Accounting History. It doesn’t exactly fill me with excitement, I have to confess. Accountants as a race don’t really do it for me – sorry, chaps, but you know what I mean - grey suits, grey hair, grey work. But then, I am not an accountant.

So when David mentioned the Congress coming to Newcastle, I was less than enthusiastic. I mean, accountants are one thing, I suppose, but Accounting History? Off the wall. And I’ve had experience of the conferences – always somewhere7 glamorous with star attractions, not a small industrial town in the North of England which no one has heard of, even though obviously they should have. It all seemed a bit ridiculous to me, not to mention a ton of extra work. No, I was all against the idea, it has to be said.

The days rolled by – David took the Congress, scheduled for years ahead. Of course it takes years to actually arrive – years of preparation and work which I was not keen on. I said to Dave at the outset, “let’s not bother – you may even have left Newcastle University by then.” And guess what – the year before the due date he went to Durham – not a million miles away, it’s true, but another academic institution and the Congress was not Durham’s baby. This could be tricky – working in one institution yet managing the Congress in another, and rivals as well, David would have to call upon his ambassadorial skills to prevent a box of fireworks exploding. (In the best of reporting traditions I have “no comment to make.”)

You see, I’m not an academic. To be honest, I think a lot of what academics do is rather difficult for we mere mortals to grasp. I can understand accountants – a necessity of life, albeit a grey necessity, but do we need a plethora of articles on subjects from the ‘Bad Old Days’ – like slavery, medieval accounts, gender and social issues from another age? Don’t get me wrong – all of these things appeal to someone, I know, but my point is, how useful are they? Or there again, do universities concentrate on the usefulness of anything, except of course, for medicine and science – jolly useful things.

So you see I was not entirely thrilled when the conference loomed up this summer. July arrived, one of the wettest summers we have experienced, thanks to the unwelcome presence of the Jet Stream. Newcastle was not looking its best – deluges of rain had more or less shut us down. And the venue for the event was not the first choice – Dave was hoping for St James Park, home of Newcastle United, but of course we also hosted the Olympics this summer and I’m afraid they took priority over the History Congress. So David had to settle for the campus of Newcastle University – not the most glamorous of places, in fact, a building site to be honest. However, the rain had stopped, the event was upon us, Monday had dawned, and Dave’s good friend and colleague Tom Tyson was presenting his PhD course. David was so pleased to have Tom’s input. We were off to a flying start – when I saw Tom leading his group to lunch, they all looked very happy indeed. Perhaps, this was not going to be as bad as I feared. Afterwards I spoke to a few of the participants – yes, they all agreed – well worth coming for. A great teacher and a great start. Things were looking up!

Tuesday. Nerves were jangling. The crowd swelled, somehow everyone found the building, it was really happening at last!

David and his colleagues presented a paper – the history of our local hospital, with an accounting slant on it. As a medical girl myself, I was quite fascinated by what they had unearthed about the old hospital in Newcastle. And in the same session was Tom Tyson’s paper on the Poor Houses in Mayo, Ireland. Now there’s a subject close to an Irish girl’s heart – no one with an Irish background could fail to be fascinated by the subject of Irish poverty and how it was dealt with. Or not dealt with. Don’t tell my friends, but this was much better than I expected! Two interesting papers and only the first day!

Lunchtime, and a delicious spread of lovely food and, dare I say it, I was actually ENJOYING MYSELF! Most of the regular accounting historians who had been visitors at Newcastle seemed to be there, and altogether it was a terrific crowd from all continents.

I’ve never been to anything where I’ve talked to people from Russia, Scandinavia, America, Australia, in fact, everywhere, all under one roof. This was actually beginning to be quite exciting!

Tuesday night saw the Reception, housed in our Great North Museum. We in Newcastle are very proud of our newly re-furbished museum and we hoped people would enjoy looking round, but no one did - maybe they found each other more entertaining than the Roman relics or Northumbrian curiosities, or even the live snake which lives amongst the exhibits. I was looking forward to that bit – sometimes it moves its head just as you think it’s old and dead! That could have been interesting.

Wednesday. I was pleased to see a stand for the Institute of Chartered Accountants and had a nice chat with the ladies from the Institute. I felt that it reminded everyone that it was actually about accounting now as well as its history. But we ladies had to agree – history was full of surprises. Some great papers on all sorts of topics. Going better than I thought possible!

