in a separate account (a designated Roth account). Any distribution from a designated Roth account (other than a qualified distribution) is taxable under section 402 by treating the designated Roth account as a separate contract for purpose of section 72. The distribution is included in the distributee’s gross income to the extent allocable to income under the contract and excluded from gross income.
income to the extent allocable to investment in the contract (commonly referred to as basis), taking into account only the designated Roth contributions as basis. The special basis-first recovery rule for Roth IRAs does not apply to distributions from designated Roth accounts.

A qualified distribution from a designated Roth account is excludable from gross income. A qualified distribution is a distribution that is made after completion of a specified 5-year period and the satisfaction of one of three other requirements. The three other requirements are the same as the other requirements for a qualified distribution from a Roth account except that the first-time home buyer provision does not apply.

Eligible rollover distributions from designated Roth accounts may only be rolled over tax free to another designated Roth account or a Roth IRA.

Rollovers from eligible retirement plans

An eligible rollover distribution from an eligible employer plan that is not from a designated Roth account may be rolled over to an eligible retirement plan that is not a Roth IRA or a designated Roth account. An eligible employer plan is a qualified retirement plan, a section 403(b) plan; and a “governmental section 457(b) plan.” In such a case, the distribution generally is not currently includible in the distributee’s gross income. An eligible retirement plan means an individual retirement plan or an eligible employer plan. An eligible rollover distribution is any distribution from an eligible employer plan with certain exceptions. Distributions that are not eligible rollover distributions generally are certain periodic payments, any distribution to the extent the distribution is a minimum required distribution, and any distribution made on account of hardship of the employee. Only an employee or a surviving spouse of an employee is allowed to rollover an eligible rollover distribution from an eligible employer plan to another eligible employer plan.

Distributions from an eligible employer plan are also permitted to be rolled over into a Roth IRA, subject to the present law rules that apply to conversions from a traditional IRA into a Roth IRA. Thus, a rollover from an eligible employer plan into a Roth IRA is includible in gross income (except to the extent it represents a return of after-tax contributions), and the 10-percent early distribution tax does not apply. In the case of a distribution and rollover of 157 A governmental section 457(b) plan is an eligible section 457(b) plan maintained by a governmental employer described in section 457(e)(1)(A).

158 Sec. 402(c)(4).

159 Section 402(c)(10) allows nonspouse beneficiaries to make a direct rollover to an IRA but not another eligible employer plan.

160 For taxable years beginning before January 1, 2010, a rollover from an eligible employer plan not made from a designated Roth account is available only to a taxpayer whose modified adjusted gross income for the year of the distribution does not exceed $100,000 (and who, if married, files jointly).

161 Prior to enactment of section 824 of the Pension Protection Act of 2006, Public Law 109-280 (120 Stat. 780) (PPA ’06), an eligible rollover distribution from an eligible employer plan not made from a designated Roth account could be rolled over to a non-Roth IRA and then converted to a Roth IRA, but could not be rolled over to a property, the amount of the distribution for purposes of determining the amount includable in gross income is generally the fair market value of the property on the date of the distribution.162
The special rules relating to net unrealized appreciation and certain optional methods for calculating tax available to participants born on or before January 1, 1936 are not applicable.163
A special recapture rule relating to the 10-percent additional tax on early distributions applies for distributions made from a Roth IRA within a specified five-year period after a rollover.164

Special rule for 2010 conversions or rollovers

In the case of a rollover from a tax-qualified retirement plan (other than a designated Roth account) into a Roth IRA, unless the taxpayer elects to include the distribution in income in 2010, any amount otherwise required to be included in gross income for the 2010 taxable year is not included in that taxable year but is instead included in gross income in equal amounts for the 2011 and 2012 taxable years. The same rule applies to a conversion of a traditional IRA into a Roth IRA in 2010. However, in both cases, the special recapture rule relating to the 10-percent additional tax on early distributions applies for distributions made from a Roth IRA within a specified five-year period after a rollover.

Explanation of Provision

Under the provision, if a section 401(k) plan, section 403(b) plan, or governmental section 457(b) plan165 has a qualified designated Roth contribution program, a distribution to an employee (or a surviving spouse) from an account under the plan that is not a designated Roth account is permitted to be rolled over into a designated Roth account under the plan for the individual. However, a plan that does not otherwise have a designated Roth program is not permitted to establish designated Roth accounts solely to accept these rollover contributions.
Thus, for example, a qualified employer plan that does not include a qualified cash or deferred arrangement with a designated Roth program cannot allow rollover contributions from accounts that are not designated Roth accounts to designated Roth accounts established solely for purposes of accepting these rollover contributions. Further, the distribution to be rolled over must be otherwise allowed under the plan. For example, an amount under a section 401(k) plan subject to distribution restrictions cannot be rolled over to a designated Roth account under this provision. However, if an employer decides to expand its distribution options beyond those currently allowed under its plan, such as by adding in-service distributions or distributions prior to normal retirement age, in order to allow employees to make the rollover contributions permitted under this provision, the plan may condition eligibility for such a new distribution

165 The bill includes a provision which adds governmental section 457(b) plans to the plans that are permitted to include a designated Roth program. See explanation of section 211 of the bill.
option on an employee’s election to have the distribution directly rolled over to the designated Roth program within that plan.

