American Institute of Certified Public Accountants
The checklists and illustrative financial statements included in this booklet have been developed by the staff on the Technical Information Division of the AICPA as non authoritative technical practice aids. Readers should be aware of the following:

- The checklists and illustrative financial statements are "tools" and in no way represent official positions or pronouncements of the AICPA.

- The checklists and illustrative financial statements have been updated through SAS No. 63, SSARS No. 6, FASB Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 102, FASB Interpretation No. 38, and FASB Technical Bulletin No. 88-2. A supplemental checklist outlines disclosure requirements of FHLBB Regulations, part 563C as of December 31, 1989. PA Bulletins issued through December 31, 1989, have been reviewed, and consequently, disclosure requirements in PA Bulletins 7a and 7a-1 have been incorporated. R & T memos issued through December 31, 1989, did not contain financial statement disclosure requirements, and are consequently not incorporated. The checklists should be modified, as appropriate, for subsequent pronouncements. In determining the applicability of a pronouncement, its effective date should also be considered.

- The auditor should be alert to new accounting and financial reporting requirements that may be issued by the new Office of Thrift Supervision ("OTS").

- The checklists and illustrative financial statements should be used by or under the supervision of persons having adequate technical training and proficiency in the application of generally accepted accounting principles, generally accepted auditing standards, and statements on standards for accounting and review services.

- The checklists and illustrative financial statements do not represent minimum requirements and do not purport to be all-inclusive. The referenced standard should be reviewed if clarification is desired as to whether the disclosure indicated is required or suggested, and to what extent the disclosure is relevant to the statements being examined.
Users of these checklists and illustrative financial statements are urged to refer directly to applicable authoritative pronouncements when appropriate. If you have further questions, call the AICPA Technical Hotline (see back cover).

The author wishes to acknowledge the assistance of his colleague, Jean M. McNally, CPA, who served as consultant on this project.

This checklist is updated through FASB Statement No. 102. At the time of this checklist's publication, the FASB was in the final stages of issuing a Statement on Financial Accounting Standards that would require all entities to disclose information about (1) financial instruments with off-balance-sheet risk and (2) financial instruments with concentrations of credit risk. Those disclosures would be required for financial statements issued for fiscal years ending after June 15, 1990, and will be reflected in Section 5400 of the AICPA Financial Statement Preparation Manual that will be mailed to subscribers before June 1990.

INTRODUCTION

The Savings institutions industry operates under comprehensive Federal and state rules and regulations. Those rules and regulations greatly influence the accounting and financial reporting.

Savings institutions subject to the reporting requirements of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934 administered by the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board are subject to extensive financial and accounting disclosures.

Common accounting and reporting by savings institutions include:

- Accrual basis of accounting is the only acceptable basis of accounting under GAAP, although some savings institutions may report certain revenue and expense items differently for regulatory accounting purposes.

- Savings institutions usually prepare a non-classified statement of financial condition.

- Investments in debt securities should be recorded at cost, except for investments held for sale or trading assets. Any premium or discount should be amortized using the interest method. Parenthetical disclosures of market values should be made in the financial statements or notes.

- Most institutions invest in mortgage-backed securities which should be classified as a separate line item on the statement of financial condition.

- Savings institutions that are members of the Federal Home Loan Bank system are required to maintain a specified investment in shares of FHLB stock and be insured.

- Disclosures should be made in the notes to financial statements of the composition of savings accounts by interest rates and maturities.

- Short-term and long-term advances can be obtained from the Federal Home Loan Bank. Appropriate note disclosures should be made.

- The statement of operations is usually reported on a "net interest income" basis (interest expense is deducted from interest revenues).

- The provisions for loan losses is usually reported as a deduction from net interest income.
Disclosure Checklists--General

Many auditors and accountants find it helpful to use checklists as practice aids in the preparation of financial statements and reports. Some firms have developed their own checklists for internal use, and may also have specialized checklists to meet the needs of their practices, such as checklists for clients in particular industries or clients that report to the SEC. Some state CPA societies have developed checklists as practice aids which may be available to other practitioners as well as to their own members. Some commercial publishers also include checklists in certain of their publications. However, authoritative literature does not require the use of such checklists, nor does it prescribe their format or content, which may vary.

Checklists typically consist of a number of brief questions or statements that are accompanied by references to Statements on Auditing Standards, Statements on Standards for Accounting and Review Services, Statements of Financial Accounting Standards, Accounting Principles Board Opinions and Accounting Research Bulletins. Some checklists also include references to FASB Interpretations, and Industry Audit Guides. The extent of detail included in checklists varies with the judgment of the preparers on how extensively to refer to and highlight authoritative literature without developing a checklist that is too long and unwieldy. Accordingly, checklists may serve as convenient memory aids but cannot be used as a substitute for direct references to the authoritative literature.