The only thing which I did not like was that it was impossible to go to all the papers, and after all that work to prepare one, and then only a short time to present your arguments. It was hard to choose whose paper to attend – I wanted to support all the people I know but I couldn’t fit them all in. Still, I suppose that’s the nature of conferences – a taster of what is to be published. And that’s another matter, of course – can you all make the necessary star grade to get noticed? The competition must be daunting.

That evening we hosted the Dinner. I attended a Dinner in Istanbul with David a couple of years ago – we could never aspire to such grandeur or magnificence here in Newcastle. But considering that it was supposed to be a “simple academic conference” as David called it, I think it went well. No starlit skies, palace in the mountains, and certainly no warm, outdoor fabulous setting like in Istanbul, but nevertheless a very enjoyable social event and chance for people to get dressed up and make friends.

Thursday. I caught up with the conference in time for the last session: the thanks, the introduction to the next World Congress in Italy, the rounding-up of this event.

which had taken so many months to prepare, so many hours at the end for David and colleagues to catalogue the papers, and so much anxiety on my part as to it’s success. And here we were – the last fling. It was amusing that the computer packed up just as the end was in sight, but by then I think we were all so relaxed that it just added to the pleasure of the event. All talks had been safely delivered, all rooms adequate, lunches, teas, dinners all successfully navigated, and only the last lunch to follow. I was pleased to see some of David’s old Newcastle colleagues there to support the event, and of course, a few of them had presented a paper. Good to see you all. Old friends had met up again, new friends had been made, nation had spoken to nation, as it were, and comradeship once again signed, sealed and delivered. Newcastle had stood up to its reputation, I hope, as being a friendly and lively city, and visitors to our special Northern town had been warmly welcomed. Colleagues from across the continents had reaffirmed their friendships, new work projects had been discussed, young hopefuls welcomed into the fold of Accounting History, and the next World Congress already in the diaries.

David’s ‘simple academic conference’ had won the day. The campus, building site though it remains, did its stuff, and everyone seemed very happy with our Novocastrian effort. Maybe I was wrong – our vibrant and exciting city, with it’s industrial heritage of ship building to serve the world, coal mining on which to build our nation’s prosperity, railway engineering which would influence transport the world over, not to mention a rich heritage of industrial and medical educational excellence and a few industrial geniuses to carry the North East endeavours to all corners was just the place to hold a World Accounting History Congress. Even the Jet Stream gave us a break.

I hate to admit it, but I’m HOOKED! Just thinking of a topic myself – something really snappy and USEFUL – how about the psychology of Accounting Historians as a Race with particular reference to the historical perspective in the modern world? Plenty of archival material to hand, could fit in an overseas trip, purely for research purposes obviously, and then spend two years getting it published in some smart all-star journal, like Good Housekeeping. Something everyone’s heard of. There’s nothing to this accounting history stuff. Bring it on!
Accounting history has become an increasingly popular and respected domain of scholarly research. While many accounting academics are initially drawn to the area because of an inherent love of history, few may have formal training in conducting and evaluating accounting history research and are often reluctant to press ahead. With this in mind, Dr. Tom Tyson, Professor of Accounting at St. John Fisher College in Rochester, NY designed a course that examines the major genres (subject areas) (biography, culture race and gender, genealogy/critical theory, practice/theory, and profession/professionalism) and the range of methodologies (archival, case study, oral history interviews, empirical, and theoretical) that comprise the current domain of accounting history research. The course also covers the characteristics of good accounting history research designs as well as key issues relating to writing-up the results of an accounting history research project and getting it published! It is designed for all individuals seeking to conduct research in accounting history.

Dr. Tyson initially presented the course as a four-day PhD Seminar at the Aarhus School of Business, Aarhus University in January 2010. It offered an opportunity for doctoral students to engage in the methodology of historical research in accounting. The attendants were students from Arhus PhD program as well as several international scholars. The course offered and mix of formal lectures on how to conduct and evaluate accounting history research and student engagement through group work assignments. The success of this doctoral course was positively affected by the Dr. Tyson’s open sharing of personal experiences with the research process. His frank and open teaching style enabled the students to envision every tedious and yet rewarding step of design, data collection, write up and submission process. Dr. Tyson received the 2010 Academy of Accounting Historians Innovation in Accounting History Education Award for this course.