In the case of a permitted rollover contribution to a designated Roth account under this provision, the individual must include the distribution in gross income (subject to basis recovery) in the same manner as if the distribution were rolled over into a Roth IRA. Thus the special rule for distributions from eligible retirement plans (other than from designated Roth accounts) that are contributed to a Roth IRA in 2010 applies for these rollover contributions to a designated Roth account. Under this special rule, the taxpayer is allowed to include the amount in income in equal parts in 2011 and 2012. The special recapture rule for the 10-percent early distribution tax also applies if distributions are made from the designated Roth account in the relevant five year period.

This rollover contribution may be accomplished at the election of the employee (or surviving spouse) through a direct rollover (operationally through a transfer of assets from the account that is not a designated Roth account to the designated Roth account). However, such a direct rollover is only permitted if the employee (or surviving spouse) is eligible for a distribution in that amount and in that form (if property is transferred) and the distribution is an eligible rollover distribution. If the direct rollover is accomplished by a transfer of property to the designated Roth account (rather than cash), the amount of the distribution is the fair market value of the property on the date of the transfer.

A plan that includes a designated Roth program is permitted but not required to allow employees (and surviving spouses) to make the rollover contribution described in this provision to a designated Roth account. If a plan allows these rollover contributions to a designated Roth account, the plan must be amended to reflect this plan feature. It is intended that the IRS will provide employers with a remedial amendment period that allows the employers to offer this option to employees (and surviving spouses) for distributions during 2010 and then have sufficient time to amend the plan to reflect this feature.166

The provision is effective for distributions made after the date of enactment.

3. Permit partial annuitization of a nonqualified annuity contract (sec. 2113 of the bill and sec. 72 of the Code)

Present Law

Treatment of annuity contracts

In general, earnings and gains on a deferred annuity contract are not subject to tax during the deferral period in the hands of the holder of the contract.\(^{167}\) When payout commences under a deferred annuity contract, the tax treatment of amounts distributed depends on whether the amount is received as an annuity (generally, as periodic payments under contract terms) or not.\(^{168}\)

For amounts received as an annuity by an individual, an exclusion ratio is provided for determining the taxable portion of each payment.\(^{169}\) The portion of each payment that is attributable to recovery of the taxpayer's investment in the contract is not taxed. The taxable portion of each payment is ordinary income. The exclusion ratio is the ratio of the taxpayer's investment in the contract to the expected return under the contract, that is, the total of the payments expected to be received under the contract. The ratio is determined as of the taxpayer's annuity starting date. Once the taxpayer has recovered his or her investment in the contract, all further payments are included in income. If the taxpayer dies before the full investment in the contract is recovered, a deduction is allowed on the final return for the remaining investment in the contract. Section 72 uses the term "investment in the contract" in lieu of the more generally applicable term "basis."

Amounts not received as an annuity generally are included as ordinary income if received on or after the annuity starting date, and are included in income to the extent allocable to income on the contract if received before the annuity starting date (i.e., as income first).\(^{170}\)

Specific rules for recovering the investment in the contract for amounts received as an annuity are provided for plans qualified under section 401(a), plans described in section 403(a),

\(^{167}\) If an annuity contract is held by a corporation or by any other person that is not a natural person, the income on the contract is treated as ordinary income accrued by the contract owner and is subject to current taxation. The contract is not treated as an annuity contract (sec. 72(u)).

\(^{168}\) Sec. 72.

\(^{169}\) Sec. 72(b).

\(^{170}\) Sec. 72(e). By contrast to distributions under an annuity contract, distributions from a life insurance contract (other than a modified endowment contract) that are made prior to the death of the insured generally are includible in income, to the extent that the amounts distributed exceed the taxpayer's basis in the contract; such distributions generally are treated first as a tax-free recovery of basis, and then as income (sec. 72(e)). In the case of a modified endowment contract, however, in general, distributions are treated as income first, loans are treated as distributions (i.e., income rather than basis recovery first), and an additional 10 percent tax is imposed on the income portion of distributions made before age 59-1/2 and in certain other circumstances (secs. 72(e) and (v)). A modified endowment contract is a life insurance contract that does not meet a statutory "7-pay" test, i.e., generally is funded more rapidly than seven annual level premiums (sec. 7702A).
and section 403(b) tax-deferred annuities. In addition, specific rules apply to amounts not received as an annuity under these plans and individual retirement plans.

