Every year at the University of Mississippi, the culture of life on campus is celebrated with the May Queen celebration. This year's ceremony was held on May 6, 1949, with Miss Biola Van Meter being named the 1949 May Queen. Van Meter, a sophomore at the University of Mississippi, was chosen by her peers for her grace, beauty, and scholastic achievements.

To the Editor of The Mississippian:

I am writing to express my concern regarding the recent controversy surrounding the May Queen selection process. The process is flawed and must be reformed.

Filming Of Movie Attracts Local Talent; Leave Us Face It: We've Gone Hollywood

BY ALVIN KREBS

It could not be said that the University of Mississippi is a hotbed of Hollywood, but there are always those who demand proof of a talent in the fair land of Oxford. At least one can imagine the success that will befall that little community at Ole Miss soon.

In fact, the town of Oxford and the University of Mississippi will never be the same. Let's face it: we've gone Hollywood.

There are always those who demand proof of a talent in the fair land of Oxford. At least one can imagine the success that will befall that little community at Ole Miss soon.

Besides the hundreds of students who spend their every free hour hanging the MGM company filming "Intruder in the Dust" in this vicinity, for the purpose of watching the dancing of scenes, several students have played their parts in the movie.

J. Dulan, Truck Driver

The most active of these, of course, will be Jerry Jack Osmond, star football player and would-be president of the Associated Student Body. Jack plays the part of a truck driver in the opening scenes of the picture. He says...

"We decided to add this sort of stuff to our lives, just to be in the movies. He gave us a look at what we might be doing in the future, and we're glad to play any role in the project. The sound of the credits rolling, the camera zooming in...it's all exciting!"

Mrs. Torr, of Oxford, is looking forward to the premiere of the movie "Intruder in the Dust," which is scheduled for release soon. She says...

"I've always been interested in the film industry, and to see the movie being made right here in Oxford is a dream come true. I'm sure it will be a success!"

Mrs. Torr, Mr. Dulan, and Jerry Jack Osmond are just a few of the students who have landed roles in the movie. Many others have been cast as extras or background characters.

The University of Mississippi has surely taken Hollywood by storm. The future of film in Oxford looks bright, and the university community is eagerly awaiting the premiere of "Intruder in the Dust."

May It Please The Court
A Report From The Legal Mines
Proposed by R. Bui 'Allian

Sunday sequence...

Plans for summer law school are rapidly getting into shape with pre-registration which is now taking place. The session runs similar to a regular semester and will consist of our usual fourteen weeks minus three, but there will be Evening additions for the Winter. These additions being proposed for the Spring, and the Winter session is the last, having been used graduate work, and as a regular faculty member. There will be a mandatory requirement of a law school graduation for the probationary professor in this phase. He was with us last summer in the same capacity and was well received.

MINORITIES

There has been a noted increase in the race in Tallahassee due to the growing number of people being educated. The extension of the University's faculty includes a number of minority graduates. This fact is important because it will, indirectly or directly, affect minority education. The University's policy is to admit as many minority students as possible. It is the hope of the University that this policy will continue to be successful.

BACKWASH

By B-GO

The building commission of the state spent part of the past week in Tallahassee and we have been informed by the Governor that the University has so far been granted two million dollars for the extension of the University. This is quite a sum of money and it will be used to construct new buildings and to improve the present ones.

Beef, beans, and bologna are being sold in the student union for ten cents a pound. This is a good deal and it is hoped that the students will take advantage of it.

N O T E S

Many students have been hospitalized recently due to injuries sustained in the games and dances. The students are advised to take care of themselves and to avoid participation in these activities if they are not in good health.

AIRPLANE BASES

An airplane base will be established in Tallahassee shortly. It is expected that the base will be a great blessing to the people of the state, as it will provide a means of transportation for those who are unable to travel by road or rail.

GUNSHOTS

There have been several instances of violence in Tallahassee in recent days. The police are on the alert and are taking all necessary precautions to prevent any further incidents.