Checklists usually provide for checking off or initialling each question or point to show that it has been considered. The format used in this booklet is a typical one; it provides for "yes," "no," and "not applicable" answers and presumes that remarks would be prepared on separate cross-referenced memorandums. Some preparers, however, prefer to include space for remarks in the body of the checklist while others prefer alternative checklist formats. For example, a checklist format may provide for the following set of answers: "not applicable," "not material," "in statements," and "in notes" (with provisions for indicating a cross reference to the specific statement caption or note). Another format may provide for only two answers, "disclosed" and "not applicable." Firms and practitioners who develop their own checklists should adopt formats that suit their needs and preferences.

Disclosure checklists are generally accompanied by caveats that include all of the following points:

- Use of the checklists requires the exercise of individual professional judgment and may likely require some modification based on the circumstances of individual engagements.

- The checklists are not all-inclusive and are not intended to present minimum requirements.
Users need to modify the checklists for any pronouncements issued subsequent to those mentioned in the checklist.

If widespread circulation is expected, the preparers also generally stress the nonauthoritative or unofficial status of the checklists and disclaim responsibility for the way they may be used.

Independent Auditor's Report

To the Board of Directors and Stockholders

We have audited the accompanying statement of financial condition of Sample Stock Savings and Loan Association as of September 30, 19X2 and 19X1, and the related statements of operations, stockholders' equity, and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the association's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Sample Stock Savings and Loan Association as of September 30, 19X2 and 19X1, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the years then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Investment securities. Investment securities, except for marketable equity securities, are stated at cost, adjusted for amortization of premiums, and accretion of discounts on purchase. Marketable equity securities have been stated at the lower of aggregate cost or market. At September 30, 19X1, market exceeded cost on these securities, and, as a result, they were carried at cost. A valuation allowance (reducing the carrying value of investment securities to market) was established at September 30, 19X2, by a charge to stockholders' equity. The amount of this valuation allowance ($46) represents the net unrealized loss on investment securities.

Loan commitment fees. Nonrefundable fees received for commitments to make or purchase loans in the future are deferred together with certain direct costs of underwriting the commitments. For commitments issued to make or purchase loans at market interest rates established at the time the commitments are funded (floating rate commitments), fees and certain direct costs are amortized ratably over the commitment period. For commitments issued to make or purchase loans at market rates established at the time the commitments are issued (fixed-rate commitments), fees and certain direct costs are amortized over the combined commitment (on the straight-line method) and loan (on the interest method) period. Unamortized fixed-rate commitment fees are recognized as income at the time the loans are made or purchased transactions settled.

Loan origination fees, discounts, and premiums. The portion of loan origination fees and certain direct costs of underwriting and closing loans is deferred. The deferred fees and discounts received in connection with mortgage loans made and purchased are amortized to income over the life of mortgage loans, using the interest method. Premiums on purchased loans are generally amortized using the interest method.

Unearned income on home improvement and mobile home loans is amortized over the term of loans using the interest method.

Real estate and other assets acquired in settlement of loans. Real estate and other assets acquired in settlement of loans are recorded at the balance of the loan or at estimated fair value, whichever is less, at the date acquired, plus capital improvements made thereafter to facilitate sale. Adjustments are made to reflect declines, if any, in net realizable values below the recorded amounts. Costs of holding real estate acquired in settlement of loans are reflected in income currently. Gains on sales of such real estate are taken into income based on the buyer's initial and continuing investment in the property. Other assets acquired in settlement of loans consist primarily of reacquired mobile homes.

Depreciation. The association computes depreciation and amortization generally on the straight-line method for both financial reporting and federal income tax purposes. The estimated useful lives used to compute depreciation and amortization are building, forty years; equipment, three to fifteen years; and leasehold improvements, over the life of the lease or the life of the improvements, whichever is less.

Allowance for losses. It is the policy of the association to provide valuation allowances for estimated losses on loans and real estate when a significant and permanent decline in value occurs. In providing valuation allowances, costs of holding real estate including the cost of capital are considered. Major loans, real estate owned including development projects, and major lending areas are reviewed periodically to determine potential problems at an early date. The association's experience has shown that foreclosures on loans result in some loss. Therefore, in addition to allowances for specific loans, the association makes a provision for losses on properties based in part on experience and in part on prevailing market conditions. Additions to allowances are charged to earnings.

Income taxes. Deferral of income taxes results primarily from the practice of preparing tax returns on the cash basis of accounting, while the financial statements are prepared on the accrual basis of accounting, and from different methods of accounting for loan fees.

The investment tax credit is accounted for on the flow-through method.