Tax-free exchanges of annuity contracts

Present law provides for the exchange of certain insurance contracts without recognition of gain or loss. No gain or loss is recognized on the exchange of: (1) a life insurance contract for another life insurance contract or for an endowment or annuity contract or for a qualified long-term care insurance contract; or (2) an endowment contract for another endowment contract (that provides for regular payments beginning no later than under the exchanged contract) or for an annuity contract or for a qualified long-term care insurance contract; (3) an annuity contract for an annuity contract or for a qualified long-term care insurance contract; or (4) a qualified long-term care insurance contract for a qualified long-term care insurance contract. The basis of the contract received in the exchange generally is the same as the basis of the contract exchanged.

In interpreting section 1035, case law holds that an exchange of a portion of an annuity contract for another annuity contract qualifies as a tax-free exchange. Treasury guidance provides rules for determining whether a direct transfer of a portion of the cash surrender value of an annuity contract for a second annuity contract qualifies as a section 1035 tax-free exchange. Under the Treasury guidance, either the annuity contract received, or the contract partially exchanged, in the tax-free exchange may be annuitized without jeopardizing the tax-free exchange (or amounts withdrawn from it or received in surrender of it) after the period ending 12 months from the receipt of the premium in the exchange.

Explanation of Provision

The provision permits a portion of an annuity, endowment, or life insurance contract to be annuitized while the balance is not annuitized, provided that the annuitization period is for 10 years or more, or is for the lives of one or more individuals.

171 Sec. 72(d).

172 Sec. 72(e)(8).

173 Sec. 1035.

174 Sec. 1031(d).

176 Rev. Proc. 2008-24, 2008-13 I.R.B. 684. The Rev. Proc. further provides that a transfer does not, however, qualify as a tax-free exchange if the payment is a distribution that is part of a series of substantially equal periodic payments, or if the payment is a distribution under an intermediate annuity. The Treasury guidance further provides that if a direct transfer of a portion of an annuity contract for a second annuity contract does not qualify as a tax-free exchange under section 1035, it is treated as a taxable distribution followed by a payment for the second contract.
The provision provides that if any amount is received as an annuity for a period of 10 years or more, or for the lives of one or more individuals, under any portion of an annuity, endowment, or life insurance contract, then that portion of the contract is treated as a separate contract for purposes of section 72.

The investment in the contract is allocated on a pro rata basis between each portion of the contract from which amounts are received as an annuity and the portion of the contract from which amounts are not received as an annuity. This allocation is made for purposes of applying the rules relating to the exclusion ratio, the determination of the investment in the contract, the expected return, the annuity starting date, and amounts not received as an annuity.\textsuperscript{177} A separate annuity starting date is determined with respect to each portion of the contract from which amounts are received as an annuity.

The provision is not intended to change the present-law rules with respect either to amounts received as an annuity, or to amounts not received as an annuity, in the case of plans qualified under section 401(a), plans described in section 403(a), section 403(b) tax-deferred annuities, or individual retirement plans.

Effective Date

The provision is effective for amounts received in taxable years beginning after December 31, 2010.

C. Closing Unintended Loopholes

1. Make crude tall oil ineligible for the cellulosic biofuel producer credit (sec. 2121 of the bill and sec. 40 of the Code)

Present Law

The “cellulosic biofuel producer credit” is a nonrefundable income tax credit for each gallon of qualified cellulosic biofuel production of the producer for the taxable year. The amount of the credit is generally $1.01 per gallon.\(^ {178}\)

“Qualified cellulosic biofuel production” is any cellulosic biofuel which is produced by the taxpayer and which is: (1) sold by the taxpayer to another person (a) for use by such other person in the production of a qualified cellulosic biofuel mixture in such person’s trade or business (other than casual off-farm production), (b) for use by such other person as a fuel in a trade or business, or (c) who sells such cellulosic biofuel at retail to another person and places such cellulosic biofuel in the fuel tank of such other person; or (2) used by the producer for any purpose described in (1)(a), (b), or (c).

“Cellulosic biofuel” means any liquid fuel that (1) is produced in the United States and used as fuel in the United States, (2) is derived from any lignocellulosic or hemicellulosic matter that is available on a renewable or recurring basis, and (3) meets the registration requirements for fuels and fuel additives established by the Environmental Protection Agency (“EPA”) under section 211 of the Clean Air Act. The cellulosic biofuel producer credit cannot be claimed unless the taxpayer is registered by the IRS as a producer of cellulosic biofuel.

