Attention Technical Staff: CPE Opportunity In-House The AICPA is holding a day-long course, "Governmental Auditing and Accounting Update (GAU)," on Monday, December 11, from 9 to 5 in the Board Room of the New York office. This course enables participants to become familiar with the new pronouncements recently issued by the AICPA, GASB, FASB, GAO, and OMB and to apply these new requirements efficiently and effectively. One of the Institute's highest-rated instructors, Bill Broadus, formerly of the GAO and American University, will be the discussion leader for this course. It offers participants 8 hours of CPE credit. The class is already at 50% capacity, so interested Team AICPA members should enroll as soon as possible.

New Team Structure of the AICPA Barry Melancon's vision for a team-based AICPA is one step closer to fruition. Rather than being divided into cost centers and divisions, the people who work at the Institute, known collectively as Team AICPA, will be members of different teams. Below is a complete list of team numbers and names.