The association enters into purchases of securities under agreements to resell (repurchase agreements). The amounts advanced under these agreements represent short-term loans and are reflected as receivables in the statement of financial condition. The securities underlying the agreements are book entry securities. During the period, the securities were delivered by appropriate entry into the association's account maintained at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York (or MBS Clearing Corporation for GNMA securities) or into a third-party custodian's account designated by the association under a written custodial agreement that explicitly recognizes the association's interest in the securities. At September 30, 19X2, these agreements matured within ninety days. The agreements relating to mortgage-backed certificates were agreements to resell substantially identical securities. At September 30, 19X2, no material amount of agreements to resell securities purchased was outstanding with any individual dealer. Securities purchased under agreements to resell averaged $25 and $24 during 19X2 and 19X1, and the maximum amounts outstanding at any month-end during 19X2 and 19X1 were $29 and $27 respectively.

The association enters into sales of securities under agreements to repurchase (reverse repurchase agreements). Fixed-coupon reverse repurchase agreements are treated as financings, and the obligations to repurchase securities sold are reflected as a liability in the statement of financial condition. The dollar amount of securities underlying the agreements remains in the asset accounts. The securities underlying the agreements are book entry securities. During the period, the securities were delivered by appropriate entry into the counterparties' accounts maintained at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York (or MBS Clearing Corporation for GNMA securities). At September 30, 19X2, these agreements had a weighted-average interest rate of 8.92 percent (9.23 percent at September 30, 19X1) and matured within one year. At September 30, 19X1, five of the agreements relating to mortgage-backed certificates were agreements to repurchase substantially identical securities. At September 30, 19X2, three of the agreements involving mortgage-backed certificates with a book value of $4 and a market value of $4 were transacted with one primary dealer. The mortgage-backed certificates underlying the agreements were delivered to the dealers who arranged the transactions. The dealers may have sold, loaned, or otherwise disposed of such securities to other parties in the normal course of their operations, have agreed to resell to the association substantially identical securities at the maturities of the agreements. Securities sold under agreements to repurchase averaged $10 and $9 during 19X2 and 19X1 and the maximum amounts outstanding at any month-end during 19X2 and 19X1 were $12 and $10 respectively.

Retained earnings. In connection with the insurance of savings accounts, the association is required to maintain a federal insurance reserve. In addition, the association is subject to the reserve requirements of the state regulatory authorities. These required reserves, which aggregated approximately $4,050 at September 30, 19X2, represent a statutory restriction on retained earnings and cash dividends may not be charged against such reserves. A summary of retained earnings restricted by statutory requirements and the amounts available for payment of cash dividends appears in the table below:

Retained earnings at September 30, 19X2, includes approximately $4,897 for which federal income tax has not been provided.

The association is allowed a special bad debt deduction limited generally in the current year to 8 percent of otherwise taxable income and subject to certain limitations based on aggregate loans and savings account balances at the end of the year. If the amounts that qualify as deductions for federal income tax purposes are later used for purposes other than for bad debt losses, including distributions in liquidation, they will be subject to federal income tax at the then current corporate rate.

In 19X2 and 19X1, $5 and $7, respectively, of the vested benefit portion of the projected benefit obligation were settled through the purchase of nonparticipating annuity contracts for certain retired participants and lump sum payments for certain terminated participants. As a result, the association recognized gains of $2 in 19X2 and 19X1, respectively.

Lease commitments. Rental under long-term operating leases for property amounted to $92, in 19X2 and $56, in 19X1. The amounts have been reduced by rental income of $59, in 19X2 and $59, in 19X1 from subleases of one to three years in duration. Illustrative Savings and Loan Association Financial Statements

Article 9 of SEC Regulation S-X and the SEC Industry Guide 3 provide specific guidance for bank holding companies with respect to the form and content of financial statements and statistical disclosure requirements. In May 1987, the SEC issued Staff Accounting Bulletin No. 69, which expresses certain views of the SEC staff regarding the use of Article 9 and Guide 3 as guidance for disclosures of registrants that are not bank holding companies but are engaged in similar lending and deposit activities. It is anticipated that the Federal Home Loan Bank Board will increasingly expect savings and loans in future filings to apply the relevant requirements of Article 9 and Guide 3. As an example, SAB No. 69 suggests that registrants other than bank holding companies should use the “net interest income” format in the income statement and disclose aggregate market values of investment securities on the face of the statement of financial condition.

The following are some additional disclosures not included in the illustrative savings and loan financial statements but could be found in a typical savings and loan financial statement.

For SEC registrants, a five-year summary of selected financial data in a comparative columnar form which would report as a minimum the following selected financial data: total assets, total loans, total investments, total deposits, total borrowings, total net worth, total interest income, total interest expense, income (loss) from continuing operations, net income (loss).