Cellulosic biofuel does not include certain unprocessed fuel. Unprocessed fuels are fuels which (1) are more than four percent (determined by weight) water and sediment in any combination, or (2) have an ash content of more than one percent (determined by weight).\(^ {179}\) Cellulosic biofuel eligible for the section 40 credit is precluded from qualifying as biodiesel, renewable diesel, or alternative fuel for purposes of the applicable income tax credit, excise tax credit, or payment provisions relating to those fuels.\(^ {180}\)

Because it is a credit under section 40(a), the cellulosic biofuel producer credit is part of the general business credits in section 38. However, unlike other general business credits, the \(^ {178}\) In the case of cellulosic biofuel that is alcohol, the $1.01 credit amount is reduced by the credit amount of the alcohol mixture credit, and for ethanol, the credit amount for small ethanol producers, as in effect at the time the cellulosic biofuel fuel is produced.

\(^ {179}\) Water content (including both free water and water in solution with dissolved solids) is determined by distillation, using for example ASTM method D95 or a similar method suitable to the specific fuel being tested. Sediment consists of solid particles that are dispersed in the liquid fuel and is determined by centrifuge or extraction using, for example, ASTM method D1796 or D473 or similar method that reports sediment content in weight percent. Ash is the residue remaining after combustion of the sample using a specified method, such as ASTM D3174 or a similar method suitable for the fuel being tested.

\(^ {180}\) See sections 40A(d)(1), 40A(f)(3), and 6426(h).
cellulosic biofuel producer credit can only be carried forward three taxable years after the termination of the credit. The credit is also allowable against the alternative minimum tax. Under section 87, the credit is included in gross income. The cellulosic biofuel producer credit terminates on December 31, 2012.

The kraft process for making paper produces a byproduct called black liquor, which has been used for decades by paper manufacturers as a fuel in the papermaking process. Black liquor is composed of water, lignin and the spent chemicals used to break down the wood. The amount of the biomass in black liquor varies. The portion of the black liquor that is not consumed as a fuel source for the paper mills is recycled back into the papermaking process. Black liquor has ash content (mineral and other inorganic matter) significantly above that of other fuels.

Crude tall oil is generated by reacting acid with black liquor soap. Crude tall oil is used in various applications, such as adhesives, resins and inks. It also can be burned and used as a fuel.

Explanation of Provision

The provision modifies the cellulosic biofuel producer credit to exclude from the definition of cellulosic biofuel fuels with an acid number of greater than 25. The acid number is the amount of base required to neutralize the acid in the sample. The acid number is reported as weight of the base (typically potassium hydroxide) per weight of sample, or milligram (“mg”) potassium hydroxide per gram. The normal acid number for crude tall oil is between 100 and 175. As a comparison, ASTM D6751 for biodiesel specifies that the acid number be less than 0.5mg potassium hydroxide. ASTM D4806 for ethanol does not have acid value but instead limits “acidity” to 0.007 mg of acetic acid per liter, which is significantly below an acid number of 25.

Effective Date

The provision is effective for fuels sold or used on or after January 1, 2010.

2. Source rules for income on guarantees (sec. 2122 of the bill and secs. 861, 862 and 864 of the Code)

Present Law

The United States taxes U.S. citizens and residents (including domestic corporations) on their worldwide income, whether derived in the United States or abroad. The United States generally taxes nonresident alien individuals and foreign corporations engaged in a trade or business in the United States on income that is effectively connected with the conduct of such trade or business (sometimes referred to as “effectively connected income”). The United States also taxes nonresident alien individuals and foreign corporations on certain U.S.-source income that is not effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business.

Income of a nonresident alien individual or foreign corporation that is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States generally is subject to U.S.
tax in the same manner and at the same rates as income of a U.S. person. Deductions are allowed to the extent that they are connected with effectively connected income.\textsuperscript{181} A foreign corporation also is subject to a flat 30-percent branch profits tax on its “dividend equivalent amount,” which is a measure of the effectively connected earnings and profits of the corporation that are removed in any year from the conduct of its U.S. trade or business.\textsuperscript{182} In addition, a foreign corporation is subject to a flat 30-percent branch-level excess interest tax on the excess of the amount of interest that is deducted by the foreign corporation in computing its effectively connected income over the amount of interest that is paid by its U.S. trade or business.\textsuperscript{183}

Subject to a number of exceptions, U.S.-source fixed or determinable, annual or periodical income ("FDAP") of a nonresident alien individual or foreign corporation that is not effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business is subject to U.S. tax at a rate of 30 percent of the gross amount paid.\textsuperscript{184} Items of income within the scope of FDAP include, for example, interest, dividends, rents, royalties, salaries, and annuities. The tax generally is collected by means of withholding.\textsuperscript{185}

Present law provides detailed rules for the determination of whether income is from U.S. sources or foreign sources. For example, the source of compensation for services is generally determined by the location in which the services were performed, regardless of the country of residence of the payor.\textsuperscript{186} In contrast, the source of interest income is generally determined by reference to the country of residence of the obligor.\textsuperscript{187} As a result, interest paid by a U.S. obligor typically is considered U.S.-source income, while interest paid by a foreign obligor is treated as foreign-source income. Rents and royalties paid for the use of property located in the United States are considered to be U.S.-source income.\textsuperscript{188}

To the extent that the source of income is not specified in the statute, the Secretary may promulgate regulations that explain the appropriate treatment. Many items of income are not explicitly addressed by either the statute or the regulations. On several occasions, courts have \item \textsuperscript{185} Secs. 1441 and 1442 provide for collection from nonresident aliens and foreign corporations, respectively.