Dr. Tyson presented a one-day condensed version of the course at the 13th WCAH in Newcastle-upon-Tyne on July 16, 2012. The course was attended by six young and aspiring accounting from Australia, India, the Canary Islands, Italy, Angola, and Brazil. As the photo suggests, all of the participants felt the experience most worthwhile.

The Third Accounting History International Emerging Scholars´ Colloquium (3AHIESC)

The third Accounting History International Emerging Scholars´ Colloquium (3AHIESC) was recently held in Paris during 8-10 July 2012. The third event in the series built upon the success of the previous two colloquiums held respectively in Siena, Italy and Vallendar, Germany. Attended by sixteen emerging scholars from a total of seven different countries, the colloquium was hosted at the SKEMA Business School, Parisian campus at La Défense within the major business district of Paris.

At the opening of the Colloquium, the plenary address was presented by Lee Parker, Professor of Accounting at the University of South Australia, and joint editor of the Accounting, Auditing & Accountability Journal. The address was entitled “Half time at the game: Messages from the coaching box.” His address contained valuable advice to emerging scholars on how to improve their projects and research strategies, and how to publish in relevant journals, and how to navigate journal rankings and citation counts. After such an inspiring address by the ‘coach,’ cocktails were served; allowing participants and panel members to mingle in a relaxed setting, while reflecting on the key messages that were delivered.

Over the following two days, delegates gave 15 minute presentations of their research proposals to the seven panel members, followed by 15 minutes of questions and discussion where constructive and helpful feedback was provided to the delegates. Led by Garry Carnegie of the School of Accounting, RMIT University and joint editor of Accounting History, the panel members comprised Lisa Evans (University of Stirling, UK), Elena Giovannoni (University of Siena, Italy), Delfina Gomes (Universidade do Minho, Portugal), Marc Nikitin (University of Orleans, France), Lee Parker (University of South Australia) and Henri Zimnovitch (Université Paris-Sud 11).

Presentations of research proposals were organized into six sessions in all. The sessions concentrated on the following major themes: Accounting and Investors, Accounting Education, Ac... counting and Society, Professionalization of Accounting, Accounting and the State as well as Accounting’s Past in Italy. Fascinating insights into accounting’s past were revealed across different locations and centuries.

During the breaks and various social events, which included a visit to the accounting archives of the Sèvres Museum and a memorable dinner aboard a “bateau-mouche,” panel members were able to discuss with the participants their research projects in a more informal setting. The colloquium concluded with a reflection on the lessons derived from participation.

The feedback from Colloquium participants was that the interaction with other participants and the panel members fostered a strong sense of community. It is trusted that the messages from the ‘coach’ and the valuable feedback and guidance received, motivates the participants to complete their research projects and develop quality papers for publication and may also result in new joint projects on accounting’s past, in the future.

The 4AHIESC will be held as part of the seventh Accounting History International Conference (7AHIC) in Seville, Spain, and is scheduled to take place on 25 September 2013.

Academy Presents Accounting History Boot Camp at American Accounting Association National Meeting in Washington, DC

On Sunday, August 5, 2012, members of the Academy presented a workshop entitled “Accounting History Boot Camp: How to Conduct Research in Accounting History” at the national meeting of the AAA. This CPE session had nearly 30 people in attendance and was a good lead-in to the annual ice cream social that was sponsored by the Academy on Sunday evening.

The workshop was designed to inspire new membership in the Academy and provide “how-to” information to academics who are contemplating research in accounting history. Members participating in the workshop presented various topics such as development of accounting thought, information about publishing in The Accounting Historians Journal and Notebook, archival research methods, sources of data and archives, international research and conferences, suggested readings, and schools of thought on accounting history.

Information about joining the Academy was available at the workshop and a specially discounted first-year member rate was offered to new members. Reaction to the workshop was positive by both presenters and attendees, and anticipation is strong for further interest in accounting history research and the Academy. Hence, plans are already under way to offer a boot-camp style CPE workshop at next year’s annual meeting of the American Accounting Association. Participation and/or topic suggestions by Academy members are highly encouraged to make next year’s boot camp even more successful.

Please forward your suggestions to Yvette Lazdowski at yjlazdowski@plymouth.edu.

