A NEW SONG.

Tune—Drops of Brandy.

ROMANIS, the HOSIER, Cheapside, This y-three,
His numerous friends will be glad for to see;
For he has at present many Thousands of Dozens,
To half give away to his friends and their Cousins.

His fine Cotton Stockings are whiter than snow,
It is really surprising he sells them so low;
But for good and cheap Hosiery he has long had the name,
And sells less for profit than he does for fame.

He has long been distinguished in Hosiery annals
And noted for cheap and for good real Welch Flannels;
His Drawers and Shirts, warm, elastic, and strong,
The only complaint is, that they wear too long.

He makes Hose from Cotton, from Silk, and Lambs Wool,
From Spanish Merino—that wont shrink in a pool;
His Night-Caps so form'd, they are sure for to fit,
And has often been known to inspire sense and wit.

He has Gloves for the hands and warm Socks for the feet,
Double Mill'd Pantaloons and short Stockings so neat;
At the Sign of GREAT GEORGE the good REGENT and PRINCE,
Whose virtues and valour you have heard of long since.

Then for warmth, health, and comfort, pray come to ROMANIS,
That your ease and your profit's at his heart very plain is;
You shall have proof positive that you are in Cheapside,
And the Cheap STOCKING MART shall resound far and wide.

33, CHEAPSIDE,

Two Doors from Friday Street;

a Portrait of the REGENT over the Window.