\item \textsuperscript{186} Under section 861(a)(3), compensation for personal services performed in the United States is U.S. source, unless the individual performing the services is a nonresident alien who is temporarily present in the United States, receives no more than $3,000 of compensation and is performing the services for a foreign person not engaged in a U.S. trade or business. Conversely, section 862(a)(3) provides that compensation for labor or services performed outside the United States is foreign source.
\item \textsuperscript{187} Secs. 861(a)(1), 862(a)(1).

determined the source of such items by applying the rule for the type of income to which the disputed income is most closely analogous, based on all facts and circumstances.\textsuperscript{189} As a result, items as dissimilar as alimony and letters of credit commissions were sourced by analogy to interest.\textsuperscript{190} The U.S. Tax Court, in \textit{Container Corp. v. Commissioner}, recently rejected IRS arguments that fees paid by a domestic corporation to its foreign parent with respect to guarantees issued by the parent for the debts of the domestic corporation were analogous to interest. The Tax Court held that the payments were more closely analogous to compensation for services, and determined that the source of the fees should be determined by reference to the residence of the foreign parent-guarantor. As a result, the income was treated as income from foreign sources.\textsuperscript{191}

\textbf{Explanation of Provision}

This provision effects a legislative override of the opinion in \textit{Container Corp. v. Commissioner}, supra, by amending the source rules of section 861 and 862 to address income from guarantees issued after the date of enactment. Under new section 861(a)(9), income from sources within the United States includes amounts received, whether directly or indirectly, from a noncorporate resident or a domestic corporation for the provision of a guarantee of indebtedness of such person. The scope of the provision includes payments that are made indirectly for the provision of a guarantee. For example, the provision would treat as income from U.S. sources a guarantee fee paid by a foreign bank to a foreign corporation for the foreign corporation's guarantee of indebtedness owed to the bank by the foreign corporation's domestic subsidiary, where the cost of the guarantee fee is passed on to the domestic subsidiary through, for example, additional interest charged on the indebtedness.

Such U.S.-source income also includes amounts received from a foreign person, whether directly or indirectly, for the provision of a guarantee of indebtedness of that foreign person if the payments received are connected with income of such person which is effectively connected with conduct of a U.S. trade or business. A conforming amendment to section 862 provides that amounts received from a foreign person, whether directly or indirectly, for the provision of a guarantee of that person's debt, are treated as foreign source income if they are not from sources within the United States as determined under new section 861(a)(9).

For purposes of this provision, the phrase “noncorporate residents” has the same meaning as for purposes of section 861(a)(1), except that foreign partnerships are not included. Payments received from a foreign partnership for the provision of a guarantee of indebtedness of that foreign partnership are U.S. source if the amounts received are connected with income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business. A conforming amendment to section 864 provides that amounts received, whether directly or indirectly, for the provision of a guarantee are deemed to be effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business if derived in the active conduct of a banking, financing or similar business.

Although this provision overturns the opinion in Container Corp. v. Commissioner, supra, no inference is intended with respect to the source of income received for the provision of a guarantee issued before the date of enactment. The Secretary may provide rules for determining the source of other types of payments that are not within the scope of this provision.

Effective Date

The provision applies to guarantees issued after the date of enactment. No inference is intended with respect to the source of income received with respect to guarantees issued before the date of enactment.
D. Time for Payment of Corporate Estimated Taxes
(sec. 2131 of the bill and sec. 6655 of the Code)

Present Law

In general, corporations are required to make quarterly estimated tax payments of their income tax liability.¹⁹² For a corporation whose taxable year is a calendar year, these estimated tax payments must be made by April 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15. In the case of a corporation with assets of at least $1 billion (determined as of the end of the preceding taxable year):

(i) payments due in July, August, or September, 2014, are increased to 174.25 percent of the payment otherwise due;¹⁹³

(ii) payments due in July, August or September, 2015, are increased to 122.25 percent of the payment otherwise due;¹⁹⁴ and

(iii) payments due in July, August or September, 2019, are increased to 106.5 percent of the payment otherwise due.¹⁹⁵

For each of the periods impacted, the next required payment is reduced accordingly.

Explanation of Provision

The provision increases the required payment of estimated tax otherwise due in July, August, or September, 2015, by 36 percentage points.