Many thanks to the talented members who presented at the 2012 Accounting History Boot Camp, including Gary Previts, Barbara Merino, Joann Noe Cross, Gloria Volmers, Jim McKinney, Stephanie Moussalli, Royce Kurtz, and Robert Russ. Their powerpoint presentations are available on the Academy website. A special thank you goes out to Dr. Richard Vangermeersch, for kindly providing a variety of interesting and rare books from his Pacioli collection for the boot camp presentation.

Yvette J. Lazdowski, DBA, CMA, CFM
Vice President, Academy of Accounting Historians
The meeting convened at 7:00 PM.

1. Joann Cross, Academy president, introduced herself and welcomed attendees.

Martin W. Schoenfeld Scholarship in Accounting History

G. Thomas J. Burns Biographical Research, 2011 – check and plaque mailed to Ed Coffman

There have been no nominees for this award for 2012. Dale Flesh-er solicited nominations from attendees.

H. Vangermeersch Manuscript, 2012 – announced the award is to Pierre Labardine, for his work on 19th-century French banking. Labardine is re-writing the piece for submission to AHJ.

3. Reports
A. Editorial appointment (Cross)
Gloria Vollmers has accepted the editorial appointment for AHJ, replacing editor Dick Fleischman after he stepped down. Vollmers solicited submissions, especially of new and different sorts of re-search.

Vollmers reported there had been an editorial board meeting at the World Congress of Accounting Historians (in Newcastle, July, 2012) to discuss possible changes for the AHJ, including the re-incorporation of an “Interfaces” section, book reviews, and the abstracts of relevant new dissertations.

Vollmers asked the group to think about the possibility of turning publishing over to a commercial publisher.

B. Treasurer’s report and dues (Reynolds-Moehrle)
Jennifer Reynolds-Moehrle announced that the Academy’s independent audit of our 2011 financial statements was completed and no issues were found. The audit was conducted for a good price by the same Starkville, MS, USA firm we have used in past years.

As of June 30, 2012, Academy assets totaled about $393,000, of which $208,000 is restricted for

In 2011, the Academy experienced a loss, and the 2012 loss is estimated to be $9,000. This is due to a steady drop in institutional memberships of about 10% per year since 2007, as institutions subscribe to online journal aggregators instead of buying individual subscriptions to journals.

The Academy has taken steps to correct this loss in the future, including cutting the production run of the Accounting Historians Journal. This saved about $3,000 this year. The Academy is also pursuing the possibility of a new semi-exclusive contract with one of the online journal aggregators, EBSCO, in exchange for annual fees. The Academy is also in the process of increasing the low cost of membership for individuals, to $60 for 2013, $70 for 2014, and $75 for 2015. This will replace revenues lost up to now from institutions but will not be adequate to replace further drops in institutional subscriptions.

The Academy received a generous anonymous gift in July for the purpose of awarding the Barbara D. Merino Award for Excellence in Accounting History Publication. Discussion took place about what type of book or other publication criteria might guide a selection committee.

C. Membership update (Reynolds-Moehrle)

Individual memberships now stand at 246, up 4% from 2011. 120 are U.S. members and 126 are non-U.S.-based. Institutional memberships are 181, down 18% from 2011.

D. Accounting Historians’ Notebook (McKinney)

McKinney announced his goal is to be more timely in issuing the AHN. He solicited short articles, noting that the AHN is an alternative outlet for such pieces. If authors need it, he will see to it that a short article is reviewed before publication.

McKinney noted the very large number of accounting history conferences taking place around the world in 2013; they are listed in the recent AHN.

McKinney asked that awards committee chairs write short announcements about the winners of the awards that he may use for publication in the AHN.

Cross pointed out that the AHN also includes lists of papers being presented at all the accounting history conferences. She added that the accounting history community is very supportive of their fellows’ research, and she commended McKinney for doing an excellent job with the content of the AHN.

E. Academy research conference, 2013 (Cross)

The 2013 Academy research conference will be held during the week of October 14-19, 2013, in Oshkosh, Wisconsin. Gateway cities in the U.S. such as Detroit, Chicago, and Atlanta, have direct flights to Oshkosh, or it is just a 90-minute drive from Milwaukee. The Academy will hold a reception for conference attendees at the Experimental Aircraft Association facility. Following the conference, the world’s largest sports aviation conference will take place in Oshkosh.

More information will be issued with the call for papers and will be published in the Accounting Historians Notebook in October.