YOUR FUTURE IS HERE IN MISSISSIPPI

We read every day of Mississippi people who are doing well and growing up in all right—more power to them. Let us go ahead and favor those young folks reaching Mississippi. There are opportunities galore here. It’s true that Mississippi is underdeveloped and uncultivated. But let us try to feed them. After all, what are we being educated for anyway?

This Exodus to other states must stop if Mississippi is ever to regain its strength that was taken away from her by the war. The Lexington war was indeed a war of poverty, poverty of spirit, and poverty of resources. But it was not a war of poverty. This poverty must be eradicated by the state. It must not continue for another day.

The state is poor. But let us try to make it better. There are opportunities galore here. The state is underdeveloped. But let us try to develop it. There are opportunities galore here. The state is uncultivated. But let us try to cultivate it. There are opportunities galore here. The state is uneducated. But let us try to educate it. There are opportunities galore here. The state is underemployed. But let us try to employ it. There are opportunities galore here. The state is underinvested. But let us try to invest it. There are opportunities galore here. The Force Act

Lately several departments of the University have almost come to blows with the stipulations. In one of these departments the students should attend certain lectures sponsored by the departments, at times other than the normal hours classes are held.

It’s all well and good for us to be able to hear ex- ceptors brought to the University, but we wonder if its ex- actly fair for certain instructors to count as a cut one’s attendance in the course when the department required that all students take a course in the department.

A few of the science classes are a little too cold for the students that attend. The students are not satisfied with the examinations and the grading system. The students are not satisfied with the examinations and the grading system. The students are not satisfied with the examinations and the grading system. The students are not satisfied with the examinations and the grading system. The students are not satisfied with the examinations and the grading system.

Beside, forcing students to attend outside lectures has the hand of a dictator. It is embarrassing to know that a so-and-so expects us to be in his class.

Evaluation Is Part Of Honor System

A step along the road to the installation of an honor system will be made whenever the proposed teacher evalution system is introduced.

Students who have talked to are all in favor of the evaluation system and have shown their sincere interest in the matter. We would like to mention here an instance which has happen- ed at the University of Michigan which is a similar evaluation system. OUTE was not found that bore any injuring or incrimine criti- cism.

The question of whether or not the student should sign his or her name to the evaluation is being answered by the following.

The third year student in the class is the best one, but he will not be forced to sign a rating sheet. We believe, and it is believed that the teaching community will be convinced through this action, we will get more cooperation. If teachers are not going to play by the ASB's rules, then they should not be president of the ASB; they will be appointed to perform any helpful comments and criticism.

Our plan is to acquaint the students with its benefits and how the system will work. We will both of the university and the students if this evaluation of our instructors is successful, then we will prove that we students are capable of remember- ing our moral obligations. By criticizing fairly, we will realize the overall wholesome effect on our own and the students.

From The Prexy's Office

The election is over, and congratulations to the student body for voting so eagerly. It is a healthy sign for the students to accomplish this with the upperclassmen, that we have reached this milestone.

The Executive Council is now in charge of the student body, and will work to make sure that the system in effect today will be accomplished by the upperclassmen, the upperclassmen, the upperclassmen.

The inauguration of the new Executive Council, who were elected at the May 5th election, will take place at a later date.

The inauguration will be at College's Club and will be a festive occasion for the students.

Great weather we’re having. But like many of us, it has its peaks. Spring— it’s wonderful. Wows down in Mary Reese museum the other day. Notice young fresh faces looking intensely at picture of young girl clad in blue jeans. She looked at her hard work in increasing shapes. She looked at her hard work in increasing shapes. She looked at her hard work in increasing shapes.

What are you waiting for, visit Autumn?

By Dr. B. Haring

Ole Miss history is high in the annals of student activities—broadly interpreted. A group of talented and enthusiastic students, under the leadership of Dr. B. Haring, have made Ole Miss one of the most dynamic and successful institutions in the South.