Effective Date

The provision is effective on the date of enactment of the bill.

White House Fact Sheets and Statements on the Small Business Jobs and Credit Act of 2010

The Small Business Jobs Act: Encouraging Investment

Small businesses are the backbone of America’s economy and the principle engine of job creation. In fact, over the past 15 years, small businesses have created two-thirds of all new jobs. However, small businesses have been hit hard by the recession – losing more than six million jobs since December 2007. Small businesses will be the key to our economic recovery and we need to do all we can to help them spur job growth. One of the biggest obstacles to small businesses expanding and hiring more workers is their limited ability to make capital investments. Over the course of the Great Recession, small business capital investment has fallen dramatically. Since 2005, the percentage of small businesses that made a capital outlay in the previous six months fell by nearly 30 percent. Capital investments are an integral part of getting the economy back on track. Small businesses need the opportunity to make these investments, so they can grow and expand. The following provisions in the Small Business Jobs Act will help small businesses to make capital investments.

- Increase of Section 179 Expensing and Expansion to Certain Real Property

  Section 179 is one of the most widely-used tax benefits available to small businesses and effectively decreases the cost of newly-purchased equipment, making it more economical for businesses to invest. Under current law, taxpayers may elect to write-off the costs of equipment for use in their trade or business in the year of acquisition in lieu of recovering these costs over time through depreciation. In 2010, taxpayers are allowed to write-off up to $250,000 of these capital expenditures subject to a phase-out once these capital expenditures exceed $800,000. After 2010, the thresholds revert to $25,000 and $200,000, respectively.

  Instead, this legislation would increase the amount of capital investment a business could expense – to $500,000 and $2 million in 2010 and 2011. Expensing is an important tool for small businesses because it is the most accelerated type of depreciation. With expensing, a business can deduct the complete cost of an asset, such as equipment or software, in the same year the business buys the asset, instead of recovering these costs over a period of years, as they do through traditional forms of depreciation. The ability to deduct the cost of assets in the same year provides an immediate benefit for these businesses and the economy – increasing the businesses cash flow and putting money back into the larger economy with their purchases. The legislation also expands the types of purchases that would qualify for special expensing to include some types of real property, such as leasehold, retail and restaurant improvements.

- Extension of Bonus Depreciation

  Businesses are allowed to recover the cost of capital expenditures over time according to a depreciation schedule. Congress temporarily allowed businesses to recover the costs of certain capital expenditures made in 2008 and 2009 more quickly than under ordinary depreciation schedules by permitting those businesses to immediately write-off 50 percent of the cost of depreciable property placed in service in those years. The legislation would extend bonus depreciation through the end of this year – allowing business to immediately write-off 50 percent of the cost of depreciable property purchased and placed in service in 2010.

  Bonus depreciation quickly sparks investment by making property more affordable, increasing cash flow and giving small businesses savings they can use to reinvest in the business and hire new employees. Bonus depreciation also helps the business that sells the equipment by providing a market for manufacturers and suppliers so they can retain and hire employees as their businesses rebound. The more purchases the businesses make, the more other businesses are helped. This double-benefit makes bonus depreciation a cost-effective way to strengthen business investment.
The Small Business Jobs Act: Helping Americans Get Back to Work

Small businesses are the backbone of America’s economy and the principle engine of job creation. In fact, over the past 15 years, small businesses have created two-thirds of all new jobs. However, small businesses have been hit hard by the recession – losing more than six million jobs since December, 2007. The Small Business Jobs Act helps create the right economic conditions for small businesses to create as many as 500,000 new jobs. At a time when the credit crunch has starved America’s 27 million small businesses from accessing the capital they need to expand and hire, the fully-paid for Small Business Jobs Act will provide small businesses access to capital, robust incentives for investment, and support for innovation and entrepreneurship. When we help small businesses, we help to get Americans back to work.

The Small Business Jobs Act:

• Gives small businesses $12 billion in tax cuts
• Helps small businesses create 500,000 new jobs
• Incentivizes and increases small business lending
• Helps small business owners access private capital to finance an expansion and hire new workers
• Rewards entrepreneurs for investing in new small businesses
• Helps Main Street businesses compete with large corporations

Helps Small Businesses Access Capital

• Incentivizes investors by giving 100% exclusion from capital gains taxes on small business investments.
• Creates a targeted $30 billion Small Business Lending Fund to provide small community banks with capital to increase small business lending.
• Gives $1.5 billion in grants to support $15 billion in new small business lending through already successful state programs.
• Reduces the tax burden for small businesses by allowing them to carry back general business tax credits to offset their tax burdens from the previous five years. Small businesses will also be able to count the general business credits against the Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT), freeing up capital for expansion and job growth.
• Increases Small Business Administration (SBA) loan limits and improves access and lowers costs for small business to access SBA loans.