F. World Congress wrap-up report
(Cross)
Cross and others who had attended the World Congress of Accounting Historians in July in Newcastle, England, all praised the conference as a top-notch scholarly event.

The 2016 World Congress will take place in Pescara, Italy. In 2020, it will be held in St. Petersburg, Russia.

The Academy supports the World Congresses of Accounting Historians monetarily. Many of our members have been conveners of past Congresses.

G. Book sales project, “Bob’s Bookstore”
(Russ)
Russ said he still has the unsold books from silent auctions. He plans to have another silent auction at the 2013 conference in Oshkosh. The June, 2011, conference in College Park, Maryland, had a silent auction that raised about $150 - $200.

Russ is also selling these books on Amazon, priced from about $1 to $3. About one sale every three or four weeks has so far yielded about $200 for the year, though that is due largely to a few expensive items. The big cost is the shipping.

Russ will attempt to sell any accounting history books that members wish to donate. Cross solicited retiring members’ donations of books.

Russ will prepare a short piece for the Accounting Historians Notebook about Bob’s Bookstore.

H. “Voices of Experience” project
(Moussalli, for Lazdowski)
Moussalli read the following report from Lazdowski:

“We are so fortunate and appreciative of our members’ vast experience. The Voices of Experience project is an opportunity to capture the wisdom, advice, and perspectives, especially from our long-time members and accounting historians. Our first foray into this project involved a “Charlie-Rose-style” interview with Dr. Richard Vangermeersch. This interview can be found in the June, 2012 Accounting Historians Notebook.

“To continue the series, we are seeking volunteers for future interviews – all of which will be casual, chat-style, and pain-free. We appreciate your volunteering – or providing a willing spirit if requested to participate. Thank you!”

I. SCOPUS, JSTOR, and SSCI updates

Previts noted that promotion and tenure increasingly require credible citation sources. He and Cross are working on an application to Scopus, a bibliographic database owned by Elsevier, for the Accounting Historians Journal. Scopus is the new rival to the Social Science Citation Index, and is being used by a large number of schools. Scopus would provide the Academy with useful metrics.

About two years ago, JSTOR invited the Academy to put the AHJ into its database. That project has now been completed. It is a very high-quality digital source for the AHJ, and we were honored to have been invited.

The Academy continues to be in negotiations with EBSCO, which wants an exclusive contract (except for JSTOR and the Ole Miss Digital Accounting Collection site) to bundle the AHJ’s digital content. Dan Jensen and Previts began working on this years ago.

Krum asked if we could have members-only access to the most recent two years.

The AAA re-negotiates its digital contracts every five years.

There was some discussion of whether we should post online PDFs of papers accepted to the AHJ, as many journals now do. Discussion also concerned the need to be sure to cite relevant AHJ articles in future articles. It was noted that Google misses all the AHJ current articles because of the embargo. At some schools that do not currently accept accounting history publications, the AHJ would be an acceptable journal for publications if faculty insisted on it.

4. Other business

None.

The meeting adjourned at 8:00 PM.

Respectfully submitted,
Stephanie Moussalli, Secretary

Online Sale of Book Donations

The Academy has sold used books in a silent auction at the Academy national meetings. These books are now available for sale online. These books are being sold through Amazon. The books are listed under Gigilady books (my wife’s account). Not all books are listed online. Amazon does not allow me to list any books that are not currently in the database without paying a monthly fee. As we are not selling enough books to cover this fee I cannot add books to the database.

I will continue to bring the books to the Academy national meetings in the USA (providing the meetings are in driving distance). My intention is to have the books available at the next meeting in Wisconsin.

If you have any questions about this program, you may contact me Bob Russ at russrl@nku.edu or 859-572-7547

Learning Objectives
A doctoral level preparatory period and seminar to develop knowledge, skills and abilities related to theories of knowledge, the development of accounting thought, institutions and individual contributors. Readings and discussions facilitate an analysis of continuities and discontinuities, and relatedly, epistemic presuppositions in our disci-pline's literature over time. Accounting knowledge is considered from its paradigmatic propositions, concepts, and 'truth' proposals. The conditional nature of knowledge, evidence and proof in historical, positive and normative writings is evaluated in periods prior to the AAA's Statement on Accounting Theory and Theory Acceptance, and the AICPA's Trueblood and Jenkins Reports. The works of principal writers are evaluated.
What was, what is and what ought to be 'statements' in familiar as well as unheralded research papers are evaluated. The terms PreClassical and Classical are employed to identify normative works by Sprague [Propriety - PreClassical] and Paton [Entity] and Paton and Littleton.
1940 [Classical: Matching—Historical Cost], and current EMH and behavioral writings.
The role of pragmatism in accounting thou ght is considered throughout in academic and practice literature.

