AICPA Services for Members in Industry

INTRODUCTION

The CPA title holds a special value for you, the member in industry. The designation is recognized by your colleagues, your employers and your community as representing excellence and professionalism.

The composition of members of the AICPA has been changing steadily over the past 12 years. In 1975, there were approximately 35,000 members in industry, representing 31% of the AICPA membership. Today, there are more than 100,000 members in industry, representing over 39% of the total membership.

The Industry Committee advises other committees and boards on the interests and needs of members in industry and implements programs for this segment of the membership. From national conferences to articles of practical interest in the Journal of Accountancy, the AICPA encourages CPAs in industry to become involved in its programs and in the profession.

This leaflet briefly describes many of the programs which are of interest to industry members.