Increases Small Businesses’ Ability to Make Investments

• Increases Section 179 expensing – permitting up to $500,000 in capital investments that businesses can expense.
• Extends Bonus Depreciation – allowing taxpayers to immediately write off 50 percent of the cost of new equipment.
PROMOTES ENTREPRENEURSHIP

• Increases to $10,000 the tax deduction for start-up expenditures – doubling the current levels.
• Creates new tools to help small businesses export goods, which will leverage more than $1 billion in exports.
• Establishes a new State Export Promotion Grant Program (STEP), which would increase the number of small businesses that export goods to other countries.

PROMOTES FAIRNESS IN COMPETITION

• Improves tax fairness by preventing small businesses from incurring large tax penalties aimed at large corporations and wealthy individuals investing in tax shelters.
• Improves small business contracting by clarifying that no single contracting program receives priority over another program when competing for federal contracts.
• Allows self-employed individuals to deduct health insurance costs for purposes of paying the self-employment tax.

American entrepreneurs are a key driver of our job creation efforts. The Small Business Jobs Act fosters one of our nation’s greatest economic resources - the creativity and ambition of American entrepreneurs – by creating the right conditions for entrepreneurs to start and invest in small businesses and create jobs. Nearly all net job creation in the United States from 1980 to 2005 occurred in firms that were less than five years old. In fact, without these start-ups, net job creation would have been negative almost every year for the past three decades. We must do all we can to ensure American entrepreneurs have the resources, financing and opportunities they need to create jobs and realize their dreams. The Small Business Jobs Act will help entrepreneurs get the capital they need by increasing the incentives for investors to purchase and hold equity in start-ups. The following provisions in the Small Business Jobs Act will help promote entrepreneurship.

- Increased Deduction for Start-up Expenditures
  The legislation rewards entrepreneurship by doubling the amount of start-up expenses an entrepreneur can immediately deduct this year from $5,000 to $10,000. This provision frees up capital to use in other aspects of the entrepreneur’s business.

- Small Business Export Promotion
  The Office of the United States Trade Representative (USTR) plays an important role in promoting U.S. exports, and recently increased its focus on small business export promotion in particular. USTR has enhanced small business exports in several respects, including the creation of the position of Assistant USTR for Small Business, Market Access, and Industrial Competitiveness within USTR. This official will help ensure that USTR’s trade policy addresses the challenges facing smaller U.S. exporters and promotes global export opportunities for them.

  The legislation devotes more than $5 million to the U.S. Trade Representative to expand opportunities for U.S. small businesses in foreign markets. This funding will help American goods and services to reach new customers around the world and would create jobs here at home. This provision also helps USTR to enforce our trade agreements to ensure that American start-ups can compete on a level playing field.

- Enhanced Small Business Trade Opportunities
  The legislation improves the Small Business Administration’s (SBA) trade and export finance programs and establishes the State Export Promotion Grant Program (STEP), which would increase the number of small businesses that export goods to other countries. This provision will leverage more than $1 billion in export capital for small businesses, which will create or save as many as 40,000 to 50,000 jobs in 2010 alone.

- Improved Small Business Contracting
  The legislation removes the red tape and closes loopholes that too often put government work into the hands of multinational corporations instead of Main Street businesses. Increasing contracts to small businesses by just two percent will create more than 60,000 jobs. The legislation also provides for a periodic review of small business size standards to ensure that size indicators are consistent with inflation and industry growth of small businesses. It requires accountability from large business prime contractors for prompt payment to small business subcontractors – making sure small businesses get the funds for their services quickly so they can have the stability they need to create jobs.
• Relief for Community Partners

The legislation allows SBA to waive or reduce the non-federal share of its funding requirements for up to one year, through fiscal year 2012 – making it cheaper and easier for entrepreneurs to get small business loans. The legislation also gives relief to Women’s Business Centers and microloan intermediaries, which provide assistance to underserved communities to start and grow small businesses. The SBA estimates that this microloan program will create or save more than 10,000 jobs in Fiscal Year 2011.
The White House Blog: President Obama Signs Small Business Jobs Act – Learn What’s In It

Posted by Jesse Lee on September 27, 2010 at 02:37 PM EDT

“I’m thrilled to be here on what is an exciting day,” said the President as he prepared to sign the Small Business Jobs Act this afternoon. With small business owners who will receive tax breaks and better access to credit in the audience, the President explained to everybody why he has fought so long for it:

Now this is important because small businesses produce most of the new jobs in this country. They are the anchors of our Main Streets. They are part of the promise of America – the idea that if you’ve got a dream and you’re willing to work hard, you can succeed. That’s what leads a worker to leave a job to become her own boss. That’s what propels a basement inventor to sell a new product – or an amateur chef to open a restaurant. It’s this promise that has drawn millions to our shores and made our economy the envy of the world.