Abilities and Skills Addressed
Theory building; testing presuppositions; identification of social objectivity and economic value statements; enhancement of oral and written communication skills;
awareness of present-mindedness within research propositions is addressed.
100 pt Grade Structure Proposed

- Seminar preparation and participation Summer (9) and Fall (8) meetings 34 points
- Brief Papers [Two] Maximum 10 pages 12 PT Times New Roman 26 points
- Final Research Paper —To be presented at a Dept. Research Seminar Fall 2012 25 points

Assignment Material and Meetings

Please reserve the times noted in the banner above for our seminar meetings in Room 458. In addition to topical materials related to the development of thought, each session will reserve time for discussion and preparation related to issues of pedagogy and instructional assignments.

Two Brief Papers: 26 points—maximum 12 pages 12 PT Times New Roman, including bibliography

Two essays which demonstrate an understanding of fundamental episodes, notions, terms and thought processes which provide a basis for intellectual discussion, evaluation and inquiry. A one page written proposal for each brief paper is due for approval before the topic can be considered. Essay One: Due July 31st; Essay Two: Due September 24th.

Reference Materials

Book/Literature Review Essays [Three] maximum 5 pages, 12 PT Times New Roman including bibliography

Review Essays: Select, propose and undertake review essays of an original business history or accounting theory book length work, essay or collection of works relating to each one the periods under study. Prepare a synopsis for seminar discussion and a written essay suitable for submission for publication. The essay should consider critical and appreciative perspectives and clearly indicate the basis for the overall evaluation developed. [Possible subjects/volumes and materials are available from the course professor and should be approved for each of the Essays]. Synopsis of AAA meeting sessions may be appropriate if approved. These essays will be due as agreed following discussions with the course professor.

These essays should be well organized, and where appropriate, refer to seminar and research readings. Referral and citation to extant published reviews is an acceptable approach to development of the foundation for these essays. The Accounting Review format is to be followed as to citations, footnotes and bibliography and so forth.

Research Paper—Literature Search of a possible dissertation area
The seminar research paper is intended to develop your knowledge and skill related to the type of literature search you conduct for a dissertation— as evidenced in the standard 'Second Chapter' of same. This project is to be written at the quality level equivalent to a final draft prepared for submission to an academic journal. Thus envision the second chapter of your dissertation, which normally contains the literature search [i.e. history of the development of thought] of the subject, as the core topic of this paper. While it is early for you to have identified your dissertation topic area, begin now to consider undertaking a series of contingent explorations which will result in a literature base to provide the materials for this project. This project paper will be due for presentation after October 15th 2012 as scheduled for a departmental research seminar.

Course Conduct: Each student is individually responsible for proper conduct in matters of coursework and assignments. In short, "Do your own work!" You are responsible for attending all sessions, doing your own assignments, and acting responsibly in such matters. Collegial conversations are encouraged in support of independent thinking.

18TH CONFERENCE ON ACCOUNTING AND MANAGEMENT HISTORY
La Rochelle • March 28 - 29, 2013

The Magic Behind Numbers: Figures, Standards and Beliefs

Since its inception in 1995, the French Conference on Accounting and Management History has remained an essential rendezvous for those interested in history and management. For its 18th edition, the proposed theme of reflection is: The magic behind Numbers. Figures, Standards and Beliefs.

Within the confines of Taylorite doctrine, numbers have been put to multiple uses and strategies including serving as proof of efficiency, as a foundation for affirming the scientific nature of reasoning, as a tool for distance, and as a rhetorical device. A historical approach will in our opinion provide an opportunity to examine how people engaged in the practice and theory of management by using numbers and for what purpose.