The growth of Ole Miss is due in a large part to the vision and determination of Dr. B. Haring. His leadership, combined with the efforts of the talented faculty, has resulted in the development of a strong and vibrant campus community.

Under Dr. B. Haring's guidance, Ole Miss has achieved a number of significant milestones. The campus has expanded, new facilities have been constructed, and the academic program has been strengthened. The university has also become a more diverse and inclusive institution, with students from a wide range of backgrounds.

In addition to the academic achievements, Ole Miss has been successful in extracurricular activities. The university has won numerous awards and recognition, both on campus and abroad. The student body has been active in community service, student government, and athletics.

The past year has been particularly significant for Ole Miss. The university has celebrated its 50th anniversary, and a number of special events were scheduled to commemorate this milestone. These events included a parade, apicnic, and a football game.

In conclusion, Ole Miss has a bright future. With the leadership of Dr. B. Haring and the dedicated efforts of the faculty and students, the university will continue to thrive and excel in the years to come.

Summer Plans... It seems that every time we sit down to write this grand and glorious column we mention a little bit more about the coming season. It also seems that our opening paragraph is comprised entirely of adjectives describing these same plans. And while we all say we'll drop dead for a week and drink the old-fashioned, a certain Mr. Adolph Rupp will attempt to impart some of his knowledge to all mankind.

This program, inaugurated last year, will be held the first two days of June. The two overexposed folks are following in the footsteps of football coach Frank Lowey of Notre Dame and basketball coach Knute Rockne of the University of Washington.

Culling Lights... Ole Miss is without a doubt maintaining the high standards of lecturers for this clinic by having Adolph Rupp and Roy. Rupp was general manager of the school and could have been made for handling the football coach. He is at present the head football coach at the University of Missouri. He is also the originator of the modern system which Johnny Vaught has used with marked success.

Faulkner’s work this summer will probably take up where Entry left off last year. Whereas Lowey concerned himself more with the quarterback line any others, Faulkner will more than likely work with the team as a whole.

Line play is especially critical in the Big 7, with man-to-man battles taking place at every position. It is this combat in the forward wall of the squad which can make or break a winning play. One thing is certain—Faulkner will be hard pressed to do anything but win. He will meet this summer. The majority of the licensed in the Red-Rock gage the leader on the idea of the material the Missouri mentor will be working with.

The Baron... Likely to be a bit more familiar with the name of Adolph Rupp, who will conduct the basketball lectures. Those of you who have been acquainted with a plenty of theory of offensive tactics than Bill has last year. Rupp is exactly the opposite. Kentucky came under his grasp and passed down all-around scoring ability. He is the acknowledged dynamo behind the barons of the gridiron and will work here his work should be a treat for one and all.

The administration of the Missouri basketball clinic is a great deal of credit for this program. Braving men each year who are exercising their brains to the limit of the minds of the clinic will not only aid the university athletic program, but will benefit high schools and basketball college throughout the state.

The Cinderella... Those of you who have been waiting for the opening of track season need not wait any more for tomorrow the Thermic of Coach Wes King will be held with the Lyric of Smith in a big battle of the state. Missing from the ranks of last year’s unbeaten squad are Will Goodson, not in the Sprague of Bill Rocken. When all the players have been man-to-man and will be beat by the Squadron. With the用工 four, against our cautious, and the craftiness of eating behind this program for a long haul.

The future of the South depends on the way in which its resources are handled, Dr. Paul S. Reaves, professor of biology at the University of Mississippi, declared in a recent address.

Speaking to 85 delegates from 13 Southern colleges and universities, attending the Ole Miss Biological Conference, sponsored by Delta Kappa Epsilon, biology professor, Dr. Reaves declared that the South is in many ways the richest of all parts of the United States.

Dr. Reaves said that all of the natural resources of the South are utilized. This includes agriculture, cattle, and other livestock, as well as the forests and minerals.

He also stated that the South has a great potential for industrial development, which could provide new employment opportunities for its residents.