The bill includes a series of small business proposals that the President put forth earlier this year, and small businesses will start benefiting from the bill on day one. Among the many important provisions in the bill, twelve of the top benefits to small businesses are:

• Extension of Successful SBA Recovery Loan Provisions — Immediately Supporting Loans to Over 1,400 Small Businesses: With funds provided in the bill, SBA will begin funding new Recovery loans within a few days of the President’s signature, starting with the more than 1,400 businesses – with loans totaling more than $730 million – that are waiting in the Recovery Loan Queue. In total, the extension of these provisions provides the capacity to support $14 billion in loans to small businesses. The SBA Recovery loan provisions have already supported $30 billion in lending to over 70,000 small businesses.

• A More Than Doubling of the Maximum Loan Size for The Largest SBA Programs: The bill also increases the maximum loan size for SBA loan programs, which in the coming weeks will allow more small businesses to access more credit to allow them to expand and create new jobs. The bill will permanently raise the maximum size for SBA’s two largest loan programs, increasing the maximum 7(a) and 504 loans from $2 million to $5 million, and the maximum 504 manufacturing related loan from $4 million to $5.5 million. In addition, it will temporarily increase the maximum loan size for SBA Express loans from $350,000 to $1 million, providing greater access to working capital loans that small businesses use to purchase new inventory and take on their next order – allowing them to create new jobs.

• A New $30 Billion Small Business Lending Fund: The bill would establish a new $30 billion Small Business Lending Fund which – by providing capital to small banks with incentives to increase small business lending – could support several multiples of that amount in new credit.

• An Initiative to Strengthen Innovative State Small Business Programs – Supporting Over $15 Billion in Lending: The bill will support at least $15 billion in small business lending through a new State Small Business Credit Initiative, strengthening state small business programs that leverage private-sector lenders to extend additional credit – many of which have been forced to cut back due to budget cuts.

• Eight New Small Business Tax Cuts – Effective Today, Providing Immediate Incentives to Invest: The President had already signed into law eight small business tax cuts, and on Monday, he is signing into law another eight new tax cuts that go into effect immediately.
• Zero Taxes on Capital Gains from Key Small Business Investments: Under the Recovery Act, 75 percent of capital gains on key small business investments this year were excluded from taxes. The Small Business Jobs Act temporarily puts in place for the rest of 2010 a provision called for by the President – elimination of all capital gains taxes on these investments if held for five years. Over one million small businesses are eligible to receive investments this year that, if held for five years or longer, could be completely excluded from any capital gains taxation.

• Extension and Expansion of Small Businesses’ Ability to Immediately Expense Capital Investments: The bill increases for 2010 and 2011 the amount of investments that businesses would be eligible to immediately write off to $500,000, while raising the level of investments at which the write-off phases out to $2 million. Prior to the passage of the bill, the expensing limit would have been $250,000 this year, and only $25,000 next year. This provision means that 4.5 million small businesses and individuals will be able to make new business investments today and know that they will earn a larger break on their taxes for this year.

• Extension of 50% Bonus Depreciation: The bill extends – as the President proposed in his budget – a Recovery Act provision for 50 percent “bonus depreciation” through 2010, providing 2 million businesses, large and small, with the ability to make new investments today and know they can receive a tax cut for this year by accelerating the rate at which they deduct capital expenditures.

• A New Deduction of Health Insurance Costs for Self-Employed: The bill allows 2 million self-employed to know that on their taxes for this year, they can get a deduction for the cost of health insurance for themselves and their family members in calculating their self-employment taxes. This provision is estimated to provide over $1.9 billion in tax cuts for these entrepreneurs.

• Tax Relief and Simplification for Cell Phone Deductions: The bill changes rules so that the use of cell phones can be deducted without burdensome extra documentation – making it easier for virtually every small business in America to receive deductions that they are entitled to, beginning on their taxes for this year.

• An Increase in the Deduction for Entrepreneurs’ Start-Up Expenses: The bill temporarily increases the amount of start-up expenditures entrepreneurs can deduct from their taxes for this year from $5,000 to $10,000 (with a phase-out threshold of $60,000 in expenditures), offering an immediate incentive for someone with a new business idea to invest in starting up a new small business today.

• A Five-Year Carryback Of General Business Credits: The bill would allow certain small businesses to “carry back” their general business credits to offset five years of taxes – providing them with a break on their taxes for this year – while also allowing these credits to offset the Alternative Minimum Tax, reducing taxes for these small businesses.

• Limitations on Penalties for Errors in Tax Reporting That Disproportionately Affect Small Business: The bill would change, beginning this year, the penalty for failing to report certain tax transactions from a fixed dollar amount – which was criticized for imposing a disproportionately large penalty on small businesses in certain circumstances – to a percentage of the tax benefits from the transaction.