Either as quantitative indicators that guarantee efficiency or as labels for quality standards, (iso 9001, 14001, etc.), figures can be seen as much as instruments of objectivation particularly in accounting, as a specific element of managerial rhetoric. The accounting standard or any other standard establishes a frame of reference based on quantified measurements of sets of criteria which people intend to evaluate. This way, it may likely overshadow the tangible reality of what is being measured and may not be better than what appears to us to be a belief system. As a code, a figure is not only a language beyond the understanding of laymen (or the uninitiated) but might also have a mystical dimension. We need only to refer to the virtue granted to the golden ratio or section aurea in freemasonry or in the Pythagoras exegesis. Luca Pacioli, credited with the first presentation of the method of double-entry bookkeeping in 1494 is himself the author of a treaty on the Divine Proportion.

We also invite papers with a historical approach that will enable challenging the hegemony of quantifications in different fields ranging from political evaluation (through instruments like opinion polls or managerial indicators of public policies) to research in management and economics. And, as this has been the practice every year, all communications that have a historical dimension are welcome.

PhD workshop

The conference will include a PhD workshop on March 27th designed for PhD students working on a dissertation in accounting, organization or business history. All interested PhD students will be required to submit a 10-page report detailing their research.

Deadline: Deadline of submission full texts of the communications: December 15th, 2012. Decision of the scientific committee: January 19th, 2013. Final version: February 9th, 2013. Full papers (max. 60.000 characters) in French or English including two abstracts (in French and English) have to be submitted to the following mailing address: jhcm2013@univ-lr.fr
CALL FOR PAPERS

III INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON LUCA PACIOLI IN ACCOUNTING HISTORY
III BALKANS AND MIDDLE EAST COUNTRIES CONFERENCE ON ACCOUNTING AND ACCOUNTING HISTORY (3rd BMAC)

June 19-22, 2013 Istanbul - Turkey

THE GREAT RENDEZVOUS OF ACCOUNTING HISTORY CULTURES

Istanbul is thought of as a meeting point for Middle Eastern and Balkan recording cultures along with the Mediterranean recording culture. Thus we foresee a few of the accounting history subjects evoked by this meeting to be:

- Mutual interaction of Mediterranean and Middle Eastern / Balkan recording cultures;
- Traces of past accounting methods affecting world accounting cultures;
- The development process of the double-entry accounting system throughout the world: 19th and 20th Centuries;
- The course of development by accounting history studies at the beginning of the 21st Century.

IN ADDITION TO THESE ACCOUNTING HISTORY SUBJECTS:

- On the fringe of major auditing issues: happenings and expectations for the accounting profession in this respect;
- International accounting standards problems brought about by economic globalization;
- Other suitable accounting and accounting history subjects of similar vein.

With the development of China’s economy, China’s accounting theory and practice have changed a lot. Under the leadership of elder accounting experts such as Li Baozhen, Yang Shizhan, Lou Erxing and so on, a large group of accounting scholars engaged in accounting history research and generated a series of research achievements, which promoted accounting history research. One of the most outstanding accounting history research experts is Professor Guo Daoyang, who is the Ph.D instructor of Zhongnan University of Economics and Law, associate director of Accounting Society of China, director of Accounting History Committee of Accounting Society of China. Accounting’s Past in Sport

In most countries, sporting organisations are economically and socially important. Sports such as basketball, cricket, football (in its various forms), golf and hockey contribute significantly to shaping the cultures, communities and societies across the globe. While covering a diversity of activities, sport is likewise delivered and managed by means of a plethora of organisational structures from large for-profit corporate bodies to local volunteer-based community clubs. However, one factor common to all sporting organisations, both now and in the past, is the need to account and to be accountable.

A special issue of Accounting History on the above titled theme is scheduled to be published in the first half of 2015.

Topics for this special issue may include, but are not limited to, areas such as:
- Accounting practices in sport and/or sporting organisations
- Accountability and reporting by sporting organisations
- The diverse sources of funding in sport and their consequences for shaping notions of accountability and success
- The role of accounting in shaping the development of sporting organisations, or sports as a whole
- The interplay between sport and accounting and the development of national culture, or community social capital
- The relationship between financial (“off-field”) success and sporting (“on-field”) success
- Accountants’ contribution to sport, or the influence of sports or sporting culture on accountants and accounting practice
- Creative accounting, fraud and accounting scandals in sport

Potential contributors are encouraged to interpret the theme broadly using diverse theoretical and methodological perspectives. Submissions are particularly encouraged which explore the multiple, complex and disconnected factors shaping accounting’s past in sport and which seek to identify the impacts of accounting on organisational and social functioning. Likewise, papers published in this special issue need not be constrained by focusing only on large, national or international sports and organisations. Contributions which focus on accounting and sport in local settings are also welcome.

Submissions must be written in English and forwarded electronically to the guest editors by 30 September 2013. Manuscripts will be subject to the usual double blind review process of Accounting History.

Guest editors: Potential contributors are invited to contact the guest editors to discuss their proposed topics: Brad Potter, University of Melbourne, email: bnpotter@unimelb.edu.au and Margaret Lightbody, University of South Australia, email: margaret.lightbody@unisa.edu.au Oshkosh (population 65,000) is located at the southern end of Wisconsin’s Fox River Valley, about 40 miles from the northern mouth of the river into Lake Michigan at Green Bay. This area of Wisconsin is a Statistical Metropolitan Area of about 750,000 people distributed over some twenty different cities.

Since the explorations of Jean Nicolet in the early 1600’s, The Fox River Valley of Wisconsin has been a busy crossroads of entrepreneurial activity from the fur trade in the 17th century to lumbering and papermaking in the 19th century to becoming the center of sport aviation in the twentieth century. Home to both the John Birch Society and the Henry Houdini Museum, the Fox River Valley stands as a monument to the entrepreneurial spirit.

It is, then, fitting that the historical theme of the Conference focuses on Accounting and Entrepreneurship in all its many forms. However, papers on other topics are gladly accepted.

Submissions: Papers for presentation should include an abstract and be submitted electronically as an attachment in WORD format to: Joann Noe Cross at crossj@uwosh.edu by August 1, 2013. Papers submitted to the conference for presentation will be blind reviewed.

Although the conference fee has not been determined at this time, every effort will be made to keep the cost as low as possible.

Travel Information

Overnight facilities will be offered both at the newly renovated downtown Oshkosh hotel and conference center. All conference activities are intended to be within a block of this location and transportation will be provided for any events further afield.

The nearest airport to Oshkosh is Appleton Outagamie County Airport (ATW) which is serviced by Delta (from Detroit, Minneapolis-St Paul and Atlanta) and United (from Chicago O’Hare) as well as less familiar carriers. Both Green Bay (40 miles to the north) and Milwaukee (90 miles to the south) also have frequent flights from major USA hubs.

Interesting historical sites in this area include a multitude of Museums including that of the Experimental Aircraft Association and extensive water-based recreation facilities.

Histories of Accounting and the Hospital

Hospitals are not only bastions of modern medicine but also major sites of economic activity. Together with other health services, they now account for more than 10 per cent of GDP in many developed countries. Amid increasing concerns about the cost of health services, the hospital has become a major focus of accounting research. Much emphasis has been placed on studying accounting practices in the contemporary hospital setting. The historical development of such practices remains substantially unexplored. A forthcoming special issue of Accounting History Review will focus on the history of hospital accounting to stimulate further research in this emerging field.

The special issue will adopt wide parameters in relation to the period and location studied. To encourage innovative and interdisciplinary research on hospital accounting, papers drawing on a range of methodological and theoretical approaches will be considered and a definition of accounting will be adopted which extends beyond the mere recording of financial transactions. Moreover, reflecting historical notions of the hospital as a place offering moral and spiritual support as well as medical treatment, we encourage submissions focusing on institutions concerned with broader social functions such as the care of the poor and needy, both in terms of their physical and spiritual wellbeing.

Topics for the special issue may include, but are not limited to, historical aspects of the following:

- Accounting and the hospital economy
- Accounting for hospital organisation at the regional and/or national level
- Accounting for medical practice and accounting by medical and allied professionals
- Accounting in small or cottage hospitals
- Accounting in the pre-modern hospital
- Hospital accounting in its social and institutional contexts
- The state and hospital accounting
- Performance measurement in the hospital setting
- Issues relating to auditing and accountability in the hospital
- The relationship between financial and medical knowledge in the hospital
- The professionalisation of hospital accountants, and organisations of healthcare accounting and finance professionals

The submission deadline is 28 February 2014, but earlier submissions are welcomed. Manuscripts should be sent electronically to the guest editors, Florian Gebreiter (f.gebreiter1@aston.ac.uk) and William Jackson (w.jackson@hw.ac.uk). Submissions should follow the style guidelines of Accounting History Review and will be subject to double-blind review. Potential contributors are encouraged to contact the guest editors at their earliest convenience.
